Entered at the postoffice at Lincoln, Nebraska, as second class mail matter under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

A mass meeting to protest against alleged compulsory drill has been scheduled for this evening at 8 o'clock in the Lindell hotel. Attendance of this meeting and the participation in any protest is the plain acknowledgment of ignorance of the rules of the University of Nebraska, as they are printed in the annual catalog.

There are plenty of men who have graduated from the University who have never had a day of drill work in their lives. Reprieves are given to anyone for physical disability, religious scruples and other plausible excuses. Gymnastic training can be substituted for the excused military drill.

The so-called "protest" is ridiculous, and an uncalled-for demonstration of would-be alarmists.

There are many men who would prefer not to take military drill, but inasmuch as it is a requirement, it would seem to be the sensible thing to accept it as it stands. Moreover it is approved by the United States government and encouraged by men who are broad-minded, fair and interested in the best outcome of any enterprise that influences the lives of citizens of this country. There are a great many things in this world that we have thrust upon us against our especial will, but the best thing to do is to take them as they come, and to look a little farther than our own personal whims.

IT ISN'T YOUR SCHOOL—IT'S YOU

If you want to live in the kind of a school
That's the kind of a school you like,
You needn't slip your clothes in a grip
And start on a long, long hike.

You'll find elsewhere what you left behind,
For there's nothing that's really new;
It's a knock at yourself when you knock the school;
It isn't your school—it's you.

Real schools are not made by men afraid,
Lest somebody else gets ahead;
When everyone works and no one shirks,
You can raise a school from the dead.

And if you make your personal stake
Your neighbor can make one, too;
Your school will be what you want to see—
It isn't your school—it's you.

"It isn't your school—it's you." How well the sentiment in the poem above fits the shoe at Nebraska! "There's nothing that's really new, you'll find elsewhere what you left behind." So develop a content within yourself, an appreciation of your advantages.

"It's a knock at yourself when you knock the school," for you can always hear the noise of a knock, and it always hurts.

"Real schools are not made by men afraid lest somebody else gets ahead," so forget your petty jealousies and fears and come out like men and women and do just a little more than your share of the work, and forget a little more than your share of the reward.

"And if you make your personal stake, your neighbor can make one, too." Help your neighbor to make his stake. Don't stand in his way, but work for him and be glad with him whether he wins or loses.

"Your schools will be what you want to see,—it isn't your school—it's you."

The man who wrote the poem had the right idea. Think it over.

FORUM

To the Editor:

It would be manifestly unfair to the opinions held by those in favor of the present system of military training in the University to let the preceding article remain unanswered.

The signers to the article suggest gymnastic training as a substitute for military drill. Since this is already provided in the University, it is to be inferred that they want compulsory gymnastic work in place of compulsory military work. Now don't allow yourself to believe that these parties have any more respect for compulsory gymnastics than compulsory drill. Not one of the signers ever made an athletic team in the University and only a few of them ever donned a "gym" suit. Their situation is much similar to the high school lad who has never had a language, but can tell you all the reasons in the world why he should not take Latin.

The military department has never interfered with these men, and their pursuit of studies without "gym" work military drill or the like is strictly their privilege. But before they condemn the military department simply because of the alleged compulsion they should provide a substitute for the $100,000 revenue from the federal government. Their court of complaint is the United States congress and not local antagonism to a good cause.

on their part, no one should fail to find some anecdote with a mathematical interest, something that would be suitable for the occasion.

The remainder of the evening will be taken up by a little social entertainment.

Indiana—Even the beasts and birds of the air seem to attend the banquets at Indiana. At a recent meeting of the Journalistic Fraternity there was a bat who insisted on attending. He almost broke up the eat-fest, but was finally slain by a newspaper (showing the power of the press), and the feed went merrily on.—Ex.

Iowa—According to the Daily Iowan, the Freshmen at Iowa University are very economical. Hair cuts recently went up to thirty-five cents in Iowa City. A certain Freshman decided that this was too much to pay. Therefore, he leaned over a lamp in a laboratory to remove his surplus locks. After the excitement was over, it was found that he will not need a hair cut for some time to come.—Ex.

TURN YOUR SHIRTTAILS INTO DRAWERS

OLUS

IN OLUS the outside shirt and underdrawers are one garment.

This means that the shirt can't work out of the trousers, that there are no shirt tails to bunch in seat, that the drawers "stay put," to say nothing of the comfort and economy of saving a garment. OLUS is coat cut, opens all the way down—closed crotch, closed back. See illustration.

For golf, tennis and field wear, we recommend the special attached collar OLUS with regular or short sleeves. Extra sizes for very tall or stout men. All shirt fabrics, in smart designs, including silks—$1.50 to $10.00.

OLUS one-piece PAJAMAS for lounging, resting and comfortable sleep. Made on the same principle as OLUS shirts—coat cut, closed back, closed crotch. No strings to tighten or come loose. $1.50 to $3.50.

Ask your dealer for OLUS. Booklet on request.
