LAST RALLY COMES MONDAY EVENING

rally will be as representative as possible, and their subjects will range from post-mortems over the deceased Jayhawk to appeals for the old-time Cornhusker spirit in the approaching game. One of Nebraska's traditional rally speakers, Dr. George E. Condra, himself an old Cornhusker, is on the list, and it is expected that a prominent Lincoln football fan will talk. Arrangements are under way to have at least two former Cornhusker stars, who have helped win some of Nebraska's earlier inter-sectional battles,—there to take part. The cadet band will also be on the platform to play Nebraska football songs.

Three Thousand French Com-

and Bandages Ready

"We're on the home stretch," Mrs. Samuel Waugh, Jr., director of the University Red Cross work in Nebraska hall, told a reporter yesterday. "We will have over 3,000 French surgical compress dressings by the end of the week, besides the comfort kits and muslin bandages," she added. "These probably will all be shipped to France at once," Mrs. Waugh said.

The University Red Cross rooms are occupied every week night now. On Mondays and Wednesdays the faculty women's class meets, of Tuesdays and Fridays a class of women who work down town.

The rooms will be closed during Thanksgiving week, but when the vacation is over, the work will begin again in earnest. Dr. Winifred Hyde, associate professor of psychology, Professor Margaret Hannah, of the department of botany, expect to begin helping Mrs. Waugh then. Mrs. Armstrong, of the Lincoln society, an expert packer, has been helping regularly.
