Published every day during the college year. Subscription, per semester, $1.

Entered at the postoffice at Lincoln, Nebraska, as second class mail matter under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

The Daily Nebraskan subscription campaign starts Monday. The paper will be better than ever next semester, and the subscription list of the "best University daily in the country" should correspond to its reputation.

There is just one "reminder," now that the social season is at its height,—don't forget the chaperones. Very few people enjoy chaperoning a dancing party under ordinary conditions. They must look their best, smile their best, and grace the uncomfortable seats around the hall while the young people who are enjoying their kindness, flit around obviously unconscious of their existence. A few minutes spent helping a chaperone should be a pleasure and it is a courtesy that would be well to be cultivated.

Rabindranath Tagore, Indian poet, teacher and philosopher, will be in Lincoln Monday, on his return to his native country. Sir Rabindranath who received the Nobel prize for his poetry in 1913, will speak on "The Cult of a New Nationalism," at the Oliver theatre, Monday evening. There are a very few desirable seats left and those who do not want to miss the opportunity to hear the greatest living poet should not neglect to get their seats reserved today.

The striped effect on U. hall is about one year behind the times, according to the dictates of Dame Fashion.

The athletic field has been flooded and the skating is fine. The exercise and relaxation that everyone needs after a day of hard work is within reach of everyone, and they should take advantage of the opportunity to indulge in one of the healthiest and most popular of American sports.

POTATO MARKET NEWS SERVICE PROVES POPULAR

If continued praise is an index of usefulness, the potato market news service furnished by the agricultural extension service of the University of Nebraska in co-operation with the United States department of agriculture and county agents in western Nebraska was in no small way beneficial to farmers of the state. Good words for the service continue to reach the extension service every day.

Not the least of recent endorsements was the passage of resolutions by the farmers' congress at Omaha approving the potato market news service and urging that a similar service be established for hay producers next year. The resolution follows: "We endorse and desire to have continued the market news service established by the agricultural extension service and the United States department of agriculture for furnishing the potato growers of western Nebraska with daily and authentic market values on potatoes. This service the past season profited the western Nebraska farmers a quarter million dollars by narrowing the margin between the price paid to the producer and cost to the consumer. We desire to have a similar market news service established for hay and other farm products as rapidly as possible."

This is the second expression of approval from a large convention, the first being given by the co-operative elevator and live stock association.
