THE ROOSEVELT MEMORIAL DRIVE

The call goes out today to men and women of broad minds and clear vision, men and women who may call themselves true Americans, to ally themselves in a bond of common unity through the medium of the membership campaign of the Roosevelt Memorial association. They are summoned to manifest their faith in the staunch principles of Americanism which Theodore Roosevelt exemplified.

The campaign which is launched today is essentially for the purpose of raising, through contributions, a fund which will be used to perpetuate the ideals of this great American. Through it we will give expression to the hope that the principles he stood for will live forever. By our gifts we will make it possible to perpetuate his example of service and love of country.

A man strong in spirit and sound in frame, clear of eye and mind, a man of the outdoors and of the city, a lover of home and country, such a man was Roosevelt. He embodied the fine qualities of splendid Americans in a personality so versatile and so vigorous that it is difficult to comprehend his passing. To patriotic Americans who love their country he was the representative of their hopes and the champion of their country's rights. Surely, we will not be found wanting in the call that challenges us today, the call to subscribe to the fund and to enroll as a member of the Memorial association.

SUPPORT THE W. A. A.

The Women's Athletic association of the university has an all-year concession for the right of selling candy and fruit on Nebraska field at all football games. The money is used to defray the expenses of buying sweaters for girls who win their letters in girls' athletics.

The movement is a worthy one and deserves the support of every person who attends the games. The task is by no means a light one. The girls must trudge about the entire field, pick their way among the people in the stands, go back and forth for supplies and collect money, performing their duties while the game is going on. It isn't the most pleasant thing in the world to work during the progress of an exciting game but the girls do it because they have set for themselves a definite task to accomplish. They also perform a real service for the university and the athletic department by selling football programs.

Lincoln High school girls recently showed a lamentable lack of spirit by attempting to boycott the W. A. A. girls who have a concession for the high school games as well. The high school girls, it seems, wanted to sell candy and peanuts themselves and took the matter with bad grace when they were not granted the privilege. The attempted boycott of the W. A. A. places the local high school youths in an unfavorable light before the university which allows them the use of Nebraska field for a trivial sum.

The W. A. A. has always contributed liberally and generously to all university campaigns and drives. It has been an important factor for the advancement of girls' athletics and in its outside activities, it has boosted for the university. Students who have a nickle or a dime to spend should support the W. A. A. at the games.

THEY ALSO SERVE

Thousands of football fans have seen the varsity teams come trotting out on the field. They have stood with bared heads as these warriors were given the sendoff from the hundreds of voices in the stands.

They love to see their idol hit the line and go down the field, the crowd thundering encouragement, until he finally crossed the little white line for the winning touchdown.

Yet how many of these fans have ever let their eyes wander to the waiting list on the bench? They are all eager to do battle, all eager to fight for their college, all eager to get some of the cheering. And there they sit, waiting, waiting, waiting. Their feeling is somewhat like that of the soldier in the trenches as he waits in the darkness for the order to advance. Some of these men never play in a scheduled contest.

Their college is not broken. They don't give up in despair and say, "What's the use?" They are men. They love their Alma Mater and are willing to fight for her. What more can they do than to be willing? They know that the coach is the best judge as to who can play the position best.

These men are never mentioned in the daily newspapers. They are hardly ever thought of. Yet there is one who knows their worth—the coach. He knows that the success of the varsity depends a great deal on the men who are out on the field every day helping him to make the team.

More football games will be placed. When you are there give those that are sitting in the dugout a hand. Think of them once in a while when remarking about the great ability of a few members of the team. Give them a little inward cheer; because they are helping to make a winning varsity team.—The Marquette Tribune.

PROCLAMATION

October Twenty-seventh, Birthday of Former President Designated as Americanization Day

The progress that our country has made as a nation has been greatest during these periods when the people made the least departure from the true principles of Americanism. And today I think the greatest danger lies in a tendency on the part of some to confuse the principles of the Republic with those of other less desirable forms of government. So, in these times of confusion and uncertainty and unrest, it is important that we should seek to restore normal conditions through a full understanding and a conscientious application of the principles of the Republic.

The Republic has produced many great statesmen. It could not be otherwise, for the requirements of this form of government are such that success can only be wrought through the development of virtue, sane, clean thinking men, who are able to comprehend the great problems of the times. Among these, Theodore Roosevelt stands out most prominently. He was the type of true American who, with a clear vision of the purpose of the Republic, repeatedly called the people back to an understanding of the dangers that lurk in departures from the purposes of the fundamental law that was written by the fathers. Unfortunately it is that we have not the benefits of his wise counsel today, but we have in its stead the memory of his unflinching courage and his determination of American purposes, to guide us and stimulate our patriotic impulses and efforts.

Therefore, in order that we may properly respect the name of this great American, and, through a study of his life, instill in the minds of the people a new appreciation of the meaning of true Americanism, I hereby designate October 27, which is the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt, Americanization day, to be observed throughout this state and by all the people.

Samuel R. McKelvie, Governor.

In spite of her husband's angry snorts and the warning way he rustled his newspaper, the old lady would persist in chattering blithely to him as they sat on the promenade. He wanted so badly to read the news, poor old chap.

"Generally speaking—" she began again presently.

Then he woke up.

"Yes, you are!" he retorted.

"Are what?" asked the puzzled dame.

"Generally speaking."

Then silence enfolded them like a sea mist, and he read his paper.—An swer.

Freshman Lecture

Freshman lectures, Tuesday, 11:00 a. m., Temple theater, Thursday, 5:00 p. m., Law 101. This week, Dean P. M. Buck on "College Spirit."

Convocation

John P. Senning of the Political Science department will speak on the subject of "The Constitutional Convention" Tuesday morning. Mr. Senning is a member of the commission which is making preliminary arrangements for the constitutional convention and is therefore in a position to give expert information in regard to this subject.

Vespers in Art Hall

Because the seating capacity of Faculty Hall is not great enough, the Y. W. C. A. vespers from now on will be held in Art Hall.

The vesper attendance has been so large that the number of chairs in Faculty Hall could accommodate only a part of the audience. Art Hall has two hundred thirty chairs. It is expected that all will be filled. More will be brought in, if needed.

Senior Class Meeting

Tuesday, October 21, at 11:30 in Law building, room 101. Election of officers. 23-31.

Art Club Party

Art club postponed until Wednesday evening, October 22d from 6 to 8 o'clock. All students in gallery come. Bring 30c for supper.

Church Affiliation

University students need no longer be without religious affiliations in Lincoln because they do not wish to sever connections with home churches, it is possible to become an affiliated member here without breaking any home ties. Students are urged to take advantage of this opportunity. The student pastors at the Temple Y. M. C. A. will furnish any additional information.

All men who expect to go out for track this fall get your equipment at the gym Monday afternoon from 5:30 p. m. on.
