FRESHMEN PLAY AGAINST YORK

First Year Men Battle With State Champions Here on Saturday

The Nebraska freshmen will tangle with Erie Frank's state champions from York Saturday afternoon, while Schulte's varsity stand leisurely on the sidelines and exhort the first-year men to tear up the conference chamber since Wesleyan piled up 82 points on the Normalites last week, Frank no doubt figured that a game with the lions, Kearney Normal was scheduled to meet the Yorkers Saturday, Freshmen would be much more available.

York is far and away the best aggregation in the state conference this year, having defeated every eleven on their schedule. Zimmerman and Banek are the chief ground gainers of Frank's team and will no doubt cause the yearlings no small amount of anxiety on Saturday. The Freshmen handed Cotner a 16-0 defeat some time ago, but York defeated the Bulldogs by a count of 48 points.

The dope, therefore, favors the York eleven, but this is an off year for the dopsters and the freshmen may spring a surprise and win from Frank's outfit. Riddell has without doubt a strong aggregation. Martin, Perry, Hartley, Doty and Strain are five backfield artists of rare gridiron ability and Cornhusker fans await with interest the showing they will make against the strong eleven from York.

NEW EDUCATION COMING TO AMERICA

Otto H. Kahn Tells of Need for Highly Trained Leaders in All Lines

The ushering in of a new era, a new period in the advancement of education, a new epoch in special training is prophesied by Otto H. Kahn, well known international financier and a figure in the art world. The evolution of higher education, the need of leaders in every branch of work, the immediate need of America especially, is emphasized in his remarks on the subject of American schooling. He says, "America has been pitched into world affairs. The role of leadership has been thrust upon it. The old landmarks are passing. A jungle of new conditions is ahead. Look to the colleges."

An inconceivably extensive revolution of affairs has indeed gripped the entire world during the past semi-decade. Science, commerce, industry, art, diplomacy, literature, in fact every walk of life has been utterly renovated and completely revolutionized. Trained men are needed more now than ever before. To hold the position she has gained, to make secure the prestige she has attained in world affairs, America must have educated men at the helm of her industries, she must have learned leaders in every branch of work, not only in these branches in which she excels but in the branches in which she strives to attain the foremost positions. Mr. Kahn speaks on education from the moral and mental standpoints.

Two Requisites

"Character and brains are the two requisites for a successful future in finance. The character-forming influence of a university is of the utmost value in this time of testing, searching and changing. Brain power is demanded at a greater premium. The demand for men of ability, reliability, specialized or general knowledge, trained to steadiness and thoroughness of method, is and for years to come will be limitless."

The necessity of specialization is stressed no more than it merits. Specialists are the demand of the day. Surgeons, engineers, bankers, architects, each and every calling has its demand for special training in methods applicable to one and only one phase in the complex method of securing results. The co-operative action of trained men brings results which no group of generally educated men can accomplish. Knowledge of one thing and a thorough, practical knowledge is the thing that counts in this age of specialization.

Mr. Kahn says: "The mass average of America is very high, but outstanding figures, qualified leaders, are conspicuously few. They are more needed than ever before. Socially, (Continued on Page Four.)"

CONVOCAION

STOCK JUDGING TEAM LEAVES SATURDAY FOR INTERNATIONAL SHOW

The stock judging team leaves on Thursday for Chicago to compete the contest held at the Chicago international livestock show. Nebraska has won many honors in her football and basketball contests, but these alone do not in any manner measure her ability. In years gone by she has won many places of recognition nationally in her dairy judging and in her fruit judging, but the team that does as much to put old Nebraska on the map as any team she puts out, is the fat livestock judging team. Nebraska has in many instances won first place with strong competition, not only at the "International" at Chicago, but at the Kansas City "Royal" and the Denver shows as well. This year even more is to be expected from the team; they have been working hard, having some very fine classes of stuff on which to work, and strong competition among the men who tried out.

The team this year was picked with considerable difficulty on the part of the coaches. In order to do this a preliminary contest was held some few weeks ago and the ten highest men in the contest were selected for special training, and from these ten men eight were selected to make the trip to the big show. The final selection will be made the night before the contest, five men composing the team. Practice judging will be the program for the next week, this being done at the Iowa and Illinois Agricultural colleges.

The men who will make the trip this year are M. V. Kappius, I. W. Epperly, E. J. Yates, C. H. Powell, D. P. Moulton, L. C. Noyes, R. E. Fortna and W. E. Wiedeberg. Professors H. J. Gramlich and W. Savin will accompany the team.

A royal send-off is planned by the students for the team when they leave Thursday at 1:30 o'clock.

AWGWAN PLANS TO ENTER CONTEST

National Comic Will Offer Prizes for Competitive Humor From Students and College Publications

Awgwan, Nebraska's college comic, plans to enter a contest soon to be staged by Judge in which numerous silver cups and trophies will be awarded in the publication of a College Wits Number, in which any college and university magazine can enter as a contestant.

The first prize will be a silver trophy cup to be awarded to the college magazine—and thus incidentally to the college or university which the magazine represents—for the best representation by its writers and artists in this special number. This cup is to be held for a year by the winning magazine and to be competed for annually until some magazine shall have won it for a third time, when the cup will become a permanent property. Judge designs to make this "College Number" an annual issue.

Two other prizes will be offered in the form of smaller silver cups, one to be awarded for the best bit of text and the other for the best and incidentally the most amusing, drawing contributed to Judge's "College Number" by students. These prizes are to be permanently owned by winners.

Must be Original
All contributions to this college number of Judge from students must, of course, be original, and Judge's use of them exclusive, although Judge will release rights to their reproduction in college magazines if credited to Judge's college number.

Distinguished authors and artists who have contributed to Judge will be named as judges on the merits in this series of contests, and their names will soon be published in a public announcement of this event.

The scoring system in the contest will be similar to that of a track meet, so many points being awarded for a full-page drawing, so many for a poem, so many for a short story. Each accepted contribution, no matter how small, when published will carry the name of its author, his college, and his class. Besides the prizes for competitive contributions the regular payment will be made for the articles.

Awgwan intends to enter this contest and to those who are interested and are not on the Awgwan staff or one of the contributors of the paper, can see Herman Thomas, editor of the Awgwan and he will make arrangements so that the contest will be within reach of all those interested.

The date for this publication has not been set but all contestants must get their material in soon to the Awgwan office if it is to get in on time for the contest.

Teacher: "Which eat the most animals or birds?"
Pupil: "Birds, because they take a peck at a time."

Art Exhibit Shows Everyday Scenes That Are Common In The Life Of All

Artists Show Beauty in Things Most of Us Have Thought commonplace

A collection of paintings well worth the time spent in viewing them, is now on exhibition in the Art Gallery, second floor of the Library building. The pictures will be enjoyed by those who like to look at pictures which are beautiful, although they may not know why the pictures are so beautiful, or have any artistic yearnings.

Edward Redfield, an American artist whose home is in Pennsylvania, is the painter. Most of the pictures are snow scenes, for Redfield is an expert in snow pictures. These snow scenes present an infinite amount of variety, however. The landscape itself is varied, and the time of year differs—some are in the dead of winter, others in the spring when the snow is melting, others show a mere trace of snow, only a reminiscence.

"The Woodland Brook" is a very beautiful painting. The infusion of light from above is especially noteworthy.

Through Artist's Eyes
The snow scenes are on the east wall. Something entirely different, a new thing in painting, is the industrial community, which Redfield paints in such an interesting way. Factories,

NEBRASKAN DEFENDS GENERAL PERSHING

Founder of Nebraska Takes Issue With Critics of Commander-in-Chief

Replying to a speech made by Congressman Thomas D. Schall, of Minnesota, Horace G. Whitmore, makes a vallant defense of General John J. Pershing in a letter written to Emil E. Holmes of Milaca, Minn. Mr. Whitmore nearly 30 years ago was one of the original founders of the Daily Nebraskan, and in the late war served in Battery B 151st Field Artillery.

Mr. Whitmore's letter reads as follows:

"I read the copy you enclosed of the diatribe of Representative Thomas D. Schall entitled, 'General Pershing vs. the American Soldier' I agree with you that every soldier should give free vent to his feelings aroused by a perusal of this piece of petty, pusillanimous publicity, vainly attempted in the hope of justifying the only vote in congress against a recognition justly due our former commander-in-chief.

Amazed at Statement

"I was particularly amazed at this: I have talked with men who had intimate chance to observe Pershing in the Philippines; I have talked with officers and men who accompanied him to Mexico; I have talked with hundreds of soldiers in the recent war and their opinion was unanimous that he has not the elements so mixed in him to stand before them a man and a soldier in whose elevation they would feel honored. The only men I have heard applaud him are his puppets, who owe their present position to service in his behalf."

Known General Over 30 Years

"As a soldier who has known the general for nearly 30 years and as a resident of the district represented by the complaining congressman, I feel it is a duty to reply. It was my privilege to serve under General Pershing in the early 90's, when he was commandant and I a cadet at the University of Nebraska. I followed very closely his work in Cuba, the Philippines, and in Mexico. When he was appointed commander-in-chief of the American Expeditionary Forces, I rejoiced as did all who knew him; and I felt, as they did, that the right man had been chosen for the most important command ever given an American soldier.

Served with Gunners

"When our country became involved in the World War, it was again my privilege to serve under him, this time as a member of the 151st Field Artillery, Rainbow Division. When our division was reviewed by General Pershing at Remagan on the Rhine, it was my pleasure to renew the acquaintance formed 28 years before. He left a flock of generals to come over and talk with me. His manner was most democratic and cordial. I did not seem conscious of the presence of the other officers."

FRATERNITY EXCHANGES

The exchange of guests between fraternities will proceed as usual tonight. Fraternities are requested to observe the program which was outlined for last Tuesday evening. The regular program could not be carried out then because of the Armistice day celebration.

BABY INTERNATIONAL DREW LARGE CROWD

"Baby International" held at the farm campus on the evening of Nov. 14, under the auspices of the Saddle and Sirolo club was a complete success. It was attended by a large number of the town people and students.

With the increasing popularity of the show and the continued increase in attendance a new place of exhibition must be secured. The judging pavilion at the farm in which the show was held this year is much too small as was manifested this year in the lack of seating capacity and overflowing crowd. The object of the show is for the instruction of the college students in the fitting and showing of fancy show animals. All the stock used in this contest is the property of the atate Farm, the students obtaining the animal which they are to show by the lottery method.

The judging is not based on the merits of the animal but on the effort on the part of the student in the preparation of the animal for the show and in the ability of each exhibitor to properly show his animal to the best advantage. Much time and labor was required by each exhibitor in order that the animal be in the best of condition. The animals were all taken in the rough to start with and some marvelous changes were to be seen.

Professor W. J. Kennedy of Sioux City, Ia., former instructor in the Iowa State Agricultural college, did the judging. He stated that some of the animals were better fitted and more cleverly shown than a great many animals fitted and shown at the largest live stock shows in the United States. This shows what can be done with a little instruction and training. A few of the animals shown that night will be taken to the Chicago International, which is held the first week in December. They are expected to win many prizes.

The Winners

The students winning prizes in the contest were as follows:
Hereford cows, first, Fred Hobart, second, C. Slosson, third, C. A. Back-horn, fourth, G. W. Eibert.
Shorthorn cows: first, E. C. Brown, second H. Haverland, third, L. L. Davis, fourth, S. P. Wagoner.

The stock was shown to a large delegation of people from South Omaha Saturday morning. The Omaha people are very loyal supporters of the Nebraska judging team and the Baby International. There were about two hundred in the party including the band which they very kindly brought with them.

AGRICULTURAL CLUB DANCE

The Agricultural club will hold its fall hop at the Rosewilde, Friday night, November 21. Preparations are being made for a most successful party, with entertainment and refreshments and Grubb's five-piece orchestra has been engaged for the evening.

The committee in charge of the dance is as follows: Stanley Hall, chairman; E. J. Yates, Maurice Smith, Lawrence Noyes, R. Fortna, Kendall Fradenburg, Glenn Baldwin, Byron McMahan.

SYRACUSE COMES TO NEBRASKA AS EASTERN CHAMPION

Washington and Jefferson Alone Defeated Syracuse But is Not in Race

Thanksgiving Day Game Promises to Be Classic Between East and West

Syracuse University, Nebraska's only Thanksgiving opponent, pounced upon Colgate Saturday afternoon and defeated them, 13-7. Colgate was hitherto unbeaten and Syracuse's victory places her at the top of the list in eastern gridiron circles. The Orange line was invulnerable at all times and the Colgate score came as the result of several clever forward passes which caught the Syracuse defense napping.

The Orange team has met the strongest teams of the east and suffered defeat at the hands of only one. Washington and Jefferson took the measure of the Ne Yorkers by a small margin, but the Orange eleven trounced the strong Pittsburgh outfit who subsequently defeated Washington and Jefferson. Consequently Syracuse has the strongest claim to the battle on Turkey day.

One hundred and eighty-five pounds eastern title of any school, and the Cornhuskers are assured of a fierce will be the average weight of the Syracuse line and one hundred and sixty-three pounds for the backfield weight. This Syracuse eleven will be four pounds heavier per man than the eleven which whipped the Huskers two years ago. Not that the Cornhuskers were outplayed by the easterners on that occasion, for they were not. The count was 10-9, and the failure of Captain Ed Shaw to kick goal was all that prevented a tie score.

Nebraska Has No Advantage

In her other games this season Nebraska has the edge on her opponents in beef, but this will not be the case when the Huskers clash with the Orange. Schulte can depend on his smashing backs to pierce the Syracuse line as easily as they tore up the Missouri and Kansas forwards. Scouts who witnessed the Syracuse-Colgate game say that only an open game, with plenty of fakes and passes, will succeed against the Orange. Nevertheless Nebraska adheres to claim that the Syracuse line will meet with some unlooked for surprises when they try to stop the terrific off tackle plunges of Dale and Hubka.

No game is scheduled for this Saturday, and accordingly Schulte's men are taking things easy. No scrimmage was held last night and several of the Huskers were out, clad in track suits and only a light workout was held. Schulte is taking no chances, and wants his team to be in prime condition to meet the invading eastern hosts. The Orange eleven clashes with Jumbo Stehm's Hoosiers Saturday and will no doubt register an easy victory. Paul Schissler, assistant Husker mentor, will attend the game and watch the Syracuse phenoms in action.

HOWARD KENDALL TO PLAY NOTRE DAME

Howard Kendall university, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, will play a post season game with Notre Dame, according to reports issued recently from Tulsa sporting circles. The Kendallites have met all comers this season and emerged victorious. Among their victims were the Oklahoma Sooners and the University of Arkansas. They have won all their games by large scores, have the state championship of Oklahoma clinched and are fully entitled to meet the strong eleven from South Bend.

Notre Dame authorities have demanded a $4,000 surety before consenting to the post season arrangements and Kendall fans intend to raise the amount at once. The Indiana school's coaches have virtually consented to the game, which, if staged, will be the biggest gridiron event in Oklahoma this year.

Needs to Know

Citizen coming from the club late at night: "Shay offisher, can you tell me where Brown lives—Bill Brown, Mr. William Horace Brown?"

Officer: "Why you are Bill Brown yourself."

Citizen: "Sure, I knew it. I knew it 'fore I saw you. But 'd'you know where he lives? That's what I want to know."
