THE BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

The final list of entries for the state high school basketball tournament, printed in The Nebraskan today, contains the names of 119 schools from every nook and cranny in the state. This makes this easily the largest athletic tournament in the United States, and probably in the world.

The high school tournament offers an unusual opportunity for the University students to do a good work with the high school boys and girls who come to play and to watch the games, and to see the University.

Our buildings are not so very fine, except for the new ones that are being built, and our campus, perhaps, is not so beautiful as some. Few are the students, however, who do not believe that for a great University Nebraska is the best and that here are opportunities to learn the real values of life not found elsewhere. It is our duty to help make these high school visitors come to this same realization, so that they will come here to school, rather than go to some place else.

High school folks are largely imitative, and they will come to Lincoln as to a wonderful city, looking toward the University students as young men and women who are most to be admired. It is up to the University to prove that this is not a mere illusion, and that the men and women here, by their helpfulness, their good fellowship, their habits of right living, their ideals, are men and women whom it will profit one to imitate.

A FIXED TRADITION

The eagerness with which students bought tickets for University Night yesterday shows that this annual event is a University tradition which is fixed. The decision of the manager to hold it at the auditorium would seem to be justified by the heavy sale, and it will be interesting to see whether the experiment of giving the performance where none of the students will have to be turned away proves a good one.

The immense crowd that is assured and the holding of the Night in the big theatre will prove an incentive to the students who are giving stunts to excel all former exhibitions for wholesome fun and diverting entertainment.

NON COMPOS MENTIS

OUR DAILY THOUGHT

So far, there have been no contributions to the Student Council questionnaire box, open to all. About day after tomorrow someone will say they aren't getting fair play.

How we love to have our friends and otherwise smile at us. Far be it from us to give vent to our personal feelings, but there are a few wise people around here that know the power of the press all right.

It is rumored that the latest delicacy served for dessert at the D. U. house is beans. This little item is not meant to create envy in the hearts of anyone, but to show how sumptuously and extravagantly some of the boys are living!

A medium-sized potato artistically combined with chiffon would make a very acceptable corsage bouquet.

Once upon a time,
 There lived
 A girl.
 She was pretty,
 And accustomed
 To attention, often too
 Much exaggerated,
 From the
 "Home town folks."
 This young
 Sweet thing
 Decided to come to
 The University.
 O, "just for a good
 Time."
 She came.
 She saw, but
 She didn't conquer
 Because she
 Couldn't conquer herself.
 She waited for
 The mountain to
 Come to Mohamet,
 And she is Still waiting.
 She expected to
 Be a social "demon."
 There are no such.
 She expected to be
 A leader of leaders.
 There have never been.
 Her prettiness was
 Not as great as
 The prettiness of Others.
 She was a
 Disappointed person,
 Because she had not
 Learned to submerge,
 Her ambition of self,
 "In this world of others."

From the Drake "Delphic"
 "(Special to the Nebraskan.)"—"Nebraska's once celebrated basket-ball team will meet the Drake Bulldogs tomorrow afternoon."
 Note: Nebraska's "once celebrated basket-ball team" beat the Drake Bulldogs 23 to 13.

O Jason! Where Art Thou?

The Golden Fleece so dear,
 The alluring Golden Fleece;
 But none comes a-hunting near,
 As in days of Ancient Greece.

Reincarnated sheen,
 (Ten thousand years have been)
 Still gleaming in cloistered glory,
 More radiant than in story.

On Nebraska's sandy shore,
 Where dragons are unknown,
 No sacred grove of yore,
 Unsought for and alone.

Upon temples fair it shines,
 On "radiant palaces,"
 More precious than the gold of mines,
 Fit to adorn the Graces.

O, for the days of old!
 O, for Romance fair!
 Alas! Who seeks the fleece of gold?
 Who in quest of fleece so rare?

Is Jason still asleep
 In the abyss of Attic time?
 Is the Golden Fleece unearned to go,
 In a cold, and heartless clime?

O Jason! Say, Jason!
 Reincarnate yourself!
 And Jason! Say, Jason!
 Why don't you come a-racin'
 Why, you oughta come a-chasin',
 As in the days of old.

ARRANGES PROGRAM FOR ANNUAL MEETING OF HISTORY TEACHERS

Prof. C. E. Persinger of the department of American history, and president of the Nebraska history teachers' association, is busy this week arranging the program for the spring session. The association, which is composed of history teachers in universities, colleges and high schools of the state will hold two sessions, one at Kearney the last week in April and the other at Columbus the first week in May.

The object of the double session is an attempt to enable more history teachers to attend than was possible before when only one meeting was held.
