STUDENTS WILL RALLY FOR TEAM TONIGHT

Torches for Big Parade Distributed This Afternoon

OLD CORNHUSKERS THERE

Short Mass Meeting in Armory at 7 O'clock With Pep Talks to Start Things

Between 1,500 and 2,000 Cornhuskers, according to conservative estimates will take part in the rally and parade tonight which will accomplish the defeat of Notre Dame. At 7:00 sharp, soon after dusk has fallen, students will fill the chapel for a very short mass meeting which will be featured by the presence of a number of old Cornhuskers who have come back to watch Nebraska whip the Catholics. Following the rally the crowd will march through the business section in a torchlight parade, winding up at the Lincoln hotel, where it will serenade the Notre Dame squad.

One thousand torches have been secured for the parade. They will be distributed this afternoon, beginning at 1 o'clock, at the east end of the Armory. A quarter will be charged for the torches when they are taken out, but this will be refunded when they are turned in following the parade. It will avoid confusion if the torches are obtained early in the afternoon.

The route which the parade will take will be from the Armory south to R street, east on R to Sixteenth, down Sixteenth to O, down O to Ninth, up Ninth to the Lincoln hotel, and from there back to the campus by Tenth street.

The Marching Order

Following is the marching order: The Cadet band.
Girls, marching four abreast seniors first, juniors next, and so on.
Men marching two abreast.

The Black Masque, senior girl's honorary society in charge of the co-ed section of the parade, has asked that every girl who can wear a white skirt and red or white sweater, do so, although this of course is a matter of choice.

Although the definite announcement has not been made, it is possible that the faculty speaker on the rally program tonight will also lead the parade. It is said that he has never headed a parade that was not followed by a Cornhusker victory the next afternoon. The proposed leader of the parade is Prof. H. W. Caldwell of the American history department, one of the most enthusiastic football rooters among the faculty, whom he will represent on the rally program.

It is not very often that Nebraska girls, although they are as staunch Cornhuskers as can be found, have the chance to say what they think about the team and tell how much they want it to win. Jean Burroughs, however, will do this at tonight's mass meeting.

Old Cornhuskers to Be Out

Besides the talks by Captain Shaw and Coach Stewart, without which a football rally would not be complete, several old Cornhuskers who have set our hearts tingling in former days by their performances on Nebraska field will be called upon for impromptu talks. Captain H. H. "Tim" Corey of the national army, and leader of last year's team, is expected here in time for the rally, but may not come until late Friday night. Leonard Purdy, captain of the 1913 Cornhuskers, the great fighting team that defeated Minnesota, will probably be present.

24 STUDENT OFFICERS RECEIVE RESERVE PAY

Commutation of Rations for Last Year Granted — Commandant Announces New Regulations

The commutations of rations received at the chancellor's office Wednesday were given out to twenty-four members of the Officers' reserve corps Thursday morning by Sergeant W. J. Allen of the commandant's office. All men who remained in school until the end of the year received checks for $54.30. In instances where the men went into training camp before their contracts expired, they were paid at the rate of 30 cents a day for as long as they remained in school. The majority of men are said to be investing money received in liberty loan bonds. The commandant has announced that in the future the pay will be 50 cents a day, and that it will continue throughout the summer as well as during the winter months, when the men are actually drilling. All men who have had two years of military drill in the University of Nebraska may enlist in this reserve corps. They will be required to sign a contract in which they bind themselves to attend two summer camps, which are not to last longer than four weeks, and to drill during the remainder of their stay in school. In return, they will draw fifteen dollars a month the year around, and at any time within the end of ten years after leaving school will be granted a temporary commission in the regular army. If they show reasonable ability, this commission will be made permanent. Men interested in this plan can obtain further information at the commandant's office.

UNIVERSITY MEN TO HELP WITH LIBERTY BOND SALE

Lincoln Commercial Club Asks for 200 to Aid in Big Drive on Official Day

The committee of the Lincoln Commercial club which is in charge of the liberty bond campaign has issued a call for 200 or more University men to act as bond salesmen. The city has been divided into districts and groups of solicitors so arranged that the entire city may be thoroughly canvassed in one day. The drive is to take place next Wednesday, which has been declared Liberty Bond Day by President Wilson.

The committee needs the services of 200 students. The fraternities, through the inter-fraternity council, has pledged themselves to furnish 100 men. There is need for 100 more. Any University man who can and will, may serve his country by volunteering his efforts for that day. All men who wish to give their time to help to make the campaign a success may leave their names with Prof. R. D. Srott, or at The Daily Nebraskan office as soon as possible.

Sarah Cole, '17, from Omaha will visit the latter part of the week at the Gamma Phi Beta house.

Myra Butz will spend the end of the week at the Kappa Kappa Gamma house.

Mrs. T. Nielsen is visiting her daughter, Emma, at the Kappa Kappa Gamma house a few days this week.

Janet Teagarden, '21, and Irma Stephens, '20, will leave for Omaha Friday. They intend to drive back with Betty Gould, ex-'20, for the game Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Schulte of Elgin, Neb., visited their daughter, Clara, Wednesday.

Emma Beard, '16, will visit Saturday at the Achoth house.

Alma Sullivan, '12, is teaching in the Lincoln High school this year.

PLAN UNIVERSITY PARTY FOR NOVEMBER THIRD

Mixer Committee Decides to Close Date for Hallowe'en Event

The All-University party committee decided last night to close the date of November 3 for a big Hallowe'en party to be held at the Armory. The committee to take charge of the program, entertainment and dance will be announced next week.

There was some agitation for having the party at the City Auditorium, but because of the extra charge there and the sentiment favoring lampus parties this year, it was thought to be more in keeping with the general spirit to remain in the Armory. It is probable that one of the mixers later in the year will be held at the Auditorium.

No All-University party is to be scheduled for Home-coming night, as it was the opinion that a large number of organizations would make other plans for entertaining old members who would be back.

ASSOCIATION GIRLS TO MEET WEDNESDAY EVENING

An association girls' meeting for all members of Y. W. C. A. will be held in the Y. W. C. A. rooms Wednesday evening, October 24 at 7 o'clock. Business matters in connection with the visit of Miss Conde and policies for the association work for the year will be discussed.

A. S. M. E. Meeting

The A. S. M. E. held a social meeting last night, with music, talks by members of the society, and games. W. L. Miller was in charge.

They will dine at the Farm cafeteria during which time speeches will be given by different men and also the election of officers for next year. In the afternoon they will enjoy a good football game.

Mrs. George Morrison (Mable Snyder) '14, from O'Neil, Neb., is visiting in Lincoln.

C. W. FAIRBANKS SPEAKS FOR LIBERTY BOND SALE

Urges Large Convocation Audience to Give All Possible to Country's Aid

Ex-Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks, who arrived in Lincoln yesterday morning to help in the campaign for liberty bonds, was secured by the convocation committee a half hour before convocation yesterday morning, to speak to University students. Dr. T. W. Jeffrey, pastor of St. Paul Methodist church of Lincoln, and Prof. J. E. Le Resignol, head of the department of commerce, also gave short talks about the bonds. Prof. P. H. Grumman, of the department of Germanic literature, presided.

"That which brings the most satisfaction is unselfish service," Mr. Fairbanks said. "Such service stimulates our manhood and womanhood. The government has money only when the people furnish it. If we have money to take only one bond, we should take it. We will be serving our government and at the same time serving ourselves. We owe all allegiance possible to the government."

"It is essential that our government be furnished the money it needs to carry on the war. New questions coming up, new problems arising, looming large on the horizon, questions which must be solved. It will take the best intellects of the country to solve these problems. Severe conditions are confronting the world have confronted it since the world began. It is well that you are preparing yourselves for the difficulties that will confront you."

"The great trouble with serious questions like the liberty bond campaign," Mr. Fairbanks said, "is we forget our relations to them. There are many of us who do not perceive their relation to the present war. Who is doing the fighting? Not alone the men at the front, but (Continued on page two)

HUSKERS HAVE LAST LIGHT WORKOUT

Snappy Signal Drill Primes Team for Notre Dame

RIDDELL TO BE IN LINE-UP

McMahon Still a Doubtful Possession — Schellenberg and Dobson Have Slight Injuries

Following the example set before the Iowa game last week Coach Stewart refused to risk his charges in a scrimmage last evening and let them off with a stiff signal practice preceded by sessions of sprinting, tackling and blocking. The cold weather made the practice one of the snappiest of the season.

The line was practically intact last night as it will appear in the Notre Dame game. Hubka the youngster who has been playing end in the first two games did not show up in uniform, being kept out of practice by an infected foot. He will probably play left tackle against the Catholics as Ted Riddell will undoubtedly be at his old place beside Captain Shaw. The news that Riddell will again be in the game has helped Cornhusker stock to mount. It was Ted and Shaw who worked havoc with the Notre Dame line last year, stopping all plays coming their way and spilling many others before they were fairly started.

It was an evident fact last season that no tackle and end in Nebraska history could equal in effectiveness the playing of Riddell and Shaw when both of them were in the game at the same time. The two occupied adjoining berths on the Freshman team during their first year in school and have played beside each other on the varsity. Fans are hoping that both of them will be in good enough shape the rest of the season to take part in every game.

McMahon Probably In

McMahon is still a doubtful possession. He has to pass but one more examination and then he will be ready to tear into the Catholics and when he does, if Mac's curly, black, Irish hair means anything the Hoosiers will find themselves with a regular job on their hands. McMahon has passed two examinations this week in mathematics and will take one in physical education today.

The other members of the backfield are in good condition, with the exception of Schellenberg and Dobson. Schellenberg received an injury in the groin early in the season and it has failed to yield to treatment. Dobson has a charley-horse which interferes with his kicking. Kellogg, Otoupalik and Cook will be ready to go at the Hoosiers in as good physical condition as can be expected.

The Lineup

Following are the probable lineups of the two teams in tomorrow's game:

Nebraska	Notre Dame
Rhodes	le..... Hayes
Hubka, Munn and
DuTeau	.....lt..... Maguire

Experimental Department Open House.

Experiment department open house will be held some time in the later part of December. In other words this is lamb feeders' day. Experiments in feeding lambs began last December will be closed and all the data will be published.

NEBRASKAN FREE TO UNIVERSITY SOLDIERS

Believing that Nebraska men actively engaged in the war are just as anxious for news from the campus as their former classmates are for word from them, the management of The Nebraskan will send the paper free of charge to every Cornhusker soldier whose address is known. You can help by sending lists of addresses to The Nebraskan, either mailing them to Station A or telephoning them to the business office, B-2597.

Nebraska Men at Camp Dodge Enjoy Steady Grind of Preparation

Camp Dodge, Iowa, Oct. 16, 1917.—Almost seven weeks of Camp Dodge life has now been added to the military experience of the University of Nebraska men serving as officers in the cantonment here. During the first week or so the officers in camp outnumbered the enlisted men and the following verses by some humorist from Camp Funston were very much apropos here:

"There's only one private to fifty or so
With leather puttees on their shins;
These fancy kid officer students, you know,
That wear a strap under their chins.
An' I can't take a hike to the nearest exchange
To get me some camels or stuff
Without flipping me mitt till there's no feelin' in it
Which is tough darlin' Mickey, it's tough!
"I don't mind salutin' me betters, o'course,
The pretty young things I adore 'em!
But every lieutenant they got on the force
Is anxious to see us perform
They march back an' forth so's to get in me way
An' narry a one kin I muf
An' the odds is too raw for a guy with one paw
Oh, it's tough darlin' Mickey, it's tough."

Now, however, with 25,000 enlisted men in camp, even a second "lieutenant" is not to be sneezed at and a captain is quite a celebrity. When the full 45,000 allotted to this camp are here we shall be living in quite a city, a city of khaki, pine boards, and dust.

Work is On in Earnest

The work of training Uncle Sam's army for over-sea's service is on in earnest. Eight hours of drill a day excepting Wednesday and Saturday afternoons and Sundays has been the schedule for the enlisted man up to this time. In addition, on four evenings a week one hour is devoted to non-commissioned officers' school and one to school for officers. Up to this time the work has all been close order drill, guard duty, and calisthenics. The men are nearly all new to military service and military discipline must be acquired through close order drill.

There is almost unanimous satisfaction over the quality and morals of the men. The discharges for physical disability have been very few and have nearly all been due to mistakes of local examining boards. The ability of the men to grasp the work is everywhere commented on by the regular army officers and there is no question but that the average of the selective draft men is greatly above that of the old regular army men in ability. The diversity in previous occupation and training of the men is especially notable. There is little trouble for the companies to find trained mechanics, cooks, and clerks to serve the needs of the new army in these lines. In our company one of the company clerks is a Phi Beta Kappa honor student, a graduate of the University of Michigan. The cause for the greatest satisfaction, however, is the attitude which the men are taking toward the work. True, a large part of them asked for exemption before coming, but now that they are here the determination to do not only their best is almost universal. There are, of course, undesirable here as everywhere, and instances of sullenness and insubordination occur occasionally but they are isolated cases. The general tone is that of cheerful determination to do the job on hand and do it well.

I have just read, with a good deal of interest, Mr. Grimes' letter from Fort Snelling in The Daily Nebraskan for October 11. I think what he says in regard to the moral effect of military training on student officers applies in a large measure to the enlisted men as well. We have been prone, I think, to put more blame on army life than has been it due. The man of this army who dissipates while in the service has, in nine cases out of ten acquired his habits of dissipation before he acquired his uniform and the chief difference is that his uniform makes those habits more con-
