cipal of a Bible Women's Training school for five years and is home for a short vacation. Miss Washburn was formerly an assistant in the sociology department. She is visiting Mrs.

H. U. Noble of Lincoln but expects to leave for her home at Lake Worth in southern Florida.

PROF. PHILO BUCK AUTHOR OF INTERESTING ARTICLE

"The Great False Prophets," Subject of Essay on Philosophers of the Ages

An article, "The Great False Prophets," written by Prof. Philo M. Buck, was printed in the October and December numbers of the Unpopular Review.

This is an analysis of the theories of the four great philosophers of the ages, Plato, Rousseau, Ruskin and Tolstol. Professor Buck explains the differences in the theories on life of these four men and finishes the article with the following statements:

"Finally it ought not to be so very difficult to give a broad definition to what has been attempted by these prophets. Life is so big, so monstrous, so utterly irrelevant, that our reason quails before it. The average man takes it as he finds it, with an easy optimism. But these greater men are at first stunned by its meaningless clamor, then roused to inspired effort to make reason and the will of God prevail. The demands of the inner life ring clear as a bell, and from its music they catch the melody that they would hear re-echoed from their imagination to work. They will simplify according to the inner pattern. But straightway a host of difficulties appear and the problem becomes more complex and the unknown begin to multiply, until in desperation they wipe from the slate all the distracting inconsistencies, leaving only what is fair and reasonable and fit for the divine taskmasters' eye.

And yet from the beginning, whenever we see fit to place it, man has been evolved into an intellectual and moral being by recognizing the facts, especially those in his own nature, and working and enduring in the effort to shape them to the ideal.

We cannot solve the problem by simply rubbing it off the slate. Perhaps the will of God they seek to have prevail, is a far more complex thing than they thought it. The solution lies through the approximation of reason and fact. Because these great men refused to look at the outer fact, instead of solely at the inner vision, they were prophets led astray."

Dr. W. E. J. Gratz Speaks at Vespers Service

Dr. W. E. J. Gratz, new pastor of the St. Paul's Methodist church, gave a talk at Vespers Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Temple. His subject was "How to Make Religion Real." Gertrude Munger gave a solo, Lucile Wilcox presided.

"Is religion real to you? Is the Bible a real book," were some of the questions Dr. Gratz asked. There are many worlds today such as art, beauty, music, literature and religion.
These are not appreciated by everyone. Art may mean much to one man and absolutely nothing to another. There is something lacking when things are not real to us.

"We can not appreciate the different worlds until first we desire them with our whole heart. Second, we must take time to make them real to us.
It is important to take time to enter into religious life, which is one of friendship.

"How content we are with second-hand ideas and notions! What was good enough for our fathers and mothers, we think is good enough for us. We must have opinions of our own. These are made real to us by experience only."

"How do you continue friendships?" was another question asked by Dr.
Gratz. "Often neglect loses friends.
One should take time to keep up correspondence with one's friends. Do not let excuses make you careless of your associates.
