FOOTBALL CLEARS $7000 FOR RED CROSS

fully with Dr. Stewart, director of athletics, and Mr. T. A. Williams, business agent, I find that the Athletics department of the University is now in a position to turn over at once $7,000 to the Red Cross fund. Taking into consideration the fact that last season produced a net loss of $4,500 and that the receipts for this year fell off on account of the lack of interest in sports due to the war, the economics practiced in order to produce this remarkable result are evident.

No small credit is due to the Commercial club, the Rotary club, the Red Cross, and other organizations who have so efficiently endeavored to increase the gate receipts. We hope, further, that this interest will continue and that the later sports of the year can be handled in such a way that, when the final settlement for the year is made with the Red Cross, the sum total will show a material increase over the $7,000 now available. The spirit that pervades the University may, perhaps, be best illustrated by quoting two paragraphs from Dr. Stewart's statement to me on the same date as this announcement.

"I believe it only just to the football boys, both varsity and freshmen teams, that the officers of the Red Cross be informed of the fine spirit with which our football boys worked this fall in order to insure a substantial donation to Red Cross. At times players participated in strenuous scrimmage on the field while wearing shoes which lacerated their feet because the policy of the department did not encourage large purchases of equipment. The boys never showed the least sign of objection to economy practiced on trips and in every way are deserving of the appreciation of the Red Cross officers, joining heartily with me in this gift as a representation of their fine efforts.

At the meeting of the Missouri Valley Conference men at Kansas City last week, reports from all managers showed that Nebraska was the only institution finishing the football season with a surplus in the treasury. As nearly as reports can be gathered from other institutions throughout the country nearly every treasury has suffered and yet is continuing to encourage sports at the expense of a serious drainage of surpluses. Also let me call your attention to the fact that as nearly as data can be gathered Nebraska is the only institution in the United States whose athletic department donated every cent and more of the profits of the entire year to Red Cross. Some institutions have donated ten per cent, but to my best knowledge no other school has done its bit to win the war as generously as has Nebraska."

In making this preliminary announcement of the condition of athletic finances in the University, permit me also to name Director Stewart, assisted by Business Agent Williams, as an important factor in reducing operating expenses and in getting the Department of Athletics into a good financial condition. It is believed the annual financial report will show that operating expenses since the University itself, took over the financial management of athletics, have been reduced over $13,000, as compared with the preceding year.

It is needless to say that at the end of the year a full financial report will be published and that in the meantime every effort will be made to swell the Red Cross fund.

Yours very sincerely,
S. AVERY,
Chancellor.
