Entered at the postoffice at Lincoln, Nebraska, as second class mail matter under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Dr. Charles Gilkey at convocation yesterday said that nearly all questions in life should be answered, not by "either.....or" but by "both.....and," and he hit at a spot very near home to us all. "Both.....and" is a compound conjunction that is not used as frequently as it might be, by some of us. This bit of rhetoric might be put into a broader use and remind us that nearly always there are more than just the two alternatives, "either.....or."

Help boost home-coming.

The University of Minnesota and Illinois will celebrate their home-coming day, the same day that Nebraska celebrates her home-coming day, November 18. Wisconsin will play Minnesota and Illinois will meet Chicago.

A man who did not uncover his head when "America" was played on the field last Saturday, has contributed to the Forum column, today.

He refers us to our "editorial in The Nebraskan of November 6, relative to the failure of men to uncover their heads when 'America' was played."

The editorial was this: Did you notice the men who uncovered their heads when the band played "America"—and the ones who didn't? Another indication of character.

He calls attention, in the first place, to the fact that America is not the national anthem. We have known that for some time. Any person who attends a University where there is a regimental band would be decidedly dull if he had not gathered that fact during the passing of time. Most people learn the "Star Spangled Banner" as the national anthem along about the time they learn how to build blocks and cut pretty maps out of squares of colored paper.

But,—America is one of the most stirring of our patriotic songs, and every patriotic American is thrilled when he hears it played. There are very few who associate the tune with another nation's song, and petty hyphenism is farthest removed from the thoughts of those who are capable of appreciating a thing for what it is meant to be, and not what it is made out to be by some radical sympathizers.

Every true American will uncover his head for "America" and the "Star Spangled Banner" as well as for the other national American anthems that have bound a people closely together by their rousing sentiment and their fine feeling.

FORUM

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 13, 1916.
 Editor Daily Nebraskan,
 Lincoln, Nebraska.

In reference to your editorial comment in the Daily Nebraskan of November 6 relative to the failure of men to uncover their heads when "America" was played I beg to call to your attention the fact that "America" is not the national anthem.

There are some of us who resent the custom of doing deference to the borrowed national air of a foreign country strongly enough to be careless of incurring the displeasure of that portion of the public which is wont to base its estimates of character upon conventional ignorance.

Very truly,
 S. S. BANNER.

THE DAYS GONE BY

Five Years Ago Today

A severe snow storm kept the football team from practice for three days.

Two Years Ago Today

The following parody on "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," appeared in the Daily Nebraskan, written by H. I. Kyle, the athletic editor:
 We beat the "Ichabodites" by a tiny little score,
 We met the grim Coyote, and we kept him from our door,
 We licked the Kansas Aggies as they'd ne'er been licked before,
 And we'll surely get the Jayhawk too.
 Chorus—Glory, glory, etc.

We trounced the Michiganders to the tune of twenty-four,
 The team from Ames we handled in a way that made them sore,
 The Morningsiders went the way the rest had gone before,
 And we'll surely get the Jayhawk too.

One Year Ago Today

Dr. Winfred Hall of Northwestern university, foremost psychologist of this country, delivered a lecture to the cadets on "The Sixth Life of Man."

BRIEF BITS OF NEWS

In spite of the stormy weather Sunday afternoon about thirty people attended the exhibit in the art gallery. People are coming in from nearby towns and even from out of the state to see these pictures.

A large number of the students in the fine arts department are working from live models. The department has one model a week and some of these have been very interesting types. The aim is to vary the types as much as possible from week to week.

The Columbia football squad is practicing under artificial lights, at night this week and next. There is a possibility that strong electric lamps will be used instead of the acetylene torches which have been tested on other college gridiron fields.—Ex.

SHOW UP STRONG IN TRYOUTS

tine spoke on the value of organization, prophesying victory if the class got together and worked hard next Saturday. Ralph Thiesen, chairman of the general committee, and Roy Harney, representing the Innocents, told the new men how it was done in the good old days. Marion Shaw led the crowd in University yells and finished off with some impromptu class cheers, which were shouted enthusiastically.

Discovering several sophomores among them after the tryouts were well under way, the freshmen dropped their work for a moment and with yells of "Put them out!" pushed the intruders across the Armory floor and down the stairs.

Freshmen Representatives

Following is a list of the freshman representatives chosen at the Olympics tryouts last night:

Heavyweight wrestling: Munn, Fairbury.

Lightweight wrestling: Campbell, Jansen.

Heavyweight boxing: Munn, Fairbury.

Men for the tug of war and pushball contest will be chosen today and tomorrow, and all likely candidates who have not done so, should report to Olympics Chairman Augustine.

Sophomores Tonight

The mass meeting any tryouts of the sophomores will be held in the chapel at 7 o'clock tonight. President Harnsberger and Chairman Wenger will deliver a few peppery verbal blows, more detailed plans for the intended massage of the freshmen will be laid, and contests for representation in the different events run off.

Schedule for Events

The schedule for the events was formulated by the committee, providing for the first event, lightweight wrestling, to commence at 9 o'clock sharp, and calling for the finish of the pole fight at 11:45. The length of the program demands that the events go off exactly on the dot, and representatives in the events are warned to be prepared to conform to the schedule, which follows:

Lightweight wrestling, 9:00.

Lightweight boxing, 9:15.

Tug-of-war, 9:35.

Middleweight wrestling, 10:00.

Middleweight boxing, 10:15.

Pushball, 10:30.

Heavyweight wrestling, 11:00.

Heavyweight boxing, 11:15.

Pole fight, 11:30.
