UNIVERSITY WEEK

Reports from the first western towns that are going to see the University Week shows indicate that this year the reception given the students will be even more cordial than it was last year and the year before that, the two years that inaugurated what has now become a permanent thing.

This simply means that University men and women who go out to different parts of the state, conducting themselves as University men and women, are bound to win the respect and friendship of the peoples they visit.

The greatest good to the University that comes from the University Week is not the demonstration of what is already well known—that there are students of the University who can play the trombone or flute, sing, act, or otherwise amuse other people.

The good comes from the attitude of these students toward the people they meet, and their conduct as they accept the hospitality of the towns on the University week circuit.

Because this is true every student who goes out on the tour this year, with his expenses paid, should go with a consciousness of his responsibility toward his alma mater.

He should go, knowing that he is more than an individual, that he is a representative of the institution that stands for the best things.

Realizing these things, the students will do as the students in the two years before them have done, and Nebraska University will continue to gain in the friendship and the confidence of the people of the state.

THE LEGISLATORS AND THE UNIVERSITY

Members of the state legislature are going to visit the University this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock, on invitation of Chancellor Avery. It is a most happy thing.

No business in the state of Nebraska is so large, so important to the state, as is the University. Every session of the legislature is featured by bills relating to the University, and often by attacks upon it. This session has not been free from such attacks.

Therefore the University welcomes the legislators and hopes that they will keep eyes wide open when they view the two campuses and the students today.

The University hopes that the legislators will compare University hall, the Administration building and the Armory with Bessey hall, the new Chemistry building and the Dairy Husbandry building.

The University hopes that the legislators will fix a keen eye on the cadets, looking closely for signs of "militarism," and deciding whether it is not a fine thing that these young men are preparing to help defend their country if she needs them.

The University hopes that the legislators will ask about the work of the efficiency agent, look into the finances and ask themselves if the money that is spent here is no being most economically expended.

The University hopes that the legislators will try to get acquainted with some of the students, and with many of the faculty, in order to appreciate that the finest people of the state are found within the four walls of Nebraska.

The University hopes that the legislators will get something of the spirit for truth, the ideals for better living, the standards of honesty, uprightness and fair dealing, the conception of the true meaning of life, that the University is helping its students get.

If these things are seen and understood, the visit of the legislators will be full of great possibilities for Nebraska.

FORUM

To the Editor of The Nebraskan:

It seems that for the past three or four years a spirit of rowdiness has prevailed in the gallery of the theatre in which any University production is being staged. In fact more than one show or stunt has been very nearly ruined by the action of four or five over-pompous characters who take the opportunity of going not to see the show but to be the show. The peculiar part of the whole thing is that the two or three hundred who go to see the show and sit in the gallery remain patiently by and allow the small handful of "self-imposed talent" to make such a din that the lines of the real show never reach them. Is it possible that affairs have reached such a stage at the University of Nebraska that a small group of bolsterous and repellent rowdies can overrun the whole student body? Can't the majority of the University people co-operate and hereafter "clean up" the character of our student public gatherings?

The honor system, as it exists at the University of Texas, is not finding many exponents at Purdue. All the faculty and the members of the Students' Councils are of the opinion that an honor system is necessary, but claim that Purdue is not yet ready to generally adopt the honor system.—Ex.

BRIEF BITS OF NEWS

Union Program.—Union literary society held its regular meeting Saturday instead of Friday to allow members to attend the Junior play. A program, including a silent band and moving picture show was given. After the program games were played.

Dr. Pillsbury to Speak.—Dr. L. B. Pillsbury, '97, of Lincoln, specialist in nervous diseases at the state hospital for the insane, will speak before a joint meeting of the psychology classes in Mechanical Engineering building, Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Dramatic Meeting.—A departmental meeting is called by Prof. Alice Howell for Wednesday evening, March 28, at the Temple theatre, when "The Stubbornness of Geraldine" will be given by the University players under the direction of Louise Schavland, coach.

Canvases for Art Exhibition.—The American art association has secured about twenty very important canvases from distinguished American artists for its annual exhibition in the University art gallery, which begins April 6 and lasts until May 6. The majority of pictures will come from the great fall exhibition in Chicago.

Will Attend Convention.—Miss Jeanette Nelson of the geography department will leave this week to attend meetings of the Central Nebraska teachers' association at Hastings, March 29, and the Southwestern teachers' association at Holdrege, March 30. She will address both associations on the subject of teaching geography.

Alumnus Arranges Program.—Prof. E. E. Lackey, '11, at present professor of geography at the Wayne state normal school, has arranged an interesting program for the meeting of the Northeastern Nebraska Teachers' association to be held at Wayne, March 29, 30. Prof. C. E. Persinger is one of the speakers at the meeting. His subject will be, "South America."

Geographical Bulletin.—Bulletin number three of the Nebraska council of geography teachers is being mailed today. It contains a selected bibliography of publications especially helpful to the teachers. The bulletin is prepared by Miss Jeanette Nelson of the geography department and is mailed to teachers all over the state, to members and to others upon request.

Visit Glycerine Refinery.—John Grimes, '10, chief chemist, for the Great Western Sugar company of Billings, Mont., was at the University last week for some special work in chemistry. During his stay, he and Prof. C. J. Frankforter visited the glycerine plant of the Cadahy Packing company, where an enormous quantity of glycerine is refined for the pharmaceutical trade and for the manufacture of explosives.

Wants Student Botanists.—Dr. George D. Hedgecock, '99, A. M. '01, of United States department of agriculture office of forest pathology of the ture visited the department of botany Monday on his way to Colorado. He stopped in Lincoln to interview some of the advanced students in the department in regard to botanical work this summer in assisting him in his study of the diseases of forest trees in the Rocky Mountains.

time. The fact that he did not work under the eye of Coach Rutherford until two days before the Ames meet and has undergone practically his whole development since that time, speaks for the work of the coach as well as for his own ability. In the final bout, which he lost, Barnes put up a fine fight, being pinned just as the time was about up.

Anderson, in winning third place in his class had the pleasure of downing the Ames man who won the bout from him in Lincoln. Fuchs won third place by defeating a Chicago man on a decision. This man had previously downed Firkins, the Ames man who was given, the decision over Fuchs when they met.

Brian and Dale, the other two men on the team, lost on decisions in preliminary rounds.

Ames scored one point in this meet. E. E. Frost, ex-'14, and George M. Berquist, '16, described their work last summer during the construction of a bridge across the Arkansas river in western Kansas, at the regular meeting of the engineering society, Wednesday evening.

TURN YOUR SHIRT-TAILS INTO DRAWERS

OLUS

IN OLUS the outside shirt and underdrawers are one garment.

This means that the shirt can't work out of the trousers, that there are no shirt tails to bunch in seat, that the drawers "stay put," to say nothing of the comfort and economy of saving a garment. OLUS is coat cut, opens all the way down—closed crotch, closed back. See illustration.

For golf, tennis and field wear, we recommend the special attached collar OLUS with regular or short sleeves. Extra sizes for very tall or stout men. All shirt fabrics, in smart designs, including silks—$1.50 to $10.00.

OLUS one-piece PAJAMAS for lounging, resting and comfortable sleep. Made on the same principle as OLUS' shirts—coat cut, closed back, closed crotch. Top strings to tighten or come loose. $1.50 to $3.50.

Ask your dealer for OLUS. Booklet on request.
