WHAT WE LEARNED

While the Iowa victory might be partially attributed to a combination of the efforts of Old Man Jinx directed toward the Cornhusker machine, Nebraska must concede they lost to a better team and that the score of 12-0 was fairly indicative of the strength of the opposing eleven. In straight football Iowa clearly excelled, both in team and individual work—the total yards annexed by her totaling fifty more than those netted by Nebraska.

Though the Iowa score is a black mark for the opening game of the season it is neither the fault of the coaching system nor of the individual players. Coaches Kline and Schissler have worked faithfully and efficiently, not only during the practices of the season but through the summer in their efforts to add another victorious record to Nebraska's list and the failure in the first game was brought on by a combination of unavoidable circumstances which left Nebraska's battles to a team composed almost entirely of men new to University football. Schellenberg was handicapped by a recent attack of the grippe and McMahon by being compelled to spend most of his time the last week in straightening out his call to the Great Lakes.

The defeat at the hands of Iowa is a severe blow to the over-confident fans who listened with a smile to Coach Kline's urgent appeal for material at the beginning of the season, and who nudged each other as they heard Assistant Coach Schissler tell of the prowess of the Hawkeye aggregation. Nebraska have always been handicapped by their over-confidence and their tendency to treat all warnings by the coaches or athletic directors as "dope." At times in the past such tendency may have been excusable but this year it will be known that the Nebraska coaching staff believes in picturing conditions as they are.

Saturday's defeat shows that both team and rooters must fight harder when they meet the Funston aggregation of all-Stars on the home field next week. Every student in the stand must consider himself and his rooting as essential to victory and follow every direction of the leaders. This and nothing else will spur the team to victory. The statement that Nebraska will face a better team next week than the Iowa eleven is not

"dope" and Cornhuskers after the lesson of Saturday will not treat it as such.

DOLLARS MUST FIGHT

In these days when colored pins on war maps are being moved so rapidly on all fronts toward the German border lines and optimism reigns as press reports are followed, America is justly proud of her sons who have crossed to fight the battles of democracy. On every front they have distinguished themselves and have shown the magnitude of the power at which Germany has scoffed.

But a long hard fight remains before the sage power of the Hun can be broken; a fight which will require of America at least another million of her sons. No headlong German retreat has as yet been begun and no military expert expects peace before another year has passed. Two million Yankees in France and two million more on their way or preparing to go are dependant upon the people of America for their support. Those at home must pay for their transportation; feed them after they are across and supply guns and ammunition for them while they are in the trenches.

No longer must one plead for support of Liberty loans; no longer must one argue for dollars. It is imperative that we should give our dollars that the men who have crossed shall not have given their lives in vain and that those who are fighting may continue until the victorious peace is won.

Today a campaign to raise $40,000 among the members of the faculty and administrative force of the University; $15,000 among members of the S. A. T. C., begins. Check up on what you have done to help win the war, compare it with what has been given by the wearers of the khaki on foreign soil or the people of France, Belgium or England and turn in your balance to the committee.

Alpha Chi Omega and Sigma Alpha Epsilon in holding an "open house" for soldiers of Company B Friday evening inaugurated a custom which it is hoped will be carried on by other fraternities and sororities in the University. While many entertainments are provided by the Y. M. C. A. the soldiers enjoy more than anything else the opportunity to mingle with outsiders. They enjoy helping supply entertainment as much as they enjoy being entertained.

In nearly every city in the country homes are open to the wearer of the uniform and he is shown the hospitality that would otherwise be shown only to friends of long-standing. In Lincoln, while many of the trainers have been taken into the homes for meals on Sunday and farewell parades have been staged, very few parties are given during the time they are here.

The University, having given nearly two thousand men to the service, fully appreciates the need of frequent entertainments and will see that trainers who are stationed here in the future will not lack for the thing it can give. Captain MacIvor in expressing his appreciation to the Greeks for the Friday evening party, has shown his approval of the "open house" programs and it is hoped other fraternities and sororities will keep the new plan alive.

UPPERCLASS S. A. T. C. MEN
TO DRILL SIX HOURS A WEEK

Juniors and Seniors Will Not Take War Aims
Course

Class 1A Registrants Can Be Enrolled in S. A. T. C. As Instructors

The chancellor gives the following announcement: All S. A. T. C. men except freshmen will drill six hours a week only. Juniors and seniors will not have to take war aims courses.

A new order has been issued from Washington concerning instructors at colleges where S. A. T. C. units are located. It follows:

A new regulation has been adopted to enable registrants in Class 1-A of the draft to be enrolled in the S. A. T. C. and to apply for duty as instructors in their institutions, either before or after they are actually called into service. Two forms of application have been received at the chancellor's office; one for registrants to whom no P. M. G. O. call has been mailed by the local boards, and another for those who have had mailed to them such call. While the forms are different, the effect is the same.

In each case the application for induction into the S. A. T. C. has to be made in the form prescribed from Washington, and in each case has to be certified by the chancellor in a form also prescribed. This application has to be sent to the committee on education and special training at Washington and if approved there, it puts the instructor into the S. A. T. C. unit here with an assignment to remain as long as he is needed for the instruction of the unit.

Whether this procedure is intended as a substitute or is in addition to the claim for deferred classification on account of such position as instructor is not indicated by the circular. It would seem that it is the only method of procedure for the men who are classified in Class 1-A by the local boards.

It will be observed that this application may be made whether the registrant has actually been called or not, and it may be made on behalf of one who has actually been inducted into active military service.

S. A. T. C. men desiring to join the chorus report to Mrs. Raymond at the Library hall Tuesday or Thursday. Those already in the unit speak to the officer in charge of the respective company and he will excuse you to attend the chorus practice.

FINANCE COMMITTEE
SUBMITS ITS REPORT

The finance committee of the Faculty Patriotic League of the University of Nebraska begs to submit the following report concerning its activities for the academic year of 1917-1918:

The work of this committee has consisted primarily in co-operating with the war activities committee of the Lincoln Commercial club in conducting the various campaigns for the raising of war funds. The down-town campus of the University has been designated as one of the regular canvassing districts of the city and the chairman of the finance committee, together with the chairman of the committee of co-operation with students, has been placed in charge of this district. In the second Liberty Loan campaign the finance committee assumed charge of the subscriptions of both faculty and students, but in the later campaigns it was deemed a more effective arrangement to confine the work of the finance committee to the securing of faculty subscriptions and the work of the committee on co-operation with students to the securing of students subscriptions. Likewise in the second Liberty Loan campaign the work of the finance committee, included the farm campus but later this part of the campus was placed in charge of a separate committee.

During the first semester Dean (now Major) O. V. P. Stout served as chairman of this committee and it was due to his efficient and thorough work that such an excellent showing was made in the second Liberty Loan campaign. Altogether the finance committee has conducted four principal war fund campaigns. Detailed reports have already been submitted to the league covering each of these and a summary will suffice at this time.
