COLLEGE WOMEN TO FORM NAVAL RESERVE

 1916, is the chairman of the local organization, which will be the head organization for all the western states. Assisting her in this work at the present time are Miss Helen Matteson, Mrs. Florence Angle-Reed, Miss Ruth Beecher, Miss Florence Wood and Miss Eva Miller.
Encourage Men to Enlist
 One of the purposes of the league will be to encourage young men to enlist in the naval reserve corps of the United States. President Wilson has already ordered the navy to be placed on a full war footing, which will mean the enlistment of many men. The naval reserve will be called upon for duty on battleships, submarines, submarine destroyers and all other lines of naval activities, if the war declaration is made.
 The part the navy department will play in the woman's organization was explained at the Tuesday morning meeting by Leonard Trester, representing the naval reserve, who has just returned from Washington, D. C.
 The Lincoln committee has already sent letters to other colleges of the west, and organizations will be formed there. Downtown headquarters will be established in Lincoln.
 Speakers at the mass meeting tomorrow night in the Armory will tell the purposes of the organization and just what the women who join will be expected to do. It is hoped that not less than fifteen hundred of the Nebraska women will attend the mass meeting—the first call of their country.

THE COLLEGE WORLD

Twenty-Seven Seniors Have Never Kissed a Girl

The annual statistics of the Princeton senior class have recently been published, and reveal some interesting facts about the members of the class. In reply to the question what Princeton needed most? one of the answers was: The restoration of the hazing of the freshmen. Friendship, a broader point of view, and experience were the most valuable things gained from a college career. The majority of the seniors admit kissing a girl, but twenty-seven men have never done so, and forty-one feel that it is morally wrong to kiss.—Ex.

University Circus

The Oberlin College circus was one of the best college circuses that has ever been seen in the United States, according to the Oberlin Review. They claim that they had every kind of amusement, from the Winter Garden at New York to the Mardi Gras. One act was especially interesting, as it portrayed to the girls the life of the embryo soldier at Plattsburg Training Camp, and stopped their wonder as to why it was that all the boys who attended the aforesaid camp returned with powder puffs and lace handkerchiefs.—Ex.

College Night

An interesting affair that they have at Brown University is what they call their College Night. Once every week all of the students assemble in the big auditorium and there they have some special event for the edification of the students, sometimes amusing, but most of the time instructive. These affairs are always well attended and they establish a school spirit that is hard to beat. A current subject that is fairly typical was an illustrated lecture given by Albert Coe Church, consulting engineer of the United States

Anti Militarists

"Collegians, protect your ideals," is the glaring headline that appears on a pamphlet that has recently been distributed on the campus at the University of Pennsylvania. This warning and the harangue that follows is addressed to the college men and women of the United States, and urges them to bring all the influence that they have to bear on congress to prevent the war that is imminent. The Collegiate Anti Militarism League puts out these pamphlets.

Irish Independence

When Mrs. Francis Skeffington spoke before the International club at the University of Chicago, she made the assertion that the only solution for the present troubles of Ireland was complete independence for Ireland. She claims that truth and free speech have been abolished in Ireland, and that all the liberties of a free people have been curtailed. She further asserts that "Great Britain, who is supposedly carrying on the present war for the redemption of the small countries that were oppressed by Germany, had a splendid chance to exercise her free ing powers on Ireland. Home Rule is now further off for Ireland than it has ever been before."—Ex.

Matrimony a Road of Leisure

Yes, for the modern girl, according to a speech by Professor Ross at the University of Iowa. "Husband-catching is more worth while today than it has ever been before," says he. "The girl regards marriage as a life-long support, a haven, gained by some girl skillful enough to charm a man. The term Queens is rightly applied to the girls today as an offer of marriage is simply an invitation to a life of ease and luxury. Because of this the feminists practice the habit of wearing vivid, appealing clothes, and as a result of the whole, America is one of the most married countries in the world, speaking in terms of quantity and not quality."—Ex.
