PRICE FIVE CENTS

FARMS WILL NEED STUDENT LABORERS

PROFESSOR PUGSLEY TALKS ON CROP CONDITIONS

Cannot Increase Army of Workers From "Ag" Students for They are Already Members

That American farmers are going to feel the lack of sufficient labor keenly this year is the opinion of Prof. C. W. Pugsley, director of the agricultural extension service of the University, who has received large numbers of inquiries from farmers asking whether or not student labor will be available for work on farms this summer.

"Besides the drains our own military needs will make on the producers of the country, Canada is making a strong bid for farm laborers, according to information received here," he said. "High wages and free transportation offered has resulted in workers leaving the United States by the carload. One of the worst features of this situation is that laborers are being recruited in the northern states where the only hopes of increasing the wheat area are now centered.

Retired Farmers May Go Back

To meet this shortage, it might be possible to recruit laborers from other industries less important in the nation's welfare, but to do so effectively the government should take charge of the recruiting. Retired farmers who are still physically fit may return to the farm. Where women can take the place of able-bodied men, workers may be released for agricultural production. Professional men may be able to spend a portion of their time in work that will permit them to produce at least a part of what they consume. But by far the greatest resource is the 2,000,000 city and town boys, between the ages of fifteen and nineteen years who now contribute little toward their living. These boys are too young for military service, but they are not too young to have a share in production.

A proposal to increase the amount of labor for agricultural purposes by using agricultural college students was found to be a myth, because most such students are already members of the agricultural army of the state as they are sons of farmers and will return to their homes as soon as school is out, he said.

DEAN GRAHAM TO TALK TO STUDENT ASSISTANTS

Dean Mary Graham, present dean of women, and former assistant in the department of chemistry, is one of those who will give short talks at the first get-together meeting of the Student Assistant's club in Faculty hall Thursday evening. Other departments will be represented, and a brief program of games will be enjoyed.

The meeting Thursday night will be the first since the club was organized just before spring recess. The purpose of the organization is to bring the undergraduate assistants of the University together for mutual benefit.

The constitution adopted at the last meeting makes all students registered in the University up to and including those working for a master's degree who are employed as assistants in educational work in any department in the University or the school of agriculture eligible for membership in the club. This means that laboratory assistants, theme-readers, recitation instructors and supervisors, lesson planners, and similar departmental assistants come under the rules of eligibility. All

PAN-HEL COUNCIL ADVISES ECONOMY

CO-EDS RECOMMEND TRIMMING DANCE AND RUSHING EXPENSES

Pass Resolution Calling for No More Than Necessary Expense for Remaining Parties

Recommendations for careful economy in the social affairs of sororities during the remainder of this term and for next year were made by the Pan-Hellenic council, meeting yesterday afternoon. The council passed resolutions urging sororities to go to no expense for scheduled parties except for renting the floor and contracting for the music.

The council officially advised chairmen of class hops that the inter-sorority sentiment was in favor of economy in these affairs also. It was suggested that there be no refreshments at such parties and that expenses also be cut by eliminating the printing of programs.

Plans for limiting the rushing expenses next fall were discussed, and definite measures are expected to be reached soon. A conference among members of the council will probably result in the naming of a sum beyond which a sorority may not go.

Miss R. Louise Fitch, national president of Delta Delta Delta, spoke to the council on the history development of the Pan-Hellenic organization.

METCALFE CALLS OFF SUBSCRIPTION DANCE

The first subscription dance that has officially given up the ghost since the recommendations made by the interfraternity council last week that fraternity men neither give nor patronize these dances was the annual May party scheduled by Theodore Metcalfe, '18, probably the biggest of the subscription dances planned for the spring. The action of the council was taken in view of the present need for strict economy upon the part of the University.

TRACK MEN GET READY FOR AMES

"Dope" Favors Ames—Parker and Paige, Cyclone Stars, May Not Compete

"Now for Ames."

This is the slogan that is causing great activity around the track camp these days. Cornhusker athletes this week will add the final touches to their spring and winter work for the first real test of the season when they meet the Iowa "Aggies" at Ames next Saturday.

Nebraska track followers are trying in every way possible to "dope out" a victory in the meet Saturday. As yet they have had very little luck, but it is not the most impossible thing in the world that the Cornhuskers may be returned the victors. Last year when the "Aggies" were conceded victory by a large margin they barely managed to slip over a win by six points, 53½ to 59½.

Everyone should carry an American flag. Arrangements have been made whereby Mr. Long of the College Book Store, facing the campus, will give free flags to all not having one Tuesday morning. As the supply is limited, it is urged that all who can furnish their own flag. The flags will be given away Tuesday morning before and not after 9 o'clock.

The parade will organize immediately at 9 o'clock and the procession will commence at 9:15 from Eleventh and R street, marching down Eleventh street to O, thence east on O street, to Thirteenth, and south on Thirteenth to the City Auditorium.

No one—not a student or participating in the parade—will be admitted to the Auditorium until the entire parade has been seated.

ENGINEERS START FUN TOMORROW

BIG EVENTS PLANNED FOR REST OF WEEK

Field Day Thursday, With Convocation in Morning—Banquet Saturday Evening

The Wednesday edition of The Daily Nebraskan will be in charge of the engineers, and practically all of its columns will be devoted to activities of Engineers' week. The edition will be in charge of H. B. Wood, '17, assisted by Earl Ketcham, '18, and C. E. Dempster, '18.

Beginning with the Engineers' edition of The Daily Nebraskan tomorrow, the series of events planned for the annual week of celebration will come thick and fast until the closing banquet Saturday evening at the Lincoln hotel. The committees in charge are expecting a large number of out-of-town alumni to come to Lincoln to take part.

Thursday, Field day, is to be the biggest day, beginning with a special Convocation in the morning, for which an appropriate program has been arranged, and winding up with the "field day" stunts in the afternoon. Interdepartmental baseball games between mechanicals, electricals, civils, and agriculturals, and the most important one of all between the seniors and the faculty are some of the things planned.

Engineers' night, which usually comes Friday, has been omitted this year.

The closing banquet will come Saturday night. In some respects it is the best thing on the program, because it always brings a big number of former students back to Lincoln. An interesting toast list, which will call upon students, alumni, and faculty men, is being formulated.

A complete program for the week, and an account of engineering activities, will be published in the Engineers' edition of The Nebraskan tomorrow.

PASCAL TRIES FOR REGULAR ARMY PLACE

Henry Pascale, Omaha, '16, law, '18, went Sunday to Fort Leavenworth Kan., to take examinations for a commission as second lieutenant in the regular United States army.

Pascale is one of the crack lightweight wrestlers that the University has produced. He won his letter in intercollegiate matches and was a valuable man this year in training lightweight mat men to succeed him on the team.

He was an Innocent of 1916, a member of Phi Alpha Delta, legal fraternity, has won distinction in debating and was a lieutenant in the cadet regiment.

After taking the examinations at Fort Leavenworth, Pascale expects to go to Fort Snelling, Minn., where he will train in the reserve camp during the interim until he hears from the examination.

Herman F. Kramer, '15, recently was commissioned a second lieutenant in the regular army after taking the Fort Leavenworth examinations.

ABANDON DRILL AFTER THIS WEEK

OFFICERS EXPECT TO BE CALLED TO TRAINING CAMPS

Annual Company and Individual Compet Will Be Held Friday Afternoon on the Athletic Field

Men of the University cadet regiment will drill no more this term after Friday afternoon of this week.

Competitive drill, advanced several weeks, will be held Friday. Men who have absences chalked up against them must attend to excuses this week if they wish to obtain drill credit for the semester.

Captain Samuel Parker, commandant, expecting to be called for duty in training camps within a few days, made this announcement Monday. It is probable that Sergeants Wirth, Sullivan and Allen may also be called to instruct in training camps.

Interest in the company competitions mounted with the announcement that the big drill was only four days away. Individual honors also will be hard fought.

About Training Camps

Captain Parker has received scores of inquiries concerning the training camp for army officers, opening May 8 at Fort Snelling, Minn. Nebraska men who wish to take the training are assigned there. All those who have been examined and those who have applied for commissions in the officers' reserve corps will be asked to take the training at Fort Snelling if they wish to hold commissions in the reserve.

Hildreth Enlists

Miles Hildreth, '20, Lincoln, has enlisted in the coast artillery corps of the regular army and will soon go to Fort Logan. Hildreth was a member of the freshman debating team this year. He is a corporal in the University regiment.

After taking a poll of the companies Monday, Captain Parker announced that the cadets will carry sidearms and rifles in the parade today.

The rifles will be stacked outside the Auditorium and a guard will be placed over them.

There will be drill on the athletic field this afternoon.

R. R. REPRESENTATIVE TALKS TO MARKETING CLASS AT STATE FARM

Ballard Dunn, special representative of the association of western railroads, talked to Prof. H. C. Filley's class in marketing at 1 o'clock at the State farm yesterday afternoon on "Marketing and Transportation."

COMPANY "Q" TO PARADE FRIDAY

Shirt-Tail March Will Follow Annual Company "Compet," it is Rumored

Although there has been nothing definite said about the matter, it is generally understood that following the ancient custom, the annual shirt-tail parade of cadets in the University regiment will come Friday evening following the company and individual "compet" on Nebraska field in the afternoon. This means that the setting ahead of the day for drill maneuvers will not affect the parade of mythical Company "Q."

Who will head the flying column will depend upon which company wins competitive drill. By tradition, to the victor belongs the honor of leading the procession down the street and through popular student stores. The column, after undergoing several transformations and traversing an erratic way, will wind up on the athletic field, where the last day of drill will be celebrated by a big bonfire.
