HALF AND HALF

Spring Melody
 It is spring time and the bug is in the air
 Signs of life are stirring almost everywhere.

Pa's got it, so has ma and sister Sue
 And I do believe it's getting in me too.
 For my bones just get to itching
 And my muscles get to twitching.
 And I'm nervous as an old maid
 drinking tea.
 I don't know what to do,
 For I'm upset through and through
 'Cause the bug has got his clutches
 into me.
 When I feel those warm winds blowing
 And I see the golfers going
 With bags and clubs and breeches
 to the knee
 My nerves begin to twitch
 And I begin to itch
 For the bug has got a hold on me
 you see.

When I see the boys a shooting
 marbles in the ring,
 The bug just whispers and I hear
 them say it's spring.
 For the birds will soon be coming
 And the bees will soon be humming
 And breezes warm will send their cheer to every heart.

It makes me think of sunny days,
 I can see them in a haze,
 For the bug has gripped me, caught
 me, at the start.
 Oh! there's lots of signs of spring
 And oh my, the joy they bring.

As I face a draft that chills me to
 the bone,
 For although the signs are here
 Old King Winter lingers near,
 Although everybody greets him
 with a groan.

Pa's restless as can be and he don't know what to do,

 Ma's busy as a bee and so is sister Sue.
 Pa's got the bug, so he's putting on his walking shoes.
 Ma and Sue are sewing for the soldiers over there.
 I'm so darned uneasy that I'm sure I've got the blues
 For the bug of spring is flying in the air.

The Joke Recoiled
 Riggs (facetiously): This is a picture of my wife's first husband.
 Diggs: Silly-looking guy! But say, I didn't know your wife was married before she met you.
 Riggs: She wasn't! This is a picture of myself when I was twenty-five.—Boston Transcript.

"Who lies will steal." Not so; many a man will lie diligently about a woman, though he would not steal her for her weight in gold.

Willing to Oblige, If—
 Marconi was once at a dinner where a lady mistook him for his famous fellow countryman, the composer Mascagni.
 "Oh," she exclaimed gushingly, "I'd love to hear you play your beautiful 'Intermezzo!'"
 "And I'd love to do it," replied Marconi gravely; "and I will do it with pleasure, if you've got a wireless piano."

"Spring is Here"
 Sing a song of Springtime,
 Loafing on the Quad;
 Four and twenty Students,
 Sitting on the sod,
 And then our friend, the Colonel,
 Appeared upon the scene,
 Whereupon he interrupted

The wearing of the green.
Need for Education Here
 Freshman: "What are you reading?"
 Senior: "Mathew Arnold."
 Freshman: "Wasn't he a traitor?"
 When a woman is very, very bad, she is awful, but when a man is correspondingly good he is weird.
