UNIVERSITY WEEK ARRANGEMENTS DONE WITH CHANCELLORS TALK

MEMBERS OF ALL CASTS WILL MEET WITH HIM IN LAW 101 THIS MORNING

Program of the Numbers Announced Yesterday—Band, Leaving Friday, Will be First to go—Attractions Will Require Twelve Days to be Presented in the Six Towns

Chancellor Avery will meet all of the members of the University week casts, following an annual custom, in Law 101 at 11 o'clock this morning, to give last instructions to the students who will go out over the state to represent the University.

With the talk of Chancellor Avery this morning to the members of the casts, final arrangements for University week will have been completed, and on Friday morning, the first number, the cadet band, will leave Lincoln for its trip out into the state. The band will be followed by the University players, the glee club, the road show, and Prof. E. F. Schramm, faculty lecturer. Twelve days will be required to show the attractions at the towns on the list.

The complete program of the numbers which will comprise the Week has been announced by R. J. Saunders, business manager, as follows:

Give The Track Team A Chance, You Nebraskans

Nebraska University needs men to fight her battles in track and field meets for the next three years.

A track meeting will be held in S 102, basement of the Armory, at 11 o'clock this morning. Every man who has ever sprinted, run, jumped or put the shot, and every man who thinks that he could do those things, and every man who has never tried it but is willing to do so under competent coaching, is wanted at that meeting.

That means that there are mighty few Nebraska University men who are not wanted at the track meeting.

The time has come for this Cornhusker school of ours to step out in front in track, just as it has in other forms of competition.

Nebraska is feared in the valley for her football teams, her debaters, her wrestlers—but her track team has not held the same position. The fault, you Cornhuskers, is in the indifference of your men to one of the best forms of athletics.

This must be changed.

Go to that track meeting today. Let Coach Stewart, Guy Reed, Zumwinkle, Overman and a few others put the proposition to you. Give them, give your school a chance before you decide against it.

Remember, west basement of the Armory, S 102, at 11 o'clock this morning.

CAPTAIN DREWING WINS GYM. HONORS

TAKES FIRST PLACE IN WESTERN INTERCOLLEGIATE MEET

Nebraska Team Places Third—Drawing's Work a Pretty Exhibition

Baehr Third in Fencing

Clyde Drawing, captain of the University gymnastic team, won the highest honors possible in western collegiate gymnastic circles when he took first place in the Western Intercollegiate meet at Iowa City last Saturday. Frank Adkins placed third. The Nebraska team, handicapped by the inexperience of several of its members, won third place in the team contest. Max Baehr also won third place in fencing on the score of individual points.

Drawing is the first western gymnastic champion Nebraska has had since 1909, when D. C. Mitchell took first place. Drawing's work in all the events was remarkable, but his superior performance in tumbling won the championship for him. Until this event he was slightly behind the skillful Japanese gymnast, Horimura, of Illinois. The contest between Drawing and Horimura was one of the most exciting features of the entire meet.

The Nebraska gymnastic team, composed of Drawing, Adkins, Giffin and Weaver, made a good showing in winning third place. The University of Chicago with a veteran team placed highest and was closely followed by the University of Wisconsin.

In the fencing events, Max Baehr tied for first place with the foils, and won second place in the broad sword event. His score on the basis of individual points, however, entitled him only to third place.

CONVOCATION

Prof. W. F. Dann, head of the department of history and criticism of fine arts, will speak at Convocation at 11 o'clock this morning on Greek epics. Professor Dann's lecture is the second of a series of discussions of the world's greatest epics, which are being given at Tuesday Convocations by University professors.

Meisinger, '17, and sung by a big chorus, has strengthened the power of the production.

Seat sale for the play begins Thursday morning at 9 o'clock in the Oliver theatre.

AMERICA IN WAR FOR DEMOCRACY

PROF. FLING SAYS ISSUES OF CONFLICT ARE OF IMPORTANCE

Democracy and the Rights of Small Nations at Stake—the United States delayed Long Enough

America is now in the world war, fighting for democracy and for the right of the small nation to its own nationality and control of its own life, Professor Fred Morrow Fling, head of the department of European history, declared in a lecture Monday morning. "We have entered the war," he said. "It is a simple matter of formally declaring it." One of the main issues is democracy and the right of small nations to govern their own life, and this is our business. "It is inconceivable for us to say we'll stand aside and wait until it is over," declared Professor Fling.

This is a struggle between the two conceptions of government, that which thinks that society as a whole must be treated as children, not allowed to think freely, not allowed to criticize the activities of those in control, and on the other hand, that conception which believes in power exercised by government through consent of the governed.

A Blow at Pacifists

"The whole future of society depends upon which of these two conceptions is finally triumphant," Professor Fling declared. "The pacifists think that the way to do it is to talk about it, to tell the monarchs how wrong they are and that then they'll stop. History doesn't bear out this assumption. History shows that these things have been obliged to fight for their existence. Even within these social groups, men who saw the fallacy of absolutism, had to appeal to force to make the change. Through a thousand years the dominant group, unwilling to yield to the majority, has precipitated civil and international wars in order to maintain the old institutions and even to extend these institutions.

Professor Fling asserted that those who interpret this war and everything else as purely economic, and every act of humanity an act of enlightened selfishness, are wrong.

"Remember that sentiment is one of the biggest things of life," he said. "You can't sacrifice to anything finer than this."

UNIVERSITY REACHED BY PREPERATIONS FOR WAR

PRESIDENT WILSON'S PLACING OF NATION ON WAR-TIME BASIS HAS ITS EFFECT UPON THE STUDENT BODY

First Movement Within the University is Preliminary Formation of a Woman's Auxiliary to Naval Reserve—Students Ordered to Mobilize by Call for Guardsmen

The first definite movement in the placing of the nation on a war basis was felt by the University yesterday when a number of students, members of the Fourth Nebraska national guard regiment were ordered to mobilize with their companies for police duty in case of hostilities. Following closely upon this came the announcement of the preliminary organization within the University of a woman's auxiliary to the naval reserve, whose purpose it shall be to organize the women not only in the University but in all the states in the western division to give aid if the country is plunged into war.

A preliminary committee, with Alice Proudfoot, an alumna, as chairman, and six other University girls as members, will meet at 11 o'clock today at the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority house to perfect preliminary organization. The scope of the activities of the auxiliary when thoroughly organized would include nursing, stenographic services, making of supplies, and the replacing of men in this section called from offices to war.

L. W. Trester, '19, chairman of the western division of the naval training association, sanctioned the organization of the auxiliary. It is planned to thoroughly organize in the University first and then to spread out into the home towns of the girls who have become members, and in this way to gradually perfect the organization until, it is hoped, it will reach throughout the western states.

Men Who Will Go

No less significant than the first steps toward the organization of the women's auxiliary is the problem which faces the men of the University today. With the order preparing the nation to wage a full-fledged war now being put into effect, the proposition of going to war seems particularly big. At least five students have been called to mobilize at the home stations of their companies by the President's order for the services of the Fourth Nebraska regiment, Kenneth Y. Craig, '18, of Omaha, and Barlow Nye, '18, of Kearney, will probably go to Kearney today to mobilize with Company L there. Craig is second lieutenant of that company and Nye is first sergeant.

Roy S. Bradley, '18, of York, second lieutenant of Company M, will also go to mobilize with his company, and Floyd Smith, '17, is likely to go. Archibald Hoefer, ex-'18, of Friend, a member of the Fourth regimental band, is another who goes to join his home company.

Archer L. Burnham, '17, of Stanton, colonel of the cadet regiment, has not been affected by the call as yet, for his term of service in the guard ended early in the month, and he has not re-enlisted up to this time. He has not decided just what he will do in regard to his service. Adrian Brian, '17, is now on a temporary discharge to allow him to finish his college course in June, and in July he expects to take the examination for second lieutenant in the regular army.

A communication from the adjutant general's office to Captain Sam M. Parker, commandant of cadets in the University, points out the fact that men who have had little or no military training, if they be college graduates or college seniors, may be recommended for commissions for reserve officers of the line. This is considered significant by many, who believe it will be possible for not a few University students who enlist in case of war to receive commissions instead of going as privates.

TWO MORE DAYS OF SALES CAMPAIGN

Today and Tomorrow Last Opportunities to Buy 1917 Cornhusker at $3—Campaign Progressing

Today and Wednesday are the only days left in which copies of the 1917 Cornhusker can be bought for the regular subscription price of $3, for after 5 o'clock tomorrow the book will cost $3.50. The additional fifty cents has been attached to books sold after the close of the campaign to pay for extra work in filling orders and the accompanying routine.

With twenty-one co-eds working for the prizes of twenty, ten, and five-dollar gold pieces, the sale of books yesterday, the first day of the campaign, indicates that sales records are about to be broken, according to DeWitt Foster, business manager.

HUSKER GRAPLERS GATHER LAURELS

Make Good Showing in Western Meet and Revenge Defeat by Ames—Otopalik Shining Light

The Nebraska wrestling team returned from the Western Intercollegiate meet at Iowa City with several things to be proud of. The first was the winning of second place in partnership with Indiana, the second is the partial revenge on Ames and the third is the fine showing of Barnes, Fuchs and Anderson, the three new men on the team.

Captain Otopalik comes in for the greatest share of the praise because he is undisputed champion in his class. "Otie's" official title is Western Intercollegiate champion wrestler in the 175 pound class. In working his way through to the championship, Otopalik did some of the most sensational work in the meet. One of his opponents was put on his back in slightly over two minutes while in the finals the fall was secured in a little better than four minutes.

Barnes, who wrestled through to second place in the 125 pound class, showed remarkable skill for one who has been at the game for such a short

REIGN OF GALLERY GOD PAST HISTORY

This is Belief of Executive Dean Engberg—Entire Theatre Open for Kosmet Play

That the turbulent reign of the gallery god, an individual characterized as anarchistic in tendencies and loud in manner, is past, is the opinion of Executive Dean C. C. Engberg, who gave this opinion in an interview with the business manager of "The Diplomat," Kosmet Klub play.

Because of the disturbance caused by a few students in the galleries in past University performances, the management of the Kosmet play had considered sacrificing the gallery receipts to insure peace and enjoyment for the rest of the audience, but after talking with Dean Engberg, it was decided to open the entire theatre.

The gentlemanly conduct of the immense crowd of students at University night, Dean Engberg said, was proof that the days of such behavior were past.

Rehearsals for "The Diplomat" are reaching the crucial stage with progress which encourages the belief held by those who are coaching the play that it will more than repeat the pronounced success it made in 1912. The new music written by LeRoy
