CORNHUSKERS TRIM THE COYOTES—SCORE 21 TO 0

WESLEYAN FIGHT HOLDS NEBRASKA TO LOW SCORE

Two Touchdowns Came in Quick Order at Close of Game—Passes Successful

Nebraska did the expected Saturday when she defeated Wesleyan in a dull game by a score of 21 to 0.

Features of the game were scarce. The two most notable were the spirit taken by Nebraska in the last five minutes and the fighting spirit exhibited by the Methodists during the entire game.

Cook was easily the Cornhusker star although Dobson and Otoupalik both played an excellent game. For Wesleyan Cozier and Blodgett did the best work while Grove did well on the defensive.

Good Defensive Games

Shaw and Corey, at tackles, played fine defensive games and Doyle did some good line bucking.

Gardiner and Otoupalik had charge of the punting and each did excellent work. Their punts averaged over thirty-five yards.

Cook carried the ball in over half of Nebraska's plays and gained practically every time he carried the ball. He made one touchdown and was on the flipping end of both the forward passes which resulted in the other two.

Cook Made Touchdown

The game opened with Wesleyan on the offensive, but they were forced to punt on the fourth down. Nebraska couldn't gain and Gardiner punted. On the next play Corey recovered a Wesleyan fumble on Wesleyan's 18-yard line. After making three yards in two downs Dobson made fourteen yards, on a wide end run, to the Wesleyan 1-yard line. Cook slipped over the line on the next play for the first touchdown.

Corey Kicked Goal

Score: Nebraska, 7; Wesleyan, 0. Wesleyan here took a brace and for three quarters played the Cornhuskers to a standstill. During this time Nebraska gained many times as many yards as Wesleyan, but was unable to get near the Methodist's goal.

About the middle of the third quarter the Cornhuskers started to fight.

With Cook and Dobson doing all the lugging, the ball was carried to the Coyote's 7-yard line from the middle of the field, without a stop. Wesleyan threatened to stop the rush here, and for two downs held the Cornhuskers for no gain.

Strategy Successful

Cook then sprung a nice piece of strategy. On a fake end run he shot the ball to Otoupalik who was waiting across the goal line, and Nebraska's second score was made.

Corey Kicked Goal

Score: Nebraska, 14; Wesleyan, 0. The third touchdown came in short order. On the second play after the kick-off the Coyotes tried a forward pass, but the ball fell into the arms of Proctor who raced back twenty yards to the Wesleyan 15-yard line.

Cook again outgassed the Wesleyanites and duplicated the play which had resulted in a touchdown a short time before. It was again successful and Otoupalik went over, after receiving the pass for the last touchdown.

Corey again kicked goal. Score: Nebraska, 21; Wesleyan, 0.

ALUMNUS WRITES OF USE OF SALT WATER IN REINFORCED CONCRETE

"The Effect of the Use of Salt Water for Gaging Concrete on the Life of the Reinforcing Imbedded Therein," is the title of an article written by J. L. Harrison, '08, for the quarterly bulletin of the Bureau of Public Works. Mr. Harrison is acting supervising engineer with this bureau at Manila, P. I.

As the title suggests, the use of salt water in reinforced concrete greatly quickens deterioration, especially in coastal localities. Unless another definite cause can be ascertained, the number of structures which are showing unmistakable signs of failure is already sufficiently large to warrant a serious consideration of the question as to whether reinforced concrete construction in the Philippine Islands ought not to be abandoned for coastal localities.

In the United States the use of salt water is not so dangerous because the humidity is not as high as that in the Philippines.

WILSON BOOSTER BANQUET WEDNESDAY

Speakers of National Prominence Secured by Student Political Organization

The University Woodrow Wilson club banquet will be held Wednesday evening at the Lincoln hotel. The day is Woodrow Wilson Day, and those interested in the re-election of President Wilson will be requested by the committee in charge to display Wilson photographs and campaign buttons. National speakers have been secured for the banquet as well as many novelty features in the way of entertainment.

The following committee for the sale of banquet tickets was announced last week: Joe Flaherty, Max Miller, M. M. Garrett, John Loder, Ted Metcalfe, Willard Folsom, Jack Lane, Victor Halligan, Bernard Bauman, George Grimes, H. G. Pressly, R. B. Waring and Curtis Kimball.

SECOND NUMBER OF AWGWAN IS PUBLISHED

The second number of Awgwan was issued last week. As usual the magazine is typographically beautiful, and it is full of the usual jokes, editorials and cartoons, with the co-ed featuring as the big University problem. The cover design is especially appropriate, in view of the approaching mid-semester examinations.

Secret Fraternity, "Order of Stuck-Ups," Aftermath of Trip

Many and weird are the hotel stickers that have appeared on the instrument cases of the members of the band who made the trip west with the football team. Curiosity over this fact, when it was known that no stops were made at most of the towns, brought to light the fact of the organization in the University of a new fraternity to be known as the Loyal Order of Stuck-Ups.

The band, when the train came to a five-minute halt at the most important towns along the road, would drop off and tune up a lively air for a few moments. One member was delegated at each stop, however, to go up to the best looking hotel and grab a handful of stickers and bring them back.

So the band men have come home with brilliantly colored labels bearing legends: Grand Hotel—Billings;

JOHN A. MAGUIRE TO SPEAK TOMORROW AT CONVOCATION

John A. Maguire, representative of this district in congress for six terms, and running against Congressman C. F. Reavis at the election November 7, will address the students at Convocation tomorrow morning in Memorial hall.

The subject of Mr. Maguire's talk has not been announced.

Congressman Reavis, his opponent, spoke at convocation a week ago, advocating reasonable preparedness through the establishment of a thorough system of citizen soldiery, and denouncing the proposition of a large standing army as well as universal military training.

DIRECTORY LARGER THAN EVER BEFORE

University Y. M. C. A. Will Publish Its Largest University Directory This Week

The University Directory, which will be published this week by the University Y. M. C. A., will be larger than any previous directory, on account of the half a thousand or more students registered this year in excess of former years.

Final proofs on the book have been read, and it will go to press this morning. The directory contains the name, telephone number, address, year in school, college, and affiliations of every student, and address, telephone numbers and college of every faculty member. Complete information regarding various student organizations, fraternities and sororities and other matter of interest to the student is included in the book.

The book will be sold upon the campus this week. The price will be twenty cents. Sixteen hundred copies will be printed, several hundred more than have ever been put out before.

DRAMATIC DEPARTMENT TO HOLD FIRST OF SERIES OF MEETINGS

The first of a series of departmental meetings of the Dramatic department, will be held in the Temple theatre, Wednesday evening at 7:15 o'clock. Leon Snyder will give "Monsieur Beaucaire."

The monthly meetings of the department will be attended by all the 260 students in the Dramatic department and the work presented, which will include practically every type of dramatic art, will be that of the students themselves.

600 STUDENTS MIX AT HALLOWE'EN PARTY

SPIRIT OF OLD HOME TOWN PREVAILS AT MIXER FRIDAY NIGHT

Freshmen Take Big Part—Real Pumpkin Pies Bring Memories of Home —Floor Crowded With Dancers

The spirit of the old home town prevailed at the Halloween mixer given in the Armory Friday night.

Over 600 students, freshman and senior alike, enjoyed the unique party, reminiscent of husking bees back home on the farm.

In decorations, stunts, refreshments, and the dancing itself, the simple get-together spirit predominated to an unusual degree. The committee in charge converted the Armory into a festooned hall, with University colors mixing with the brown and yellow of Halloween. Ciders, doughnuts, and home-made punkun pies, with apples that could be had for the bobbing, were served during the intermission. Clifford Scott's orchestra furnished music for the dancers.

Many Freshmen

A big number of freshman boys and girls, remembering the good time given them at the All-freshman mixer two weeks ago, availed themselves of the opportunity to meet members of their own and other classes. First year students almost monopolized the dancing floor, and when punkun pies, cider, and doughnuts just like you get at home were proffered, stamped the refreshment stand behind which girls dressed in appropriate Halloween garb were serving.

Freshmen took an unusual interest in the apple-bobbing contest too, for to enter oneself in it was the only way of getting big, red apples to top off the pie. Several tubs were placed around the floor, half-filled with water, on which floated a fleet of apples.

Each tub was guarded by a judge, who saw to it that fair play prevailed. On hands and knees the men bent over the tubs and desperately bit at the bouncing apples, riding the water like cork. Co-eds, when they entered, met with better success than the men.

A mysterious clique of gypsy fortune tellers mixed in the crowd and later stationed themselves in booths where they were visited by men and co-eds curious for a glimpse into the future. The strange power of the fortune tellers was said to have been truly marvelous; in addition to reading the future some of them volunteered the even more difficult feat of relating the past.

Dancing in Armory

Dancing on the big Armory floor was as usual the big part of the program, and Clifford Scott's orchestra was worked overtime furnishing music for the swaying crowd. The object of all mixers, to furnish a means of getting the student body together for mutual enjoyment, was probably as nearly realized Friday night as at any previous party. The spirit of Halloween prevailed throughout.

The hall was very elaborately decorated. One of the features of the decoration was the big husk of corn, dressed up in Halloween garb.

The committee which had charge of the mixer, a part of the general mixer committee, was headed by Lulu Mae Coe, assistant to Dean Mary Graham. The other members were Kate Helzer, Gladys Holland, G. V. Cast, George Grimes, Mae Youngson, John Riddell and Anne Russel.

The party was well-chaperoned by a large number of faculty members. Serving in this capacity were Prof. and Mrs. G. O. Virtue, Prof. and Mrs. H. W. Caldwell, Prof. Amanda Heppner, Prof. L. W. Chase, Prof. L. T. Skinner, Prof. H. J. Young, Prof. W. C. Brenke and Prof. A. D. Schrag.

BUSY WEEK AHEAD FOR UNIVERSITY

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE LOOMS LARGE WITH SPECIAL DAYS

Ames Aggies Coming Saturday—Girls' Football Luncheon Will be Big Affair

The college of agriculture will hold the center of the stage for most of the extra activities of the University during the coming week. Tuesday is the annual lamb-feeders' day at the state farm, and many sheep growers of the state will learn the results of the experiments on feeding that have been conducted at the farm for several months past.

The Agricultural club will give its annual hop next Friday night at Rosewilde. On Saturday the live stock men from the great Omaha markets will visit the farm, returning the call made by the animal husbandry students earlier in the semester.

Football will be in the limelight Saturday when the Cornhuskers meet the Ames Aggies on Nebraska field. The game will have important bearing on the Missouri Valley conference title, as the Aggies have defeated Kansas, and tied Missouri. A victory for Nebraska will give this school the edge for her sixth successive championship. Beethoven Symphony
