THE DAILY NEBRASKAN CREED

In the adoption of a definite policy for the Daily Nebraskan, the new staff is governed largely by precedents established in the past. Our creed is based upon the ideal of SERVICE; service to the students in giving live information on university topics; and service to the faculty, in helping to bring that body into closer touch with student affairs and student life.

The Daily Nebraskan rests upon a foundation of impartiality, and strives to avoid showing favoritism under all circumstances. A "square deal" for all, is the motto and touchstone that will guide the staff in its work for the coming semester.

The Daily Nebraskan aims to mirror student life at Nebraska. The editorial staff endeavors to take the lead in directing student thought and opinion, trusting to be of some service in solving some of the difficult problems that arise during the school year. The questions bearing upon student life are the special concern of the Daily Nebraskan, and the solution of the larger problems of life, and of the world outside the immediate university circle, will be left to older and wiser minds.

THE CORNHUSKER BANQUET

A tradition revived! The Cornhusker banquet has come into its own again. More than two hundred university students had an opportunity last Thursday night to listen to the stirring words of men imbued with the genuine Nebraska spirit. In many respects, the banquet was an improvement over the ones that have been held in other years. The old spirit of rowdiness was dead, and the spirit of dignity that prevailed, materially aided the efforts of the speakers to drive home the lesson of Cornhusker policy.

Dr. Condra's powerful appeal for a bigger and better understanding of all things connected with the University, touched the hearts of all those present. Let us accept the challenge of this sturdy Cornhusker, and become 100 per cent students in the course on University Traditions. The course is not given by our faculty, but we can all study the subject by ourselves, and become proficient in the history of our traditions. All true Cornhuskers should have at the tongue's end, the name of the Dean of every college on the campus, the name of Nebraska's three representatives at the Peace Conference, the date of the founding of the University, the name of our Chancellor, the meaning of Ivy Day, and of Phi Beta Kappa Day. When was the first Cornhusker Banquet? What is Ivy Day. When is Fete Day held and why? Why do the Freshmen wear the green caps? These are but a few of the many facts that loyal Cornhuskers should know by heart.

Students should all welcome the return of the Cornhusker Banquet, and should pledge themselves to maintain and preserve the high ideals of Cornhusker loyalty that were proclaimed by Dr. Condra and the others who spoke. The Banquet is the melting pot of Cornhusker spirit and enthusiasm, and from it, there emanates the true love for our alma mater.

SUPPORT YOUR COLLEGE NEWSPAPER

The Daily Nebraskan brings the campus news to students. An obligation rests with the students to repay in a measure, the debt that is thus created. A dollar is a small sum to pay for the service that is rendered by the Nebraskan for an entire semester. Each day the important events and happenings in and about the University, are laid before subscribers in a clear and convenient form. A glance through the paper, and every student is then prepared to converse intelligently on all college topics.

If the solicitors have missed you, apply at the students activities' office, where your dollar will be gladly received, and your name will be placed upon the subscription list of your college newspaper. It is but a dollar today, and this small sum spent in the manner suggested, will give you a buoyant feeling, for having taken an active stand in the support of college activities.

STOCK JUDGING TEAM WINS PERMANENT CUP

The University of Nebraska added one more permanent trophy to its list when its college of agriculture stock judging team took first place at the western live stock show at Denver. This is the third time the university's stock judging team has won first place at the western show, and the championship cup thus became permanent property of the institution.

Miss Eva Ashton of the Nebraska team won high individual honors in the judging contest. She also won high honors in judging breeding and fat stock. Two silver cups were her reward. B. H. Rodenwald of the Nebraska team tied for second place and M. N. Lawritson tied for fourth place. The other members of the championship team were H. N. Adams and J. R. Shepherd. The team won a total of $200 in money and three cups.

paper paragraphs. Collier's Weekly will be read especially. Other class discussions will include foreign trade and trade routes and their importance at this time to the peace party in Paris; the expansion of American trade; the merchant marine and its development in the United States; the functions of banks within this country; and money and credit. As special work the class as a whole will discuss the cotton industry; its production, labor problems, marketing, speculation, the organization of manufacturing plants, and advertising. The course promises to be very interesting and is open to all students who have had Economics 3, and also to all others who desire to take this work.

HUSKERS RETALIATE FOR DRAKE VICTORY

the former navy gob hitting the basket three times for six points.

The game was void of outstanding stars, however, Captain Jackson and Schellenberg failing to register but one goal apiece during the evening and Neumann, Reynolds and North left out in the cold entirely. Ted Payseur again played the leading role for the Drake aggregation. He shot two goals and one free throw while McKinley and Shawver broke into the score column with one basket each.

Jackson led off with the first goal and placed Nebraska in the lead where she remained until the end of the first half, which showed a count of 8 to 7. One goal by Bailey and four free throws by Patty accounted for the eight points for the Huskers. Payseur's two baskets and one free goal on top of one basket by McKinley explains the Drake total.

Bulldogs Jump Ahead

At the tip-off of the second stanza, Drake rushed down and Shawver popped a basket which made the blackboard read 9 to 8 for the Iowa college. A foul was then called on a visiting player and Patty immediately registered a free throw, knotting the count.

The teams raced neck and neck until Patty broke the tie with another free throw. From then on, the Huskers kept the Bulldogs with their heads on the ground while Bailey, Schellenberg, Patty and Gillilan kept right on piling up a bigger lead. When Referee Jones' whistle ended the proceedings, the score board showed that Nebraska had 19 points and the Bulldogs 9.

Freshmen Wallop Doane

The Husker freshmen wiped the floor with the Doane collegians, who are making a strong bid for state inter-collegiate honors, in the preliminaries Saturday evening by a decisive score of 44 to 16. The statistics show how far the Nebraska yearlings outclassed the Crete quintet and that is about all that needs to be said about it. Doane beat the Wesleyan five recently and the Husker varsity are scheduled to meet the Methodists on February 27. You can't always bank on dope, though.

Drop One to Grinnell

The invasion of Iowa territory over a week ago resulted in one setback at Grinnell, where the baby members of the Missouri valley conference trimmed the Huskers by a one point margin, the game running into extra periods to play off the tie. Nebraska annexed the other game from Grinnell and two from Drake at Des Moines. Her percentage standing is now .666, with four victories and two defeats to date in the valley race.
