SNAP SHOTS WANTED

Cornhusker Management Asks for Pictures of Campus Life and Especially of the Men "Over There"

With but four days left in which to have their pictures taken for the Cornhusker, all sophomores are warned by the Cornhusker management, that they must make arrangement with the Townsend studio at once. The time limit is set for Saturday night at 9 o'clock. After that time, no more pictures will be accepted. The proofs will be sent to the engravers the first thing next week.

Cards were sent out to all the sophomores of the University today, informing them to have their pictures taken. Some of the sophomores names were not listed, so that it is possible that some may not receive those cards. This should make no difference to these students, and they should make arrangements immediately for having their pictures taken regardless of not getting the cards.

Some of the members of the second year class have failed thus far to pay the fee charged for taking the pictures. If the fees are not paid, all the trouble of sitting for the pictures will be for nothing. The pictures will not go in the Cornhusker unless the fees are paid. The upper classes have been more prompt with this than the sophomores, and the second year students should take heed and tend to this at once.

The management of the Cornhusker is still asking the University body, to bring in campus views, snap shots of the men in khaki, and any other interesting material that they may have. These things will be the very life of the book this year, and every student of the University is urged to aid the staff in making the Cornhusker the best that it is possible to make. If any student has any pictures of the Nebraska boys "over there," they are asked to kindly turn them in at the editorial office of The Cornhusker, in the basement of U Hall.

EXPLAINS REASON FOR NEBRASKA'S NEW MUSEUM

Prof. E. H. Barbour Tells of Plans for New Structure at Convocation

Prof. E. H. Barbour spoke at Convocation Tuesday at 11 o'clock in the Armory. His subject was "Recent Discoveries," and was illustrated with stereopticon pictures.

"A museum has been defined as a nice assortment of labels carefully written with things to illustrate the labels," Professor Barbour said. Then a picture of the old museum was flashed before the audience. This was followed by a plan of the new campus. The new museum, as planned by the architect, will face on Thirteenth street.

The museum of the Nebraska University has been a storehouse for the world. Other museums have been drawing supplies from Nebraska for a long time. Our museum has an especially fine collection of long-jawed elephants. We have the biggest pair of tusks known in the world.

Our museum has collected paintings. We are also beginning to collect and drawings of the primitive ages. Samples of all the pottery of the Indians, primitive men, Chinese and other peoples. Dean C. C. Engberg has been collecting each year marine animals. No museum has any thing to compare with our collections of these.

This museum is becoming famous for its types. Carnegie and Nebraska University museums are the only ones who have two specimens of the giant hog. Carnegie's specimen is worth $50,000, while that held by Nebraska is valued at $51,000.

BASKETBALL EDITION FOR HIGH SCHOOL LADS

The Daily Nebraskan will publish an eight-page special basketball edition Friday morning containing an account of all Thursday's games, a review of the present Cornhusker season, the co-eds' tournaments and special articles on the high school tournament.

Extra copies will be printed and distributed to the thousand high school lads that are in Lincoln.

NEBRASKA MEN AT FRONT REMEMBER ALMA MATER

Send Many Cards to University Alumni Office From Positions in War Zone

The alumni office has just received cards from a number of alumni and former students who are now in France. The cards were sent about a month ago from various sections of the battle front, some from the front lines of communications. Most of the men are now in active service. They expressed their thanks to the soldiers' committee of the University Patriotic league for the Christmas gifts which were sent them and many sent their regards to professors and classmates who are now in the University.

Following is the list of the men heard from and also their addresses: Joseph A. Sargent, '03, captain engineers, U. S. R. in care of headquarters, line of communications, American Expeditionary Forces.

William Hayward, '97, colonel of colored regiment, N. Y. infantry, American Expeditionary Forces, France.

Keith Graul, ex-'18, private battalion 151, field artillery, battery D, American Expeditionary Forces, France.

C. A. Horst, ex-'20, private 29th aero squadron, American Expeditionary Forces, France.

Bruce W. Benedict, '01, captain battalion F, 149 field artillery, American Expeditionary Forces, France.

Wayne E. Hanlen, '17, private, 166 field artillery, American Expeditionary Forces, France.

Harrison L. Gayer, ex-'19, first lieutenant, 28th infantry, Company A, Am. Expeditionary Forces, France.

H. F. M. Hall, ex-'18, Company G, 166th infantry, American Expeditionary Forces, France.

Jaro Mulac, ex-'20, private, medical department, advance medical supply depot No. 1, A. P. O. 712, American Expeditionary Forces, France.

Ernest H. Wohlenberg, '12, Company C, 10th engineers, American Expeditionary Forces, France.

George G. Bushom, sergeant-major, 89th aero service squadron, American Expeditionary Forces, France.

R. J. Aldrich, '14, private, convois autos, S. S. U. 648 B. C. M., American Expeditionary Forces, France.

H. A. Prince, '13, second lieutenant, 166th regimental gas officer, American Expeditionary Forces, France.

Earl J. Lynde, ex-'13, sergeant, 10th engineers railway, Company B, U. S. army postoffice No. 705, American Expeditionary Forces, France.

dye will bring in the market will give life to a child of Belgium for one year.

The women's league emergency relief committee has written to San Francisco to find where the stamps can be sold and through what channels the money should go. As soon as the information arrives, a chairman will be appointed to take charge of collecting stamps. Perhaps the first two days of next week will be devoted to this campaign. A box is to be placed in Denny hall and other boxes at advantageous points on the campus at the University of Washington into which men and women may drop old postage stamps.

Old gloves, sewed together, make vests that are unexcelled as protectors from cold winds. The women's league is planning to collect gloves which will later be sewed into vests for the soldiers. Glove day comes in a few days, perhaps next week.

ADOPT NEW METHODS FOR CHOOSING BLACK MASQUE

Senior Women to Be Told of New Plan for Electing Members at Meeting Today

At a meeting of the senior women called by the president of the senior class to be held in Law 101 at 11 o'clock this morning the fourth year co-eds will be told of the new method adopted by which the Black Masques for next year will be chosen.

The by-laws of the present Black Masque has been changed to the effect that the senior women will nominate thirteen junior girls whom they think most eligible for membership in Black Masque and this list will be presented to a committee from the faculty comprised of the dean of women, the executive dean and the registrar who will consider the nominations and then hand them when approved or amended to the present Black Masques for the final vote.

This revision in the methods of nominating and voting on the prospective members of the honorary society is expected to meet with a hearty approval from both students and faculty as it provides an adequate chance for fair representations.

PROF. N. A. BENGSTON AUTHOR OF INTERESTING ARTICLE

Prof. N. A. Bengston, of the geography department, is author of a leading article in the current issue of the Motor Highway entitled "The Larder Road to Yellowstone National Park," which describes the features of general geographic interest as interpreted along the route from Rawlins, Wyo., to the south entrance of the park. The material for the article was gathered from Professor Bengston's experience on his oil work last summer.

STATE MUSEUM SENT UNUSUAL COLLECTION

Wm. Cleburne Donates Material Gathered While Working for Railroad in West

The Nebraska State Museum is numbering and recording the collection of William Cleburne of Omaha. Mr. Cleburne was associated with the Union Pacific in the early days of its building and availed himself of the remarkable opportunity which this offered to secure rare material. He was a careful and exact collector so contrary to the usual rule everything is correctly labelled. The collection consists of fossil plants and leaves from Black Butte, Wyoming, Golden, Colorado fossil leaves from the famous locality rado, and an unusually generous set of Malzen Creek, Ill. There are important collections of carboniferous plants from Pennsylvania. His collection of petrified fish number seventy-five to a hundred, one slab containing six, another forty-two fish. There are several mammoth and mastodon teeth, the tusk and stray bones of a mammoth. There are a number of specimens illustrating phenominal geology and about 600 cabinet specimens of minerals, rocks and ores. In addition to this there are more than 1,000 vertebrate and invertebrate fossils from various fossil fields in the United States.

Lincoln Prepares Entertainment For Thousand High School Athletes

By the way of special entertainment, several interesting things have been planned for the thousand out-state athletes. There is to be the night of stunts on Friday which will of course attract a great deal of attention. Then there is to be the picture with the governor at 1 o'clock Thursday. Also, the Commercial club has arranged, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., for a series of very interesting sight-seeing trips in and about Lincoln, visiting some of the points of special interest. Among other places to be visited will be the Havelock shops, the Cushman Motor Co.'s plant, the Lee Broom and Duater Co., the State Farm, the Penitentiary, and the State Hospital for the insane.

Transportation will be furnished to these places to all the visiting boys, by the Commercial club, and the Y. M. C. A. will furnish guides, so that the fellows from out in the state

CADET OFFICERS LEARN ART OF SEMAPHORE SIGNALING

In the officers' class Tuesday afternoon, semaphore signaling, commonly known as wig-wagging, was started. A few of the men who drilled last year had work along that line, but in most of the companies, it was omitted. It is planned this year to get the men in the regiment acquainted with this type of signaling as soon as possible

UNIVERSITY CADETS TO WELCOME DRAFTED MEN

Band and Companies Escort National Army Quotas From Depots to Hotel

University cadets and the University band will take part in the welcome which Lincoln is to give to the detachments of men to the draft camp at Fort Riley as a part of the last 15 per cent which will pass through the city today.

The cadet band met the men from Morrill, Box Butte, Grant, Thomas, Custer, York and Seward counties who arrived in the city yesterday. Men arrived at the same from Loup, Howard, Blain, Garfield, Valley, Wheeler, Greeley and Merrick counties.

A large group of men will arrive Wednesday evening at 6:45 o'clock and will be met at the station by the University cadet regiment and will be escorted to the Lindell by the cadets and the band. Cadets who fall in promptly at 8:30 will be excused from the regular drill that evening, according to an order issued yesterday by Col. H. L. Roberts, commandant.
