

How Veils Originated

Ages ago in Egypt there lived a maiden. Fair of feature was she, but with skin burned brown by the sunlight that was reflected from the burning sands. She loved, but was not loved—so woman-wise, she gave heed to her complexion. First, she sought the wisdom of the Sphinx and was told that she should have a spider spin a veil of finest film for her. This she did. The veil was spun and worn and it is written that the beloved swooned on first sight of her, so enchanting was her appearance.

VEILINGS for Spring are in great demand and the more elaborate the mesh, the more fashionable the veiling. The popular "Trench" veiling will be in evidence; also plain and novelty hexagon meshes—chenille dots—fine scrolls and motif designs in black, brown, navy and taupe at, yard, 35c to $3.00.
