Miss Beecher was very well known in University circles, being a member of the Kappa Alpha Theta and Theta Sigma Phi sororities. She was especially prominent in dramatics and journalistic work.

Lieutenant Brian was a member of Sigma Chi and of the University's well known athletes. They will be at home at Fort Sheridan, Ill.

Warren G. Deming, '18, of Fairmont and Miss Gratia Haran, who attended the Hastings College last year, were married Saturday, February 9, at the home of the bride's parents in Fairmont. Only members of the immediate family were present.

THE COLLEGE WORLD

The University of Wisconsin has been waging an all-university food-pledge campaign. A committee composed of two captains, twenty lieutenants and 200 privates who have personally interviewed every student in the university and have asked them to pledge themselves to the conservation of food. This action was taken as a result of the charge of the state council of defense that the students through ignorance or otherwise have not been co-operating as heartily as they might in the nation-wide conservation movement.

In order to save fuel the University of Wisconsin has closed both its gymnasiums, and all those taking physical education are skating, skiing and tobogganing for their credit. Additional rinks and skiing slides are being built. It is expected that this plan which the fuel situation has forced upon the university will prove beneficial, and that it will give a new impetus to outdoor sports.

CONVOCAION

MAKING OF AN AIRMAN

His Status, Salary, Medical Examination
All the details of the status of an airman in the making have never been fully told in sequence. Let us, therefore, follow a young man who has decided he will endeavor to qualify for the air service. First, of course, comes the routine of application.

The lowest age at which applicants may be accepted is 18 years and 8 months, on the theory that at the end of their training they will have reached the age of 19, which is the lowest age at which commissions may be granted in the American army. Applicants under 19, however, must present letters of approval of their enlistment from their parents or the military and naval establishments guardian, as is required throughout of the country. All applicants may enlist at any aviation examining board.

If an applicant passed his twenty-first birthday before June 5, 1917, and is consequently subject to the draft, a special arrangement has been made whereby the rule prohibiting voluntary enlistment by draft men is waived and he is permitted to enlist directly at an aviation examining board without reference to the draft or his draft board. All that is attended to for him by the aviation authorities. Even if he is in the present quota, he may be so enlisted, but if he has been actually ordered into service by the draft board, he must report to his mobilization camp as ordered, and there apply to his company commander for transfer to the air service.

The candidate's first step is to write to, or visit personally, one of the twenty-four aviation examining boards located in the larger cities, or the Recruiting Bureau, Aviation Section, Washington, D. C., to secure an application blank for entering the service. The candidate fills this out as indicated, with details of his life and his athletic and educational qualifications, in order to provide both a first estimate of his desirability and as complete a record as possible in case of his acceptance.

Then comes his physical examination. Naturally this must be strict for the good of both the service and the applicant. Also it appears formidable to those who do not understand it, so formidable indeed that the following explanation is given to rob it of its mysteries.

Of course the usual tests of lung and heart are given, for no man can be accepted who is not strong enough to withstand the pressure of high altitude. The stethoscope, the tapping of the chest, and the broad rubber band about the arm are familiar enough in testing lungs and blood pressure.

When the candidate is set to picking different colored papers out of a box he may be a little mystified. Let him remember, however, that color blindness would be a source of weakness to one upon whose preciseness of vision depend the lives and fortunes of thousands of men below. It is often a slight change of color, a suggestion of a deeper brown, that first reveals the new cut trench to the ever-watchful eye in the sky.

But it is the balance test which causes the most perplexity, largely because it is not understood. Testing balance is a new science, and a complicated one requiring ingenious methods. But it is of vital importance to him who later may be unwinding from a spiral miles above the ground or rushing along at twice-express-train speed in a solid bank of clouds.

One's balance is regulated entirely by a tiny fluid in the canals of the inner ear. It is as delicate and as accurate as the fluid in the finest

FANCHON AND MARCO—ORPHEUM TODAY
There have been beautiful frocks galore shimmering behind the footlights at the Orpheum this season, but none—not even one "rememberable"—has matched in artistic grace the gowns worn by Fanchon, the willowy jazeuse. She appears on the new bill with her brother, Marco, the spry, good-looking Frisco Jazz Band and Rudy Wiedceft, saxophonist par excellence. This combination of noise and rhythm and beauty makes one of the best acts seen on the circuit this

MERCEDES—ORPHEUM TODAY
Mercedes, whose mystical, musical thought transference act is reminiscent of that of Professor Lovett and his Concentration—or vice versa—gets over wonderfully. At the demand of any member of his audience, Mercedes thoughtfully makes his assistant at the piano, Mlle Stantone, play the selection asked. If the little speech Mercedes made near the close of his act regarding a certain national hymn—"not Russian, nor Italian, nor French, nor English, nor American," was the flare-up from an insult it was a great patriotic exhibition; if it was a regulation part of the act, it was more than clever.—Denver Express.—Adv.
