Entered at the postoffice at Lincoln, Nebraska, as second class mail matter under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

The sign that has been hanging over one of the main walks of the campus contrary to the rules of the University, did not have the Registrar's stamp on it and was put up only because of a misunderstanding on the part of nearly everyone who was, or should have been connected with it.

The authorities will try to enforce the rules of the catalogue, which forbid the placing of any sign or advertisement on the campus, except on the bulletin boards, and all signs that do appear will be approved by the Registrar.

It is difficult to refuse the request from a worthy organization for a sign, and the discretionary power will be left entirely with the Registrar, who, from this time on, will be the only man with authority concerning the signs and posters around the school.

The sign over the walk from Twelfth street to University hall will be removed.

Mrs. W. J. Bryan will speak to University women at a suffrage tea in Faculty hall, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Bryan is an inspiring talker and all women who are interested in the least in the suffrage cause will have an excellent opportunity to hear one of Nebraska's most famous women, on a vital subject among all Nebraska women.

When a football team is crippled or in bad condition it is up to the people in the athletic department to see that the six thousand spectators at the game realize this fact, if they expect the team to have sympathy. Few people realized that the team was in bad condition when it played Ames last week, and as a result there was much discouragement and disappointment when the last quarter was over. A convocation, big, enthusiastic and full of pep, when the condition of the team could have been made clear to everyone, would have brought home the realization that chances were slim and that expectations should not be raised very far.

The Forum yesterday contained an article calling attention to the "brand of sportsmanship which has been manifested not only on the campus since the Ames game, but has also found voice in the columns of your paper." If "brand of sportsmanship" means poor school spirit we want to say right now, that there is better school spirit at Nebraska, better feeling toward all of its institutions, and a greater desire to give a friendly boost to all that is for Nebraska, than has been evident in many a day.

The students at Nebraska are human. They know that our football team is one of the very best in the country, and they are mighty proud of it. The spontaneous exhibition, regardless of obstacles, at the arrival of the team from Oregon is a proof of that. But, when they go to a game, expecting the team to win, and win big, and the team doesn't, they cannot help but feel disappointed to put it mildly.

"Bear dope" was given out too freely at the first of the year, in the first place, and now after the students have believed it, and gotten fooled several times they are becoming a wee bit incredulous. It is the cry of "wolf" in real life.

One convocation has been given over to a football rally—and that is the only one this year. No one can deny that football rallies do more good in generating "pep" for a game than anything else. Nebraskans have the right spirit; they are for the team whether there is victory or defeat in store for them; there isn't a man or woman watching a game who hasn't the one word "win" singing through every nerve in his body, and it will always be that way, if they can rely on the predictions and "dope" given out by the authorities, so that they will not have their hopes and expectations shattered in a single blow.

THE DAYS GONE BY

Five Years Ago Today
 The Innocents were boosting the preliminary meeting of the proposed Omaha club.

Doane was next on our football schedule.

The total registration of the school of agriculture was 383, of which ninety-five were women.

Two Years Ago Today
 The Blue Print dividends were issued in the form of a steak roast at Branson's bungalow.

The Union society had completed the re-decorating of its rooms on the third floor of the Temple.

The Komensky club decided at a meeting to sell statues of Komensky for one dollar each. The money raised in this way was to be sent to the Bohemian sufferers in the European struggle.

One Year Ago Today
 Indications showed that about 500 would go to Lawrence on the special train to attend the Kansas-Nebraska football game.

Rev. C. L. Weatherly spoke at convocation on "national preparedness."

Lincoln friends were notified of the marriage of Cordelia E. Linkhart, '11, to Arthur Brooks Simpkins, at Colon, Panama.

ALUMNI NEWS

Grace G. Denny, '07, assistant professor of home economics in the University of Washington at Seattle, has, in addition to work in the university, been giving a series of lectures on textiles in the various department stores of the city.

Miss Denny has done graduate work at the Columbia university. She was a member of the faculty there during the summer 1913 term.

Ethel Westberg, '15, who is teaching in the Hastings public schools, visited the campus yesterday on her way to the Teachers' Association meeting in Omaha.

A bulletin, the greater part written by Dean E. Winchester, '07, on "The Lignite Field of Northwestern South Dakota," has been published by the national department of interior. Mr. Winchester's home is in Washington, D. C.

Capt. Clarence Culver, son of former Adjutant General J. H. Culver of Milford, who was a student in the engineering department here in '92 and '93, is making a record for himself in aviation circles.

He now holds the world's record for sending radio messages from an aeroplane. Until recently this could not be done except by special apparatus which rendered the aeroplane too heavy for practical purposes. Captain Culver has invented a machine which utilizes the exhaust from the aeroplane, and this radio set weighs less than forty-five pounds. He recently sent a message 119 miles from Santa Monica to San Diego, Cal., while flying at the altitude of one and one-half miles. He received a message from a distance of eleven miles, while flying 7,000 feet aloft.

Mary E. Roddy, '04, of Broken Bow, has come to Lincoln to teach in the school of agriculture.

College Atmosphere

The atmosphere most university people live in may be compared to that of a large party of people whirling through space at terrific speed. They take no time to rest themselves in the shady places and no time to observe roadside scenery. Gripping their hats and clutching at almost anything for a support, they hurry through life with jaws set. The mere matter of having time to stop to think no longer counts in the excessive "kultur"; the object is to "get there first."—Daily Kansan.

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

The first thing you'll notice about Tuxedo is the rich, mellow-sweet Burley flavor. And the best thing about it is the on-your-toes snap, and brisk, bracing hustle you get out of it.

"Tux" will smoke out that tobacco-hunger as no other tobacco can, and you can smoke pipeful after pipeful with never a fear—the original Tuxedo Process removes every trace of harshness and "bite".
