DAILY DIARY RHYMES
 By
 Gayle Vincent Grubb

"DON'T YOU KNOW"
 School of many cares is made, don't you know
 Studying, ah, that's a beastly trade,
 don't you know,
 Where you work your stupid brain,
 And your souls in such a strain,
 And you'd rather raise some Cain,
 Don't you know?
 Exams? Ah, yes, my word, don't
 you know,
 Always come when minds are blurred,
 don't you know?
 To determine what you know, Why things are or are not so,
 And, what makes the south wind blow,
 Don't you know?
 We're once in school, that's all, don't
 you know,
 We've but one brain and it's small,
 don't you know,
 And with all I pause a minute
 At a task 'fore I begin it, For there's really nothing in it (?),
 Don't you know?
 Why school's a bally bubble, don't
 you know,
 A painted piece of trouble, don't you know,
 You persevere all day and night,
 And after the schoolyear fight,
 The wrong's as good as the right,
 Don't you know?
 So it's all a horrid mix, don't you
 know,
 All this life in which we mix, don't
 you know,
 For with all your gift or gab
 And your hours in the lab, Why, perhaps, you'll drive a cab,
 Don't you know.

HAND GRENADES

SPEAKING OF TELEPHONES
 Today, you bolted into the drug store to use the telephone. You were in a hurry of course, and it was somewhat disconcerting to find several people waiting for the telephone. You walked impatiently around the store, finally stopping before the magazine counter, where you picked up a copy of "Snappy Sto"—beg your pardon, I meant a copy of the "Literary Digest," and started to read.
 However, your literary perusal was short lived, for a very obnoxious clerk hinted to you that the magazines were for sale. You hastily put the magazine away, and with your most winning smile, drifted to the cigar counter, back of which stood a very lovely girl. Alas your best efforts to entice her into a friendly conversation failed.
 There was nothing to do but to amble back to the telephone. You waited while one woman ordered her groceries, while another malignantly discussed her neighbors, and while a man delivered an overwhelming list of alarming symptoms to his doctor.
 At last the people departed, and your struggle began. You found the typewriter system of getting your number most exasperating. Twice the buzz-bubb-buzz told you that the line was busy. Once you got the wrong number. Finally, you got the right one, and started to talk. You had talked only a short time, in fact a very short time, when a very disagreeable man called your attention to a sign which read, "When others are waiting, please be brief."

READY TO PUT ON
 and wear out of the store We are outfitting scores of S. A. T. C. and S. N. T. C. men Everything, regardless of armistice and peace negotiations

Uniform making gave us a great opportunity to show the superiority of Society Brand clothes. Government specifications fixed the rules for all the makers and all started on even basis. Then we were able to show, in spite of Government restrictions, the distinction of Society Brand.
 Society Brand style begins where other makes leave off.
 Society Brand style came to the front as it did in civilian clothes. Inton these uniforms is hand-tailored the exceptional style which distinguishes them—the trimmer lines, the smarter carriage and the smoother looking fit. Remember, personal appearance counts for a lot in the selection of men for promotion. Society Brand uniforms are ready for officers or its auxiliaries—Amy, Navy, Marines, Y. M. C. A. and Red Cross.
