Men's New Spring Suits
For Spring Dress-Up Days

The front they present will make a big hit with the tastes of University men who are particular about their appearance.

The assortments include plain and panel back models formed of every wanted material in a plain color or a mixture; fashioned upon lines which have a decided tendency to follow the lines of the figure closely.

The pick of them, in a size to fit you like the paper on the wall, can be had for this low figure.

WE SAVE YOU $10.00

The reason is that we have eliminated all over-head expenses usually necessary for a store of this kind—no high rent—no charge accounts, del-iveries, etc.

Unless you are saving $10.00 you are not prac-ticing conservation.

NEWS FROM CAMP

Lieut. Walter J. Carveth, '19, has been visiting at his home in Lincoln during the last few days, on a ten days' leave from the aviation train-ing camp at Kelley Field, Texas. Yesterday he visited old friends and professors on the campus, and had many interesting tales to tell about the life at aviation training camp. Professor of the "silver wings," the flying insignia of the United States army. He has been in the air for a total of 50 hours, and has done many stunts in the air, such a spiraling, looping, etc. He likes the work immensely, and says that he can not get to France soon enough to suit him.

At the same camp with Carveth are several other University of Nebraska men. He spoke very highly of Leland Waters, who is in the same division with him, and who has graduated from the ground school, and is now training for a second lieutenancy in the advanced flying school. Waters has been flying for some time, and has done excellent work. He will be back on a leave of absence in about ten days, and it is probable that by that time he will have a second lieutenancy.

Other University men who are at the same camp are Max Kier, Eyer Sloniger and Danny Clare. All have graduated from the ground school and are in a fair way to have lieutenancies by the time that they re-turn to Lincoln.

Glenn Wallace, ex-'19, received a commission as lieutenant in the avia-tion department last week. Wallace is in Camp John Wise at San Antonio, Texas.

CORNHUSKER MEN IN CAMPS WELCOME WORD FROM HOME

C. J. Frankforter Sends Letter of Thanks Upon Receiving Daily Nebraskan

That Nebraska men in the camps and abroad appreciate any word from home and especially the Nebraskan is evidenced by a letter received at the Nebraskan office from C. J. Frankfor-ter, who is now located in Camp Grant, Rockford, Illinois. Capt. Frankforter says that they are proud of the scrap the Nebraska quintet of basketball men are putting up this year in the face of odds. He also sends greetings to all his campus friends. The letter follows:

"Camp Grant, Ill.,
"March 10, 1918.
"The Editor,
"The Daily Nebraskan,
"Lincoln, Nebr.
"Dear Fellow Nebraskan:
"Just a line to inform you as to how much the Nebraskan—or better, "The Rag"—is appreciated.
"To hear of campus doings is in-deed a pleasure.
"It seems the basket-ball tournament is again a success. Also was glad to learn that the 'U' had a scrappy bas-ketball team.

"In the building in which I am 'at home' is W. S. Delzell, First Lieut. Company C, 341st Infantry. We have some good times together.

"One of my former students who was a pre-medic three or four years ago—Oden by name—dropped in on me the other day. He has been in the navy transport service, in hospital work. He was on the U. S. S. Mer-cury, and had just returned from France.

"Remember me through your paper to my friends on the campus.

"Again assuring you of my appre-ciation of 'The Rag.'

"I would be,
"Sincerely,
"C. J. FRANKFORTER.
"Capt. 341st Inf., 86th Div. N. A.,
"Camp Grant,
"Rockford, Ill."
