GREETES DR. GILKEY

that, it is going to transform in the future," he said.

Our present comfortable condition of prosperity was jolted by Dr. Gilkey, who quoted eminent men of today who despaired of the lack of spiritual exhilaration which Canada, through her connection with the big war, receives, and America misses.

After the War

"Will we really grow soft and flabby with this prosperity?" Dr. Gilkey asked himself. Eminent prophets foresee for America one of two things after the war—either we will be involved in financial depression and begin to feel—and save our souls—or else we will continue in our present prosperity, feeding off the suffering of Europe,—and lose our souls.

"Ask me as a loyal and patriotic American, which I prefer and I would answer without hesitation, 'the first.' 'What profit it a nation if it gain the whole world and lose its own soul?'"

As a parting word, Dr. Gilkey, after he had emphasized the fact that every student must answer this great question in his life by "both—and" explained that religious life was experience, not knowledge. One must get it, not from books, but first hand. In this respect, it is like playing golf or going swimming. One might lie down on the floor and go through all the motions of swimming, but not until he had "plunged in" and begun to paddle, could he really know what swimming was.

"And when you plunge in," he added as a closing admonition, "remember that there are two banks from which you may dive: the bank of common service, and the bank of personal experience, that desire to know about the Infinite—the eager search for the living God."

Bessie Townsend, '16, visited the department of pharmacy yesterday.

To Your Alma Mater

In the crispness of the evening,
When the brown leaves speak of frost;
On the cowpaths, people leaving,
Right inside feel kind o' lost.

The chimes are slowly sounding,
"Lead me on, thou kindly light,"
And the echo says resounding,
"Where are my dear friends to-night?"

None can hear the tones appealing,
With his breast at liberty,
For within there is a feeling
Which seems to speak most sacredly:

"This is you dear Alma Mater—
This, the dearest school I know,
And the others round about you
Are your brothers—treat them so!"

New Dentistry Building for U. of P.
The University of Pittsburgh is to have a new dentistry building, is the latest news from the "Pitt Weekly." The first year class this year filled the present building, and since there are two more classes to be accommodated, the new of a new building was too apparent to be longer disregarded. The new addition will be one of the finest of its kind in the country and will cost about $3,000,000. The curriculum will be enlarged to embrace a four-year course, and the new building will accommodate all four classes.—Ex.

Purdue

It has been decided to discontinue the Purdue Circus and find a suitable substitute. A committee was appointed to examine the exercises at other universities and report on them to the class. A pageant may be adopted as a substitute.—Ex.

CHINA NEEDS MUCH FROM AMERICA

giving them the wrong impression of American customs. The Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. associations which might make up for this wrong idea, are very poorly equipped. There is nothing which is more needed and which offers better opportunities for real service.

Much is being done through the departments of physical training. Through this means the women have been trained for work because this department does not frighten them like the Bible study work does. This attitude toward Bible classes is being changed very noticeably however, and at present China is sending ten people over to the United States each year to receive education, in order that they may be fitted to return to work in their own land. This offer is open to those who pass the competitive examinations, and last year ten girls came to be educated. It is important that the Americans receive these foreigners in the proper way and do all possible in assisting them, according to Miss Fagundus.

Want Seventeen Secretaries

This year the Y. W. C. A. sent four secretaries to China and have two more who will go as soon as the necessary funds can be furnished. Next year the call will be for seventeen secretaries and it is up to the Y. W. C. A. girls of this land to send this number.

Miss Fagundus closed by saying that we are beginning to think of the Chinese more as friends than as foreigners and think of things in a "world way." The work in China offers many opportunities and the purpose of the work is "to love, not to be loved—to serve, not to be served."

Kate Helzer presided at the meeting and there was a vocal solo by Winnie Mann.

Ludwick Johnson, ex-'18, of Kearney, will spend the week-end at the Alpha Tau Omega house.

Jessie Powers, of Chicago, who has been visiting Marguerite Lonam, '19, left for her home yesterday.

Isadore Sheldon, '16, of Nehawka, will arrive tomorrow to visit at the Kappa Kappa Gamma house.

Phebe Folsom, '17, will leave Monday to spend two weeks in New York. Miss Folsom will also attend the Yale-Harvard football game, November 25th.
