Many Huskers Wounded

Among those of the university lads who have been wounded is Lieutenant Harold E. McGlasson, '19, twice wounded and cited for bravery. Captain Jerome F. Langer, '01, of the 160th Infantry, was reported seriously wounded in action, July 17. Since then news of his recovery has been received by his sister, who lives at West Point. Captain Langer was a close friend of Lieutenant Colonel M. M. Liebmann, who was killed in action. Both were members for seventeen years of the 23rd New York National Guards.

Lieutenant Wendal L. Brookley, ex-'19, of Edgar, was injured in an aeroplane accident. Captain Earl M. Cline, ex-'15, of Nebraska City, was wounded in action, as also was Captain Joseph A. Lieutenant Edgar M. Westervelt was severely wounded in action July 19, but has since recovered.

Captain Harold F. Holtz, '17, of Burley, Idaho, was decorated for bravery.

LATE GAMES DELAY
ALL-VALLEY LINEUP

Daily Nebraskan Forced to Postpone Selection of Mythical Conference Team

Seven Huskers Certain to Secure Recognition by Western Sport Critics

Looking over the players of the teams in the Missouri Valley Conference, it would be a difficult proposition to pick out a fair list of players for an all-star team. For a Cornhusker, it would be no trouble at all to pick a team that would please the Nebraska fans, but it is our desire to pick a team consisting of all the Valley stars. For this reason The Daily Nebraskan will refrain from picking a team for the Thanksgiving issue as has been the custom in former years.

Nebraska has played only one conference game this year, that one being with Kansas. Missouri has not played any games at all this year on account of the influenza ban. For these reasons and numerous others, Coach Kline request that the mythical team should not be chosen until after all the scheduled games are played.

Post Season Games

Nebraska has scheduled two contests to be played after today's encounter. At least one of these games will be with a member of the Missouri Valley conference.

The all-star teams this year will consist almost entirely of first year men, because of the fact that most of last year's players are now in the service. Jones of Kansas was a member of the first team picked by The Daily Nebraskan, last year and aside from his name, all others will probably be those of new men.

Members of the Nebraska and the Kansas Aggies' elevens seem deserving of several places on the all-valley team this year in view of the fact that both have a clean record in conference games they have played this year.

Hubka looks like a possibility for captain of the team this year. Jones, the famous jayhawk guard and a member of last year's all-star aggregation is another possibility for this position. With Dobson in the husker lineup today, he will probably be considered by some critics for the leading position if he repeats his performances of last year.

Backfield a Problem

The list of candidates for the backfield positions seems to be large enough. Jones, quarter and captain of the jayhawk eleven and Howarth, pilot of the husker aggregation are the probabilities for the signalling position.

Miller and Gallagher of the aggies are possibilities for backfield positions. Swanson, Lyman, Wade Munn, and Mont Mann of Nebraska, Gates a second year man on the wildcat crew, and Jones of the jayhawks have practically cinched line positions on either the first or the second team. Wade Munn, playing regular at left guard position for Nebraska is one of the finds of the season. Swanson and Lyman have both played excellent games at end and tackle positions this year.
