MORE CANDIDATES MUST FILE IF ELECTION IS TO BE HELD

Registrar Announces Dearth of Applicants for Class Offices

No Selections for Publication Board—Filings Close at 5 Today

More candidates for class offices must file their applications before the close of filings at 5 o'clock this afternoon if an election is to be held next Tuesday, according to an announcement from the registrar's office Thursday afternoon.

But four candidates had filed at 5 o'clock Thursday. The lull in class politics at this time is especially noticeable in view of the large freshmen enrollment and the fact that at least six or seven applicants usually compete for the coveted honors of the first year class. The field is said to contain only two men for the office of freshman president.

Members of the student publication board will not be chosen at the coming election. A ruling made by the university senate last spring provides or the else: on of board members at the February election. The members will begin their terms at the close of the second semester and will hold office for the following school year. Members who will serve on the board until the second semester election will be appointed by the class presidents now holding office. This ruling closes the openings on the publication board and the election next Tuesday will be solely for the purpose of choosing presidents of the four classes.

The official list of the names of students who have so far filed for offices at the coming election is withheld until after filings are closed, but the names of a few of the candidates were received at the Daily Nebraskan office from outside sources. Clarence Swanson, '21, has indicated his desire to run for junior president and so far as is known is the only applicant for that office. Swanson was active in student activities last year, is an end on the football team and belongs to the Vikings, Junior society. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

The only two who have announced their candidacies for the office of Turner Teft and R. B. Gilbert are (Continued on Page Two.)

FRESHMEN GIRLS GUESTS AT PARTY

First Year Co-eds Will Get Acquainted at Social Saturday Afternoon

A big party with most attractive features has been planned for Saturday afternoon for the freshmen girls by the W. S. G. A. and the Y. W. C. A. The party begins at two thirty o'clock at which time a varied and interesting program by some of the university's most talented girls, will be given in the Temple theater. The second part of the affair will take place in Art Hall, second floor of the library. There will be dancing, and refreshments will be served.

Because this party is for the freshmen does not mean that freshmen are the only girls who can come. It is for all university girls. The freshmen will be given the opportunity to become acquainted with upperclassmen, as well as with the girls of their own class, with whom they will be associated throughout the whole of their four years. It is an opportunity few will care to miss—a real chance to become acquainted with all the girls in school and some of the faculty women; more than that, a worthwhile program to witness. All big sisters are requested to bring their little sisters.

The program contains a skill by Carolyn Reed, Ruth Swenson, and Ruby Swenson, all of whom were entertainers on a chautauqua circuit on the eastern coast last summer; a dance by Flavia Waters; a song by Margaret Perry, another chautauqua entertainer; and a talk by Miss Alice Howell, a member of the faculty who only recently returned from France, where she spent several months in canteen service and had exceedingly interesting experiences.

SORORITIES MAY PLEDGE SATURDAY

Those girls who were unable to pledge two weeks ago because of their credits, may do so, Saturday afternoon, between two and four o'clock.

TWELVE APPLY FOR RHODES SCHOLARSHIP

Many Express Desire to Go to Oxford—University Selection Committee to Nominate

Twelve University of Nebraska men had filed applications at noon Thursday to become candidates for the Rhodes scholarship at Oxford university. All applications were filed with Professor James T. Lees and in the afternoon, applicants met with Professor Lees and Dean P. M. Buck, members of the university committee of selection.

Men who are candidates for the scholarship are:

Ray H. Cowen.
Clarence Howie
Leonard W. Kline
Henry S. McDonald
Rosell C. Matteson
Neil T. Chadderton
Lawrence E. Slater
Alfred I. Reese
J. T. Thaden
Elmer F. Witte
Vincent Kaufmann

All but one of the applicants met with the committee Thursday afternoon. Vincent Kaufmann sent his application from Waynesboro, Pa.

All students were requested to fill out the regular Rhodes scholarship application blanks, to file birth certificates, to file transcripts of university records and to present four testimonials. (Continued on Page Two.)

NEW STAFF FOR DAILY NEBRASKAN

Howard Murfin Chosen Editor at Meeting of Publication Board

Howard Murfin, '20, was elected editor of the Daily Nebraskan at a meeting of the publication board Thursday noon. He succeeds Gaylord Davis, who held the editorial reins last spring.

Lawrence Slater, 21, was selected managing editor, and Forrest Estes, '21, was appointed news editor. Marian Henninger, the other member of the staff, was chosen associate editor last semester.

Howard Murfin reported on the Daily Nebraskan for a year, which experience secured the appointment for him of news editor the first semester of last year. At the beginning of the second semester he was chosen managing editor and continued to have charge of the editorial work at the beginning of the present semester, until the new staff could be appointed. He is on the news staff of the Lincoln Daily Star. Lawrence Slater served as news editor a year ago until he was sent to the officers' training camp at Camp Grant in November. Forrest Estes was a reporter during his first two years in the university. Marian Henninger also had reporting experience both with the Daily Nebraskan, and more recently on the Lincoln Star.

SNAPPY RALLY PRIMES HUSKERS FOR FIRST FOREIGN INVASION

Armory Swanped Thursday Eve by Swarms of Loyal Students Who Rock Building With Cheers

NEW YELL IS INTRODUCED Coach Schulte Selected 27 Cornhuskers to Hurl Against Iowans

A crowd that packed the Armory to the rafters and overflowed into the gymnasium and the entrance to Memorial Hall gave an ovation to Nebraska's football team Thursday night on the eve of its departure for Iowa City where the first game of the season will be played Saturday. Rounds of spontaneous applause from hundreds of students broke loose at the opening of the rally and the cheering continued unabated until its close. No undue effort was needed to exert students to display their spirit. The spirit was there and it manifested itself in songs, yells and cheers, for the speakers and the team.

The first football rally of the year marked the introduction of a new yell arranged by Professor R. D. Scott. The crowd responded to it with vigor and after a few good trials, the building reverberated with the echoes of a chant which promises to equal in effectiveness, the much famed "Rock-chalk" of K. U.

Members of the football team, the coach and the University Band occupied seats on the platform. Harold Gerhart presided at the meeting and introduced the speakers.

The University band took up U-U-Uni at the start of the rally and loyal supporters of the team, hundreds strong, joined in with the words. Cornhusker yells led by Glenn Hopkins and a staff of cheerleaders followed spontaneously from the crowd in the Armory.

OBSERVATORY OPEN FOR VIEW OF PLANET VENUS

The Observatory will be open to the public today and Saturday from 10:00 A. M. to 2:00 P. M. if the skies are clear for a view of the planet Venus.

Scott Commends Spirit

Professor R. D. Scott, the first speaker on the program, commended the cheering as one of the finest examples of Cornhusker spirit he had ever seen. He closed with the introduction of his new yell, explaining the purpose of it and leading it himself as the crowd took up the words.

"The team will supply the brown and the students will back it up with faith, so how can we help but win," declared Dean C. C. Engberg in a short talk in which he expressed gratification at the backing students were giving the team of their own volition. "Faith will move mountains and I hear they have some mountains on the Iowa team," said the dean.

Rousing cheers were given for Captain Paul Dobson when he was called to the front. He said that the team was going to Iowa determined to win and with the send-off given the men, they were bound to come back victorious.

Coach Schulte said the football men were fighting hard and he predicted that with a little help and encouragement from the students, the team would finish the most successful football season ever known at Nebraska.

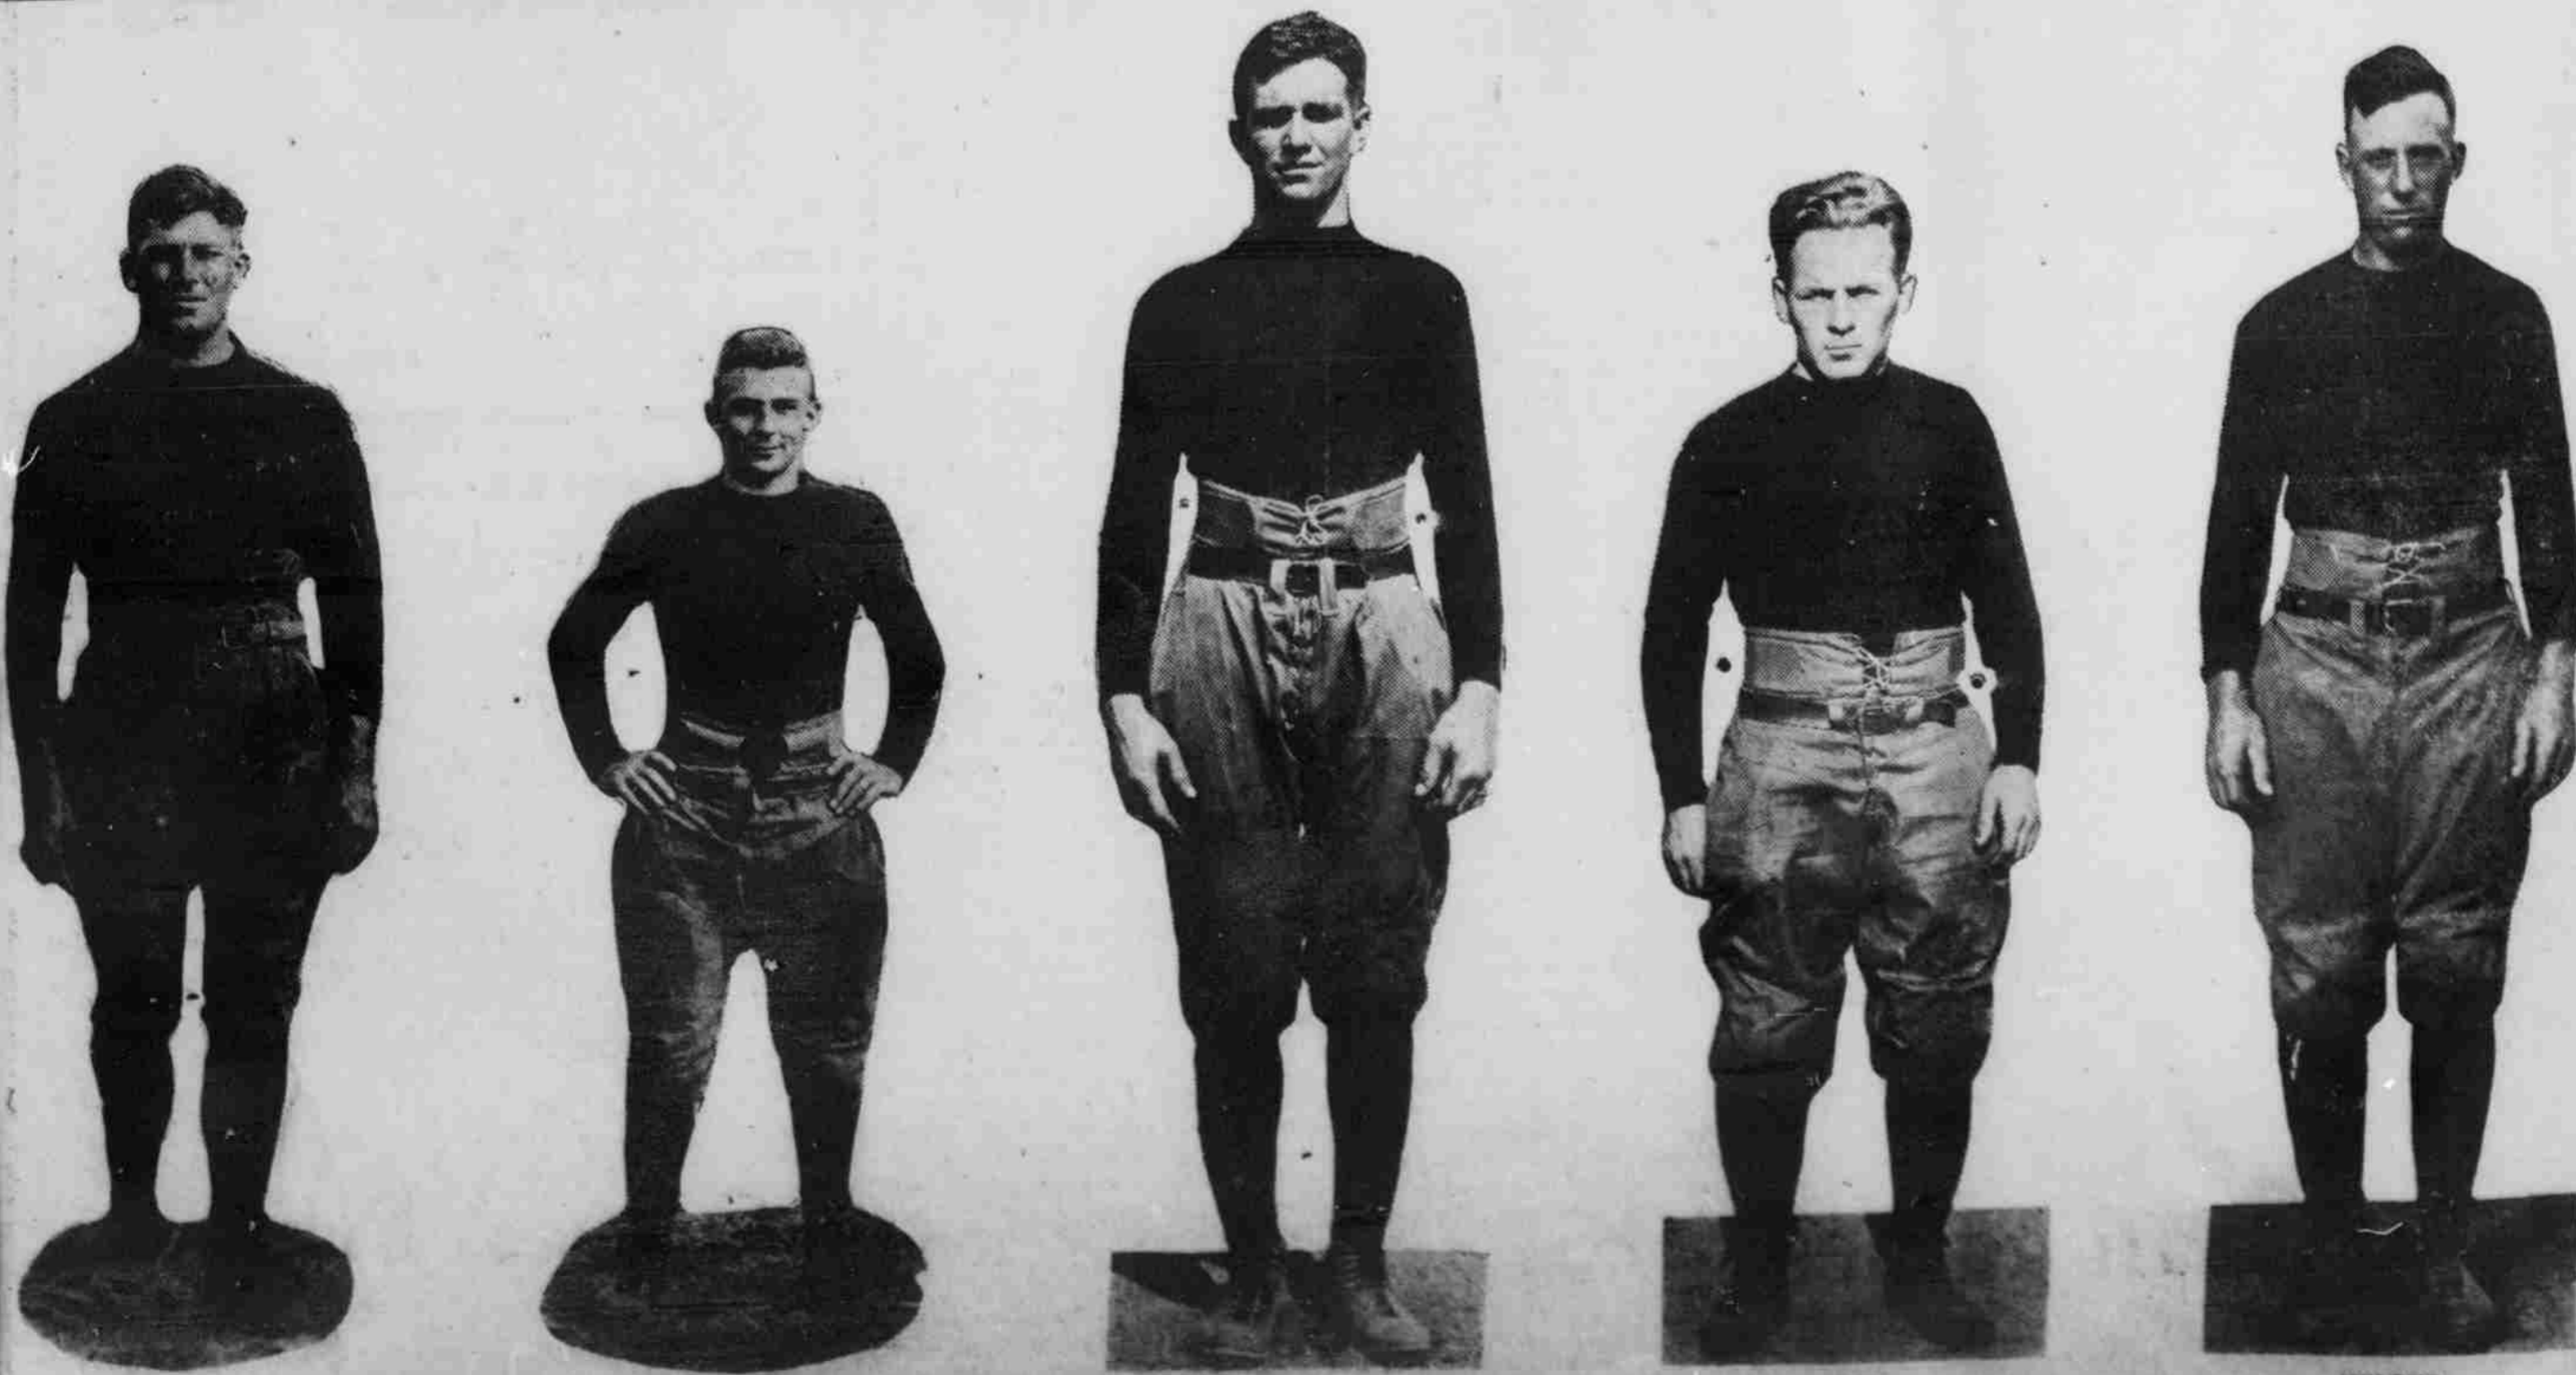

Students were reluctant to stop cheering. Pep predominated from the start and students caught the spirit and carried it on.

The Cornhusker football team left Lincoln Thursday night at twelve o'clock for Iowa City where they will meet the University of Iowa eleven Saturday afternoon. Coach Schulte selected twenty-seven men for the trip. The extra large contingent was made necessary because of the wide range of the material and the fact that the Iowa contest will be the opening test of the season and will give him a chance to see how many players will act when under fire.

The departure Thursday night followed a huge rally in the Armory on the campus. Hundreds of students packed the place and led by the cadet band put the Husker yells across in a way that will linger in the memory of the warriors when they strike the Hawkeyes Saturday.
