THE WESLEYAN GAME

For the first time in eight years Nebraska has won both basketball games from Wesleyan. It was not because Nebraska had a number of veteran players that the games were won. Of the seven basketball "N" men of last year, one is on this year's team. Wesleyan had more experienced players than Nebraska. It was plain hard work that won the games, hard work done by the coach and players under great difficulties.

The Armory is the University what the town hall is the little western town. Elections, dances, political gatherings, box socials, musical concerts, basketball games, all are held in the one place. True as yet no University roller-skating club has been formed but we have cadets who must train indoors frequently.

To successfully schedule an event in the Armory is one of the most difficult things the University has to offer. If a special meeting of some sort has been scheduled six months before, it is very probable that the girls' and boys' basketball team will each want it if someone does not get there first to rehearse for something.

Under these conditions the University basketball team practices each year. It is no wonder Nebraska does not win in basketball as she does in football. It is a wonder she wins at all.

The war has brought out forcibly the importance of intercollegiate athletics. Athletes rank high as soldiers. President Wilson has urged athletic directors to do all they can to train University men.

What Nebraska needs is a gymnasium. It has now only an armory.

CONVOCATION TODAY

Nebraska students and faculty should hear Helen Frazer tell at Convocation this morning how England has organized her war-relief work. We all remember the eloquent address the English adjutant-general gave in the Lincoln auditorium about a month ago. Miss Frazer is as noted in her work as he is in his. She is more than a skillful, efficient organizer; she is a forceful, convincing speaker. She organizes the material of her addresses with a skill equal to that with which she organizes the various war-relief activities.

It would seem enough to point out that when England wished to send a speaker to America, not to criticize what American women are doing, but to picture to them what women may do, that Miss Frazer was selected. English women have and are accomplishing much. A glance at any English newspaper makes that plain.

The military department of the United States has been helped by experienced French and English army men. By learning how English men and women most successfully are doing war-relief work we will doubtless acquire greater efficiency.

Silver Serpent Society Raffles Khaki Sweater

Silver Serpents are now selling tickets for the raffle of a heavy khaki army sweater, knit by Frances Larson. The tickets are 10 cents each and the numbers will be drawn the last of the week. This sale is being conducted to raise the Silver Serpent subscription to the Red Triangle fund.

The sweater will be on display at the College book store and the tickets can be obtained from all Silver Serpent girls.

NOTED LECTURER AT CONVOCATION TODAY

Englishwoman War Worker to Speak on "Women and the War"

Miss Helen Frazer, noted lecturer and leader in English war work, now lecturing in this country will speak on "Women and the War" at Convocation in Memorial hall at 11 o'clock this morning.

This evening she will speak at St. Paul's church on "The Mobilization of Women for War Work." An admission of twenty-five cents will be charged for the evening address to cover the expense incurred in bringing her to Lincoln.

Miss Helen Frazer is an official of the British treasury now lecturing in America with the approval of the British government; she has continuously been engaged in various kinds of war work since August, 1914, and has personally organized no less than 109 of the 1,500 local committees of the national war savings committee, which in turn have reorganized 40,000 war savings associations to which more than seven million persons contribute every week. Miss Frazer is a member of the executive committee of the national union of women's suffrage societies of England—the non-militant or constitutional group under the able leadership of Mrs. Henry Fawcett.

Miss Frazer is lecturing in America on the invitation of the principal women's colleges and the woman's committee of the council of national defense. The following extract from the Vassar Students' newspaper shows the way in which students receive her:

"Miss Frazer, here's to you! We don't need to say that we liked Miss Frazer and everything she had to tell us. The way we followed her around, and packed every room in which she spoke, out to the doors and sometimes up to the ceiling is proof enough of that. And even the fact that it was Sunday could not check our outburst of song in the Soap Palace as Miss Frazer departed. Her gracious speech of appreciation left us with the question not phrased by her before, but certainly in the minds of every one of us who had been hearing her: What are we going to do?"

DEAN AMANDA HEPPNER ENTERTAINS 200 WOMEN

Seniors and Freshman Enjoy Saturday Afternoon at Kids Party in Temple

Over two hundred seniors and freshmen were present at the party given in the Temple Saturday by Dean Amanda Heppner. Miss Heppner was assisted by the executive board of the senior advisers. Each girl received a miniature hatchet when she entered. The hatchets of the freshmen girls were red, white and blue, while those of the seniors were red. The guests wrote their names on the hatchets.

Then the girls divided into groups and played charades. The following program was given by two seniors, two freshmen and a quartet from all the classes:

Reading Catherine Pierce
Vocal Solo Violet Faulk
Reading Octavia Beck
Solo Dances Marjory Barstow
Hawaiian Music — Carolyn Reed, Ruth Lindsey, Louise Bailly, Doris Arnold, Frances Whitmore and Ruth Ryons.

The girls spent the latter part of the afternoon in dancing. Refreshments were served in Faculty hall, which was prettily decorated with ferns and banners.

The purpose of this party was to give the freshman girls a chance to get acquainted with their adopted "big sisters."

Registration in Farm Course Breaks Record

Registration at the course of the school of agriculture which opened Monday gives every indication of breaking records. Wednesday 159 students had registered. The total registration for the short course last year was 160.

"There is every indication that we will break our last year's record," said Principal H. E. Bradford. "There will be a number of late arrivals which will probably bring the total up to nearly 170."

Seventy-seven of the students are registered in the farm motor course. Twenty tractors and trucks are on hand to give the students actual practice. The popularity of this course is attributed to the fact that there is a shortage of help on the farms as a consequence of which the tractor is playing a bigger part than ever before, and to the fact that the army is asking for automobile and tractor experts.

Rev. P. L. O'Loughlin, D.D., Ph.D., chancellor of the diocese of Lincoln, and spiritual director of the Catholic students' club, is giving a series of lectures on "The Christian Philosophy of Life" on Wednesday evenings during Lent at the Cathedral, Fourteenth and K Streets.

Speaks on Y. M. C. A. War Work Before Union Society

Miss Norma Kidd, '15, of the city Y. W. C. A. spoke on Y. W. C. A. war work before the Union Literary society last Friday evening. She told of what is being done both here and abroad to better the conditions of the women near camps and of those left helpless by the war.

A piano solo was given by Helen Janike, a vocal solo by H. Kinney, and Doritha Ferris told a number of stories. This week's meeting will be a closed meeting and election of officers for the next term will be held.
