PAUL YOUNG FALLS VICTIM

Epidemic Gaining Ground in University Circles But No Need of Alarm

All Cases Receiving Medical Care—School Not to Be Quarantined Yet

Spanish influenza continues to mark up its daily toll of victims on the university campus. The latest fatality resulted Saturday evening when Paul Young of Nebraska City, a member of the freshman class and a pledge of Sigma Nu fraternity, died after an illness of three days. The funeral will be held at his home in Nebraska City, Tuesday afternoon. Members of Sigma Nu will attend the funeral.

Over three hundred cases have been reported in the university and the Nebraska training detachment, and new cases are daily coming to the attention of Dr. Clapp and Captain Hamilton.

There is no need, however, for students to become alarmed, according to Dr. Clapp, for it is a state of panic which makes the epidemic difficult to fight and to control. He says that if everyone will be unusually careful to take special precautions, it will not be long before the influenza germs will be stamped out. A copy of the instructions that were given out last week for personal hygiene, is posted in the basement of Grant Memorial hall, west end, where all may read it.

All cases that have been reported so far are receiving medical care, and are isolated in temporary infirmaries. These are houses near the campus which have been turned over to the university, and where the patients are now quartered. Some permanent infirmaries will be established as soon as the arrangements can be made.

As yet there has been no official statement made concerning the probable closing of the university. Dean Carl Enberg said that unless the conditions become decidedly more critical within the next few days, the university will not be quarantined. Classes will continue during the week, according to the regular schedule.

Benjamin Lake, Loren Hayes, George Fletcher and Sidney Goodfellow, who have been ill at the Sigma Nu house for the past few days, are recovering.

UNIVERSITY COUPLE WEDS

Miss Dorothy Sanford of Lincoln, daughter of C. W. Sanford, and Alfred A. DuTeau of Merrill, Wisconsin, were married Monday afternoon at 3:30 at the home of the bride's parents. Dr. F. L. Wharton officiated, and the marriage was solemnized by the simple ring ceremony. Only the immediate members of the families were present. Mr. DuTeau is a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and a player of note on the Nebraska varsity football team. He has been ordered to report at Seattle within the week for three months' training in naval aviation. Mr. and Mrs. DuTeau left for the west at 6:30 Monday evening.

The bride wore an attractive burgundy broadcloth suit and a chic little hat to match. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses.

AIR SERVICE OPENED TO SEPTEMBER REGISTRANTS

The government has authorized the induction of 7000 draft registrants into the air service according to word received by the air service test board at Omaha. They may be voluntarily inducted or drafted, must be physically qualified for general military service, and must have registered on or since September 12, and must have received their serial number.

This is an opportunity for immediate over-seas duty and will give early applicants a good chance for a commission. Men from practically every trade are needed in order to equip the new air squadrons and to bring old ones up to normal strength, and the only occupations barred are expert chemists, railroad men and telegraph or telephone men. Applicants can apply in person to the board at the army building, Fifteenth and Dodge streets, Omaha, or may send a typewritten letter stating in detail their education, knowledge and experience, the work they have done since leaving school, and for whom they worked, inclosing their classification card which should show their serial number, and credentials or certificate of their school college or university work.

Liberty Bond or Liberty Bond, which will you have it?

FRATERNITY MEN CAUGHT

A number of fraternity men have been sent to the hospitals or isolated in their houses. Among them are: Lloyd Buntz, Ernest Haverly, Duncan Cull, Loran Hastings and Jack Rogers at the Beta Theta Pi house. Lawrence Hitch, who has been very ill at the sanitarium, is much better. Stuart McDonald is confined to his room at the Phi Delta Theta house. Arden Butler, who has been at the hospital for several days, has returned to the Delta Upsilon house. Amos Ginn is ill at the hospital. Elmer Schellenberg, who has been ill at the Alpha Tau Omega house, is very much better, though still under orders to remain in bed. Maynard Dunlap, Sidney Stewart, Arthur Busch and Ernest Walters are also under the doctor's care at the same place.

FRESHMAN CONVOCATIONS ELEVEN O'CLOCK TUESDAY

Women in the Art Hall and Men in Temple Theatre Today for Big Programs

The annual freshman convocations will be held this morning at 11 o'clock, to welcome the matriculates and to acquaint them with some of the university customs and traditions. There will be two separate meetings, one for the men in the Temple theatre, and the other for the women in Art hall. Plans for the first year class will be discussed and regular university history and "dope" will be disclosed.

For the girls' convocation a very lively program has been arranged, and one that will be of interest to every freshman girl. The exercises will start with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner, followed by music by a Hawaiian quartet. Mrs. J. T. Lees will give a four minute talk on girls' activities and their chance to do war work in connection with school pleasures and duties. Ruth Welch will speak on the opportunities offered to the freshman girls through the Young Women's Christian association, and Madeline Girard will tell about the Women's Athletic association. Women's Self Government organization will be represented by Katherine Kohl. Dr. Winifred Hyde will speak for a few minutes on current university topics of interest to girls. The program will be concluded with a solo, "The Marseillaise," by Margaret Perry.

All first year men will gather together at the Temple at eleven o'clock today, to become acquainted with the dearest traditions of the university, and to assimilate some of the true spirit of their alma mater. Talks will be made to the freshmen by men who are abreast with the spirit of the times, and who will give many helpful hints to them about the conduct of their lives while students of the university.

Captain MacIvor, Professor R. D. Scott and Coach W. G. Kline will speak to the men. A few of the students will be called upon also for short talks. University yells will be given by all the men, and a spirited and peppy time is assured to all. The polls will be closed during the convocation hour so that every first year man can afford to be present.

CANDIDATES PRIMED FOR POLITICAL FRAY

Neil Chadderton.

This morning at 9 o'clock the polls opened for the election of six university students to places of honor in the community circle of the University of Nebraska. The election today promises to be one of intense interest, because the pre-election campaign has been systematically carried out by each of the sixteen contestants, and it is impossible at even this late hour to throw any light on the possible outcome of the election.

The election booths will be open today from nine o'clock until eleven. They will be closed during the convocation hour so that all freshmen of the university will be able to attend the assemblies being held at that hour. They will open again at two o'clock and will remain open until five. This gives studently only five hours during the day in which to visit the polling booths, and will necessitate that they arrange their time so as to be at the polls at the right times.

Although the name of Leonard Winterton appears on the election ballot today, it was withdrawn from the list last week. With this exception all the other candidates whose names appear on the ballot will run as before announced.

MANY NEBRASKANS NOW IN WAR WORK IN CAPITAL CITY

Cornhusker Civilians and Soldiers Helping Win the War at Washington

Among Them, in Their Special Departments Are Majors Avery, Stout and Fling

Washington, Oct. 5.—Of course it is an obvious fact that the war could not be won without the active co-operation of Nebraskans, but it is surprising indeed to find how many former University men and women are living temporarily in the war capital, devoting their time and their various abilities to achieving our ultimate victory. Some of them are in uniform—the khaki of the army, the service of the navy, and even in some instances the whatever-it-is-women-call-it of the naval reserve as worn by an ex-co-ed.

First, naturally, a Cornhusker thinks of Chancellor Avery, serving for the period of the war as a major in the chemical warfare service, division of university relations. Major Avery has his office in the surgeon general's building, a temporary structure hurriedly set up for the present exigency. Then there as Major Fling, head of the department of European history, one of the seven historians charged by the government to write the authentic record of the war. Major O. V. P. Stout, formerly dean of the college of engineering, and Major C. J. Frankforter, an alumnus of Nebraska and formerly head of the department of chemistry at the University of Minnesota, are stationed here in their respective fields. Captain Buck has forsaken rhetoric for army intelligence work, and though still occasionally contributing articles to the nation, spends most of his time now at his studies as captain of the division of military intelligence.

Many Students There
Former students in large numbers have paid the capital visits and not a few of them have decided to remain here for the length of the war.

Among the soldiers stationed here is Sergeant LeRoy Mersinger, '17, who was transferred here from Camp Cody.

Miss Helen Shields, a freshman in the University last year, is employed in the division of military intelligence under Captain Buck.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Reginald Woodruff, both '18, of Lincoln, both well known University students, have been here for some time, but Lieutenant Woodruff has recently been transferred to Hoboken, N. J., where they will go shortly. Mrs. Woodruff was before her marriage, Lucile Foster.

Clarence E. Hinds, '18, stopped in Washington not long ago to make arrangements for his journey to France, where he has been appointed an assistant accountant in the war department's offices over there. He was in town long enough for a reporter for the Washington Post to interview him about the "hot spell" in Nebraska.

Earl B. Gaddis, an alumnus of the class of 1906, is not the least conspicuous of Nebraskans in Washington. He is secretary to Senator Hitch-

M'MAHON NOW A JACKIE AT GREAT LAKES CAMP

Star Halfback Leaves Nebraska After Brilliant Career in Sports

Won Distinction in Foot Ball, Track Athletics and Dramatics

Harold McMahon, the speed demon on the Husker football team, is now a jackie at the Great Lakes naval training station. He turned in his football togs and departed Sunday noon for Chicago.

Mac came from Lincoln high school in 1916, where he made an enviable record in both football and track. He won a place on the all-state eleven and received notice as a likely candidate for all-Missouri valley honors.

He got out for freshman football in the fall of 1916 and broke into the varsity lineup against Michigan the following year. He held the right half position throughout the season and conducted himself with such brilliancy that the Missouri valley officials placed him on the third all-valley eleven.

McMahon starred in track sports last spring and was picked by sport critics as one of the ten fastest sprinters in the mid-western conference.

His advent into the jackie camp will no doubt be welcomed by the sailor boys' coaches. He will be in the same vicinity with Paul Dobson, last year's phenomenal fullback for Nebraska, and may see service on the same eleven with him this fall.

Besides being conspicuous in athletics, McMahon was a member of the university players and appeared in a number of dramatic productions last year.

NOTICE, NAVAL MEN

Great Lakes naval men are requested to call at Station A for mail which has been accumulating there.

NOTRE DAME CANCELS GAME

Coach Kline Offers Hoosiers a November Date—Season Limited to November

Dan Cupid Grabs Al DuTeau And He Leaves for West—Shelly Still Sick

Coach Kline received a wire yesterday from the officials at Notre Dame that their game with the Huskers on October 19 would have to be cancelled, in view of the latest war department orders forbidding trips that necessitate the absence of team members for longer periods than from noon to taps on Saturdays. The Nebraska mentor fired back an offer at noon for a game on November 9 and he had received no word from them last night. That date on the Husker schedule has been open all season and if the Notre Dame authorities can arrange to come then, it will fit beautifully into Nebraska's plans.

The Camp Funston contest set for next Saturday is the only other number on the Nebraska bill for October since the West Virginia game for October 26 has been abandoned. Kline has heard nothing to the contrary and is making preparation for the battle. Camp Funston is not an S. A. T. C. unit and so does not come under the war department ruling.

The ruling advises that during October, the football activities be confined to inter-company games, and on November 1, an all-star eleven be picked to represent the school throughout November which is to be the real competitive season.

Captain MacIvor, who has the final word in all matters concerning the Nebraska detachment, is not perturbed over the Washington orders and believes that the instruction is the main thing and by sending officers and instructors to accompany the team, that certain trips can be made.

Second Veteran Leaves

On top of the news of McMahon's withdrawal comes the announcement that Al DuTeau, varsity left tackle, has fallen victim to a shaft from Dan Cupid and left with his bride for Seattle Monday evening. He received his call to the naval aviation and will be stationed at a Pacific coast camp for the time being. This shoves another job onto the coaches to develop a line man for DuTeau's vacancy.

The stocky left tackle has been one of the bulwarks of the Cornhusker line and with his departure, leaves only two veterans on the team.

Schellenberg is Better

Captain Schellenberg, who was a sick man during the Iowa game Saturday, was unable to report for practice Monday. His condition was much improved yesterday and he wanted to get up but the doctor's orders were to stay in bed. He is expected to be in his place on the field today Lantz and Dana were also missing from the Monday drill on account of sickness.

SOCIAL FUNCTIONS ARE SUSPENDED THIS WEEK

Miss Amanda Happner announced Monday night that all university social functions would be suspended this coming week-end. The all-university party which had been planned for Saturday night will be postponed indefinitely because of this ruling, and until the influenza epidemic is under control, no further social functions will be held.

The action came as a result of a consultation between Chancellor Hastings, Dean Engberg and Miss Heppner. After carefully considering the matter they decided that if the university was not closed, that at least the social functions should be discontinued until the influenza stopped spreading among the students.
