SHUMWAY FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

(State Journal, Feb. 25.)
Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 25.—To the Editor of the State Journal: Senator Shumway of Wakefield is a native of Minnesota and was educated in the public schools of the state and graduated from the University of Minnesota in the class of 1882. A month after graduating he settled at Wakefield, Neb., which has been his residence ever since. In 1887 he felt that he ought to give more attention to public offices and was elected on the school board, a position that he has held continuously ever since. He was prominently mentioned for regent of the University in the republican convention of 1889.

He was first elected to the legislature in 1890 as a member of the senate. In the session of 1891 he took a prominent part in saving the farm from the pirates who were trying to sell it for real estate speculation purposes, in special recognition of this work the republican state convention nominated Senator Shumway the following fall as regent of the University and although a very large vote was polled he went down under the populist wave, the ticket being defeated with few exceptions.

He has always been very much interested in everything relating to education, a constant attendant at school meetings, at district associations of teachers and the state teachers' association. For the last three years Senator Shumway has been president of the board of education section of the State Teachers' association; and has always been a leader in the movement to vitalize the public schools and make them respond to the needs of the people.

For twenty years Senator Shumway was always a delegate to the republican state conventions and interested himself in the nomination of good men for the position of regent of the University without regard to partisan expediency.

As a result of his activity along these lines his friends and neighbors insisted on his representing their district in the senate in 1913 and 1916. In the senate of 1913 he introduced and carried through the well known Shumway bill providing for instruction in agriculture in the high schools with some state aid. This bill is considered a model of its kind and has been widely commented on by educators everywhere who are anxious to develop agricultural education in our schools below the University in such a way as to produce the maximum efficiency with the minimum cost to the taxpayer.

In the legislature of 1915 when attacks were made on the University, particularly in the house, Senator Shumway was one of the very best friends of the institution and it is in no small measure due to his firm and unwavering friendship in the senate that the University was able to come through that legislative session in good condition. The friends of the University remember his action a year ago with gratitude. In this legislative session Senator Shumway was the author of a law which requires the normal schools to have a two-year course for the special preparation of teachers in the rural schools.

The people of the state should remember that the position of lieutenant governor is an important one. Anyone who commands the respect of his colleagues as Senator Shumway does is likely to name important committees for conference on educational matters. All friends of the University the normal schools and of rural schools, and particularly of agriculture, ought to rally to the senator and see that he is placed in what may be a strategic position in the next legislature.
