Interesting Discussions at Pre-Medic Banquet

Fifty members of the Pre-Medic society were present at their fourth annual banquet, held May 15, at the Lincoln hotel.
Some very interesting toasts were given. The toastmaster was James A. Fowler. Dr. Lattemer and Dr. Barker spoke.
Dean R. A. Lyman made the introductory speech. Dr. Irving Cutter spoke about the need of doctors in the war. Dr. Chas. W. Poynter discussed the "Survival of the Fittest." C. Weeth, R. Whitham and G. Weigand also gave interesting toasts.

Prof. E. H. Barbour Active in Minerology

Professor E. H. Barbour returned last Saturday after an absence of about six weeks. He was called first to Washington to attend the council on war minerals, and after spending a week there, collected in Florida and the Gulf states. A second meeting has just been called and he will probably go east again the last week in May. Mr. Barbour expects to drive into the southern states on a collecting trip this coming winter to secure material in enormous deposits which have just been visited.

University Men Will

APPEALS TO MEN TO REMAIN IN COLLEGE

men to carry on projects of every kind known to the field of engineering and science. Certain dangers present themselves to us in connection therewith, upon which I wish to comment briefly with a view to aiding students and prospective students in the decisions they must make as individuals, whereby they can patriotically put themselves into positions to serve most effectively the cause of our country and of humanity.

"It is well recognized that the needs for men, of which I speak, are very broad and very real. It is not necessary to dwell upon this point. I shall therefore pass directly to the major considerations, and shall purposely limit myself to the technical field, although much might be said for other activities as well.

"With the first calls to service our technical schools opened their doors to give up large numbers of partially trained students who were physically, mentally and morally fit to undertake the service demanded of them. They are now perfecting their training and entering upon their tasks.

"But the needs continue and the demands enlarge and multiply. From where is the continuous supply to come?

"The war and navy departments have attempted to answer this inquiry by ordering that there be established enlisted reserve corps in various branches, such as engineers, signal corps, navy, naval flying corps, open to enlistment by technical students of certain qualifications, with the distinct purpose of placing these men upon the inactive list and causing them to continue their college courses. The government has thus approved this procedure, and now recommends it to, and even urges it upon, students on the ground that by accepting it they are in the service of their country and are acquitting themselves as they should.

DURABLE FABRICS AND COLORS IN PHOENIX
SILK HOSE

New hosiery shouldn't need mending; it's an annoying incident when it does.

You'll find Phoenix silk hose are made to give the best of wear with the least attention; and that the beautiful colors last as long as the fabric. Emerald green, navy blue, battleship grey are a few of the richest shades.

MAGEE'S

"Good Clothes—Nothing Else"

"It therefore devolves upon each young man of school age, who feels the responsibility of his manhood and the surge of an active passion for real service to answer the questions:

"Am I capable of developing along technical lines to the standards set for the expert?"

"Is the possibility of greatest service open to me through immediate entrance into some branch of army or navy or would time spent in school be justified by increasing my effectiveness, as is contemplated by the government in promulgating these orders?"

"In which way shall I do my part?"

"Every student of the University should interest himself as never before in urging men to pursue college courses, even at great sacrifice.

"Your opportunities are large. Do you realize them?"

"Your responsibilities are grave. Are you equal to them?"

"O. J. FERGUSON."
