PERSONALS

Wallace Speir, ex-'19, has been in Lincoln for a few days on leave from the Great Lakes, where he is in the naval aviation service.

Beulah Aylesworth, ex-'22, of Dennison, Iowa, is a guest at the Delta Gamma house for several days.

Lieut. "Lum" Doyle, '19, has been discharged and is home from Camp Stanley, San Antonio, Texas.

Beatrice Johnson, ex-'21, of Omaha, is visiting at the Delta Gamma house.

Lieut. Philip Watkins, '16, is home on a ten days' furlough. He will return to Boston and remain in the service there until next October.

Lieut. Mark Havens, ex-'20, is at the Delta Tau Delta house for several days.

"Jeff" Machamer has left school and is in Kansas City, Mo., working on the Kansas City Star.

Emma Nellson, ex-'20, of Dennison, Iowa, is at the Kappa Kappa Gamma house.

Margaret Matthews, '22, was operated on for appendicitis yesterday at an Omaha hospital.

Mrs. Ida S. Balles, chaperone for Gamma Phi Beta, was called to Berkeley, Calif., by the death of her daughter, Carolyn. Soon after her marriage in October, she contracted influenza, which proved fatal.

Second Lieut. Robert Jenkins has received an honorable discharge from Camp Taylor and is resuming his work at the University of Nebraska.

Ralph M. Thorpe, '19, who is stationed at Fortress Monroe, Virginia, will remain there until after the first of the year, when he will receive his commission.

John Stocker, '21, who was also taking training at Fortress Monroe, has been discharged and has returned to his home in Nebraska City.

HAND GRENADES

OH, BOY! AND THEN SOME
You returned to Lincoln last Sunday, undergoing a very strenuous trip to reach this hallowed spot. You left home early—yea, painfully early—laden with a suitcase, ukelele, hat-box, umbrella, heavy coat, and several boxes of candy; in fact, your equipment was complete except for the proverbial bird-cage.

You dared not enter the Pullman for fear your fellow-citizens would think you a snob. Therefore, you struggled aboard the chair car thinking fearfully of flu germs, but such fears were groundless, for you soon discovered there was not room for even the tiniest flu germ, much less for you and your motley assemblage of baggage. You looked about in despair. At the far end of the car you saw a girl you knew. You stumbled down the aisle, and stood talking to her until the man sitting beside her finally realized that you wanted him to move.

At last you reached the town where you were to change trains. While gathering your possessions, you looked hopefully at the other girl, but to your dismay, her belongings equalled yours in number and size. You literally fell off of the train. You had fifteen minutes in which to "taxi" across the town to the other station, but per usual, you were hungry so you checked all of your things at the cost of 10 cents apiece. Then you went in search of food, all of which took time. You dashed back to the station, recovered your things, bolted into a taxi and sped to the other station, which place you reached just in time to see your train moving down the track.

You looked at the girl, and she looked at you. Then you both looked at a time-table. No train to Lincoln until late that night. You looked at your money, and decided to walk back to the other station and there take a train for Omaha. You started to walk, but the distance was long and the baggage was heavy, and when the young man with the Ford asked you to ride, you accepted his offer gratefully.

You went to Omaha on a snail-like local. It was dreadfully hot, and when you raised the window, the woman back of you requested you to lower it, which you did with rather ill grace. You passed the hours discussing those who are your friends and those who are merely acquaintances. Again, you grew hungry, but of course there was no diner. The people across from you had a wonderful lunch, which made you feel even hungrier. You planned on the dinner you would have in Omaha.

However, circumstances alter cases. For some unknown reason the train stopped, and remained stationary for several hours, and you reached Omaha just in time to race wildly (encumbered by the baggage minus the umbrella, which you forgot on the train,) across the viaduct and get on the last train for Lincoln. Yes, you did reach Lincoln at last—here endeth my trip, also my tale.

TURN YOUR SHIRT-TAILS INTO DRAWERS

the outside shirt and underdrawers are one garment. This means that the shirt can't work out of the trousers, that there are no shirt tails to bunch in seat, that the drawers "stay put," to say nothing of the comfort and economy of saving a garment. OLUS is coat cut—opens all the way down—closed crotch, closed back. See illustration.
For golf, tennis and field wear, we recommend the special attached collar OLUS with regular or short sleeves. Extra sizes for very tall or stout men. All shirt fabrics, in smart designs, including silks—$1.50 to $10.00.
OLUS one-piece PAJAMAS for lounging, resting and comfortable sleep. Made on the same principle as OLUS Shirts—coat cut, closed back, closed crotch. No strings to tighten or come loose. $1.50 to $8.50.

Ask your dealer for OLUS. Booklet on request.
