UNI SOLDIERS TO SEE GAY WEEK END

Dances Dinners and Shows Will Entertain the Boys Saturday and Sunday

Hospitality of Lincoln Homes Will be Tendered to Men of the S. A. T. C.

Lincoln people will outdo all previous records of hospitality when they start in on the round of social events planned for the end of this week. Gay dancing parties, where the boys may be lifted out of the ordinary daily army atmosphere and waffled to a land of fair ladies and sweet music, seem to be in abundance. And second to no other function of any sort are the wonderful family dinners that delight the soul, as well as the palate. The lads, too, who are unable to leave the post during the week to see the latest moving picture in town, are remembered by those who planned the entertainment at the theatre for Sunday afternoon, for there are to be two reels of moving pictures along with the rest of the program.

Dance at Commercial Club

The big military dance at the Commercial club rooms is the first event of importance. There a number of delightful things will take place. A hundred men, to be selected from the S. A. T. C. by Captain Leslie G. Drake, will attend this affair. A large number from the S. A. T. C. at Nebraska Wesleyan have been invited to attend the dance too. Mrs. T. J. Doyle has sent invitations to one hundred and ten university girls, most of whom are non-sorority girls. Some very good music has been engaged for the evening and refreshments will be served.

Several smaller dances have been scheduled through the War Camp Community Service for Saturday evening. The Euterpean Musical club of the Lincoln Conservatory of Music is entertaining a party of twenty-three soldiers at the Army and Navy club for an evening of dancing. The Alpha Xi Delta sorority is also entertaining at a dance for some of the men in uniform. A communication was received by Dr. J. W. Carter requesting twenty-five men to attend a dance to be given by the Lee Broom and Duster company at the factory on Twenty-first and Y streets Saturday evening. Still another party is given under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A.

Sunday Dinners Planned

Sunday the committee will again see that one hundred and sixty boys, who have been living in anticipation since they heard the stories of the marvelous dinners of last week, have a chance to go and satisfy themselves that all reports are true. Most of these invitations come from the members of St. Mary's Cathedral.

At the Orpheum theatre Sunday afternoon, a program of wholesome recreation and entertainment is planned, part of which, and by no means the least interesting, is the moving (Continued on page 4)

DRAMATIC CLUB TRYOUTS SCHEDULED FOR TONIGHT

Tryouts for membership in the University of Nebraska Dramatic club will begin this evening and are scheduled to be held in the Temple theatre building. Over sixty would-be dramatists have signified their intention to enter the competition for membership and a lively contest is expected.

All who enter this competition must arrive at the Temple theatre building at least ten minutes in advance of the time for which they have been scheduled to fill out the dramatic club questionnaire.

Winners in this competition will be announced in all probability in the Monday issue of The Daily Nebraskan.

OFFICER CANDIDATES BEING MUSTERED OUT

Among the men in training at officers' schools who are now receiving honorable discharges from the army and are returning to civilian life, are a number of former university students.

Several members of the first O. C. quota sent to Camp McArthur, have been mustered out of service and will probably return to school soon. According to the latest ruling of the war department, candidates for commission at officers' training camps may apply for discharge or may remain until they receive their coveted bars, after which they will be placed on the reserve list.

EXHIBIT OF MODERNIST DISPLAYED AT ART HALL

Paintings of Riotous Color By Berger Sandzen Attract Much Attention

In the world of art, changes are wrought with such rapidity that even art lovers are compelled to stand aghast and let individual techniques come and go without attempting diligent study in their regard. Critics alone, have kept abreast the breathless pace of modern artists.

On the walls of Art hall there hangs a group of bold paintings and exquisite nature sketches. The artist is a comparatively obscure genius, whose work, though of the modernist type, seems destined to live, both as an example of present day scholarship and as a bit of work worthy of earnest effort on the part of future students of sensationalism with a view toward superiority.

Berger Sandzen lives at Lindsburg, Kansas, and is Dean of the school of art at Bethany university. He works with such haphazardness and produces such astounding color riots, that one wonders at his sense of artistic justice, particularly in his rendition of a Grand Canyon sunset. To scrutinize his unapproachable work, after viewing it at a slight distance, prompts bitter disappointment. The depth of feeling, the disregard for the finished touch, the absolute absence of modeling; all these things are combined, magically, to produce the most modern of techniques and the most pleasing wealth of nature-love. And Berger Sandzen, judging from his pictures, is a passionate lover of natural existence.

If you care for art, see this exhibit.

WOMAN, THE BIG WORD OF TODAY

Miss Stearns, Noted Speaker, Discusses "Woman's Place in the New Democracy"

Emphasizes the Large Sphere Women Are Occupying in the World's Work

"The great indictment that might be brought against the educated woman is the lack of a feeling of indebtedness toward the state that educates her, the failure to make any contribution to the state to repay that debt," Miss Lulia Stearns, noted woman speaker of America, declared at convocation yesterday morning in the Temple when she discussed "Woman's Place in the New Democracy."

"The old single-line definition of woman given in the first English dictionary—'Woman—a noun, female of man; see homo,' comes very far from the 14,000-word definition in one of the latest dictionaries. And that 14,000 word definition is quite inadequate," Miss Stearns said.

Not only is woman occupying more room in the dictionary, but she is also occupying a larger sphere in the world's work. It would take a cyclopedia to tell what women have done in the recent war. They have taken the place of men in the trenches. They have taken over 298 of the 363 occupations men are in.

Only Country Without Franchise

Miss Stearns emphasized the fact that soon America will be the only country in which women do not have the franchise. The Russian, the English, the Canadian women have the vote, the French will soon have it. King Albert has promised the vote to the women of Belgium in recognition of their services during the war.

What university women can do, even though they do not have the vote, is to help bring about legislation to meet and solve the problems now facing the country.

Reviews Labor Conditions

Miss Stearns reviewed the labor conditions, which, just before the war, were the most critical in the history of the country. Two thousand strikes occurred during the war. The child labor bureau declared that children had been working eleven and twelve hours a day. Women should petition congress to make new legislation so children can be put back in school.

"The race problem is an after-the-war problem," said Miss Stearns. "Three hundred thousand colored men and in the U. S. army. What are we going to say to them when they come back? They helped make the world safe for democracy. Are we going to make democracy safe for them?"

"The land problem is another. The task of feeding our allies made cultivation of soil important, but forty-five per cent of the country remains uncultivated. More intensive cultivation of the soil should demand our immediate attention.

"Every woman should work for the passage by the legislature of her state this winter of the federal dry amendment." (Continued on page 2)

FAMOUS ARMY SURGEON TO LECTURE HERE SOON

Dr. Etienne Burnet, the Only Member of French Educational Mission to Visit Nebraska

Will Talk on His Experiences at the War Front on December 9

Definite plans are being formulated for the reception of Dr. Etienne Burnet, who has been selected to represent the famous French educational mission at Nebraska University. Dr. Burnet will arrive in Lincoln, Monday, December 9, and will conduct a short inspection at this university.

A communication received by Professor George R. Chaburn yesterday from headquarters in New York City announced that only one member of the famous mission would visit Nebraska, and that it was left to the choice of the local committee which one was to be selected. The topic to be discussed was also to be selected by the local committee.

Select Dr. Burnet

Decision was made that Dr. Etienne Burnet should deliver the lecture, and that his subject should concern the present world war. From the list of lecture topics submitted, the subject, "Experiences of a French Surgeon on Different War Fronts,"

Arrangements are being made for an evening address, which will be open to the general public as well as to those affiliated with the University of Nebraska.

A Member of Pasteur Institute

Dr. Burnet had been a prominent member of the Pasteur institute prior to the outbreak of the European war and since that time has acted as a commanding surgeon in the French army. After having made extensive research in the field of philosophy, Dr. Burnet took the M. D. degree and became a member of the Pasteur institute as a specialist in microbiology.

His relation of experiences while in the French army is certain to be of great interest to all who attend the lecture.

War Aims Tests Given—The first monthly examinations for the War Aims course were held Monday and Tuesday of this week. As the war department asks for reports at the end of each month, a similar test will be given monthly. The object of this month's quiz was to ascertain how many of the boys have been doing the required reading.

Nebraska Men Mustered Out—Frank C. Bulla, '08, writes from the artillery officers' school at Camp Taylor, Kentucky, that he and three other Nebraska men in training there will be mustered out of the service and returned to civil life this week. The other university men are Warren Howard, '12, Yale C. Holland, '10, and Vincent Hascall, '12.

New House at Farm—The new house for the superintendent at the Agronomy farm is rapidly nearing completion. It will replace the former house which burned last spring. The new building contains ten rooms with a full sized basement. The exterior is finished in white stucco, trimmed in brown. The total cost of the building will be approximately $6,500.

James H. Nickerson, ex-'20, is in Battery F, 111 Field artillery, American Expeditionary Forces, France. He entered the army in December of 1917.

Atta Wells, '16, is teaching school in Deer Lodge, Mont.

Mabel Dummond, '16, is teaching at Hot Springs, South Dakota.

Mary Parker, '16, is teaching history in the Omaha high school.

Mrs. Joseph Bradley (Grace Huntley, '16), is living in Omaha.

STAR DODGER TEAM COME TOMORROW

Cornhuskers' Opponents for Saturday's Thriller Made Up of College Performers

Armour Laid Up in the Hospital With Influenza—To Play Washington, Dec. 7

The Nebraska Cornhuskers and the Camp Dodge Yanks are to bump heads tomorrow afternoon of the Husker gridiron and the sparks which the collision is bound to cause are expected to out-dazzle Old Sol himself by several degrees.

The impact is sure to lay one or the other out stiff and cold, and if Captain Hubka, Coach Kline and the entire Cornhusker battalion have anything to say on the subject, it won't be the wearers of the scarlet and cream.

Head Coach Robert Saxon of the Iowa camp is bringing a bunch of seasoned college performers to pit against the Huskers, all but one of the number having seen service in inter-collegiate football. Zaun, the rangy center, played four years with the West Des Moines high school eleven and for the last two years was recognized as all-state material. In the two games the Dodgers have played this season, Zaun outplayed both his Ames Aggie and Naval Reserve opponents at the pivot position.

Movale, a former North Dakota Aggie star and quarter on last year's Camp Dodge team, is fighting it out with Paul Curry, an old Hawkeye quarterback and all-state star, for the pilot job. The Dakota man has been playing regularly this season at quarter and has been showing up great in handling punts and running with the ball.

John Eagle and Sam Thomas are from the famous Carlyle Indian school. Eagle has been run as substitute in the back field in both games this season, while Thomas is regularly stationed at left end. The latter is a deadly tackler and a sure hand at pulling down forward passes. He and Platz, the Omaha and Creighton university star left half, execute forward flips out of force of habit.

To Play Washington Dec. 7

Dickerings with Michigan, Oklahoma and Washington universities for a post-season game with the Huskers bore one full-fledged plum. Director Scott received an acceptance yesterday from Dick Rutherford, former Nebraska captain and assistant coach, now directing athletics at Washington university at St. Louis, Mo., and the Huskers are going to pack their grips for the first time this season and play the Rutherford aggregation at St. Louis, December 7.

Armour is down with the influenza and Jobs was out of the lineup in last night's scrimmage but may be in (Continued on page 2)

FORTY-THREE STARS ARE TURNED TO GOLD

Kansas University Has Given Many of Her Sons in Putting Down Kaiserism

LAWRENCE, Kan., Nov. 18.—Forty-three stars on the Kansas university service flag have been turned to gold and stand as glorious memorials to the men who have given their lives in the service of their country. The list is not yet complete as the late casualties in the American army have not been reported, but Professor M. W. Sterling, historian of the war activities at Kansas university, is working on the honor roll and is asking the student body to aid by reporting new fatalities of which they may know.
