CORNHUSKER BANQUET FOR FORT SNELLING MEN

In times gone by it was the custom of University men each year to honor the men who had fought through football battles for their Alma Mater, by giving them a Cornhusker banquet. It was a tribute to the service of these men for their school, for the Scarlet and Cream.

Now it is proposed to give the University men at Fort Snelling a Cornhusker banquet, for they are going to fight through greater battles, and give a greater service, not only for their Alma Mater, but for their nation. It is fitting that this should be done.

No cause has been brought before the University this year, asking for the financial co-operation of the students, which makes an appeal quite so intimate as this one. Not a student on the campus but who does not know many of the men who will be the University's guests at this banquet. Not a student but who has suffered a loss in the departure of some close friend at the call of patriotic duty. Not a student, but who feels that these men are making a sacrifice that is bringing far more renown to Nebraska than was ever made upon gridiron.

It is said that Nebraska University has more students and alumni at Fort Snelling than any other university in the district embracing this camp. However that may be, Nebraska University feels that her men will be the leaders in every cause for good at that camp, and will be the first to respond to every call for unselfish service that is made.

It is well that the students still in school are planning to recognize this service of the men at Fort Snelling. That banquet will have far-reaching results. Its immediate effect for the men will be good. It will bring the Nebraska men closer together. It will get the Nebraska alumni in Minneapolis and St. Paul acquainted with the men. It will bind the alumni closer to the University. It will bind the men in the camp more firmly to their school and their state. It will give them many a pleasant reminiscence in times when they may be in pain on a foreign soil.

The call is to every student, every alumnus, every loyal Nebraskan. Help make that event in Minneapolis one long to be remembered by the Nebraska University and Nebraska men.

DEAN POUND FOR COMMENCEMENT

If anything could make up for the loss of General Pershing as commencement speaker this year, it is the announcement that Dean Roscoe Pound of the Harvard law school will deliver the address. For Dean Pound is even more of a Cornhusker than General Pershing was, and he is one whose career the University has watched with the anxious eye of a parent, proud of the achievements of a worthy son.

We do not know yet, what message Dean Pound will bring to the University when he comes in June. The event will be a memorable one, not only because of the war situation, but also because of the celebration of Nebraska's semi-centennial. It goes without saying that the speaker will be equal to the occasion.

STAY FOR COMMENCEMENT WEEK

Usually students who are not going to wear the cap and gown and get their degrees on commencement day, hurry home as soon as they finish their last examination. This year, however, the student who does that will miss one of the greatest events in the history of the state.

Nebraska will celebrate her fiftieth anniversary as a state, during commencement week. Distinguished men from all over the nation will be here, the first of whom, of course, former President Roosevelt. The pageant of 1917 will be staged, and the University will have as commencement speaker, Roscoe Pound of Harvard. All who can possibly do so, should plan to be in Lincoln during the celebration week.

Booze

"Booze," says a commander of a northern training camp, "is not going to handicap the brains of this camp. Every young man owes the best that is in him. He is to command men, and should, therefore, make himself fit to command by living an exemplary life and by avoiding every form of liquor and narcotic. Manhood is to have its test, and I am to see that every brain is unclouded and every muscle unsluggish. This shall be rigidly observed in the camp. Would not this logic apply in peace as well as war times?—Ex.

MRS. BARKLEY TO SPEAK TO SUFFRAGE CLUB

The meeting will be short but it is a very important one. Emphasis will be laid on the fact that to vote women must register. The club wishes the women to emphasize in their home communities the importance of every woman voting in the elections next fall, and voting intelligently as only in this way will entire suffrage be secured.

Advice

The wise man is waiting until the fields of government service are fully organized. A leap in the dark, and enlistment before the officials in Washington have their war plans fully developed, is a blind move and carries with it more than an even chance of a sad disappointment.—Amherst Student.

Military Training

Military training for girls of Oklahoma was defeated by the enormous vote of 200 to 0. The leader of the opposition to the measure gave three reasons why they should vote it down. First, military training for women is absolutely absurd; second, it is utterly useless; third, it is absolutely impractical. This is making the girls the laughing stock of the campus. The men feel that it is a burlesque on their drill.—EX.
