PLAN MEMORIAL FOR UNIVERSITY HEROES OF WAR

Men Who Sacrificed Their Lives in Democracy's Cause to Be Honored

Soldiers memorial—guide head Honor to all our heroes who fell in France or who died in the camps, and to Nebraska undergraduates, alumni and S. A. T. C., who sacrificed their lives for the cause of democracy will be aptly commemorated by a memorial to be placed on the university campus, according to authorities who have been studying this proposition for some time. A committee representing each phase of the university will attend to the work of selecting the site, deciding upon the nature of the memorial, and attending to the other business connected with the erection thereof.

About one hundred gold stars glitter on the University Memorial Flag in commemoration of those who gave their all for democracy. Among these will be found one representing Miss Helen Sargent, '05, one of the many Nebraska women to answer the call. The flag, although an important and necessary remembrance of those who fell, is insufficient as a lasting token of honor to the dead. Although it may for years to come adorn the wall of some university hall the need of a more ostentatious symbol has been urgently felt by the school as a whole and the subject has met with hearty approval by faculty, students and patrons.

Since prehistoric times when the ancients of Egypt placed the Sphinx on the sandy desert in honor of the God of the Morning, the massive pyramids to Cheops and numerous other royalities, men have placed tokens of honor to their heroes on the spots sacred to the deceased. Egypt, Assyria, Persia, Babylon, Greece, and Rome although long blotted from the (Continued on Page Four.)

DIRECTORIES WILL BE OUT MONDAY

Final date for appearance of the long looked for Directory has been set for Monday, Nov. 24th. Latest information from the printer has it that the work has gone so far as to make distribution at the above date a certainty.

The Directory will give the university public much valuable and handy information. The lists of honorary and professional organizations in the school, the lists of university and of sorority and fraternity telephones, together with the lists of campus organizations, together with executive offices of each.

Other features are: Complete lists of membership of each sorority and fraternity in school; a list of members of the faculty together with their department and office on the campus as well as city address; and the alphabetical list of all students giving the name, college and class, organization, home address and Lincoln address and telephone of each. No effort has been spared to bring the information offered in the book up to date, so that unless students have changed address very recently their addresses are correctly listed. Everything possible has been done to make the 1919-1920 Directory serve the University public efficiently.

Distribution will be through the Y. W. C. A. at various tables about the campus: in U Hall, the library and Social Science hall, and also by the College Book Store.

Price of the book is 40c. The book will be sold on Monday, Nov. 24. If books are not entirely disposed of on that date those remaining will be available on Tuesday.

SOPHOMORE PARTY SATURDAY EVENING

Music, Dancing, and Program Planned for Get-together of Second Year Students

Saturday night, November 22, the all-sophomore party will be held in the Armory. Class support is desired to make the party a successful one.

Committee chairmen are hard at work to make the party a pleasant one and a novel program has been arranged. Following the program there will be dancing, for which splendid music has been engaged. Sophomores who do not care to dance will be entertained in the chapel by games. Abundant refreshments are planned. The decoration committee will spend Saturday morning preparing the Armory for the party.

Plans are being made for the largest all-sophomore party ever held. A promise of a most pleasant time is made by those in charge.

FRATERNITY PLAY FOOTBALL SATURDAY

The Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Delta Upsilon football teams will play Saturday morning.

STOCK JUDGING TEAM LEAVES FOR CHICAGO

Will Attend International Stock Show and Participate in Judging Contest

The stock judging team left Thursday afternoon at one thirty for the Chicago International Stock Show, where it will participate in the stock judging contest. A large number of students from the College of Agriculture gathered at the depot to give the representatives from Nebraska a royal send-off. The Ag. band was on hand and cheers and yells were given for the team.

W. E. Wiedeberg, from whom so much was expected in the contest, was the last moment disqualified through a contest ruling to the effect that only juniors and seniors were eligible to judge at the show. Mr. Wiedeberg is a freshman at the College of Agriculture, and so could not go. P. H. Stephens was selected to make the trip in his place.

The team will first go to Ames, and from that place to other agricultural colleges and prominent stock farms in final preparation for the meet. At each place practice judging will be done, and the final selection of the team will be made just before going on to Chicago. After a week of intensive training the team will arrive in Chicago on Friday, November 28th, and the following day will compete with all the colleges of the middle west in the big event.

Those making the trip are Moulton, Kappins, Fortna, Hepperly, Powell, Noyes, Yates and Stephens, as members of the team; Professor and Mrs. H. J. Gramlich will be in charge of the party. C. E. Atkinson, '22, and Fred R. Kelly, '19, will also make the trip.

COLLEGE FOLLIES SATURDAY NIGHT

Seat Sale Has Been Rapid for Annual Musical Comedy

Insight is Given to Some of the Acts to be Produced

The advance sale for "Les Follies" has been surprisingly heavy. Thursday night there was already a dirth of choice seats and reservations had been made far back in the balcony. Saturday offers no excitement in the way of football games with other colleges but Saturday night promises to be amusing for many and embarrassing for some who attend the Temple production.

The plans are complete, the rehearsals finished, the musical numbers arranged and the girls are prepared for the dancing, singing and comedy acts. A brief review of the program as outlined now will give a little insight into the plans for an evening that looks attractive.

"An Acre of Blood," that is the comedy title of the melodrama as staged and managed by Josephine Strode and Alfred Reese. Its lines are as blood curdling as the name and the plot thickens and at the last fairly drips with pathos and tragedy. "The Man Upstairs" is another production, starring Genevieve Addleman in a comedy-drama of a more serious nature.

Other Characters

Herman Thomas is the irate director upon whose management the entire show before the audience, depends. Olive Meeds represents the original "Hard Boiled" chorus girl while Herman Schroeder keeps the university public on uneasy seat while he makes ears burn with caustic references. Irwin Clark has some caustic remarks about everyone else in the cast and lets the audience into some of the dismal secrets that are supposed to be known only behind the footlights.

Eleanor Fogg and Fred Richards have an original skit, the nature of which is still a mystery and Herbert Yenne has a fair share of several clothing stores borrowed for the dancing chorus of men he has gathered from the four corners of the campus.

Then of course there is the beauty chorus, the dancing, costume wearing, stunning heavy of girls. That feature probably accounts for a considerable portion of the seat sale. Anyway nearly everyone on the campus is evidently intending to be there Saturday night to see just what all this mixture of misplaced talent can do when combined into one effort to amuse the school. The seats that remain unreserved are on sale at the College Book Store.

K. U. Student Tells Tale Of Woe Regarding Husker Game

Looking at Moon Over Left Shoulder Caused Jinx to Follow Jayhawk's Trail

They certainly had hard luck. Camamy Al. in the "University Daily Kansan" presents a novel alibi: "Kansas lost the Nebraska game last Saturday because I looked at the moon over my left shoulder while having a midweek date last week.

This was the statement of Camamy Al. a student who accompanied the rooters on the special to Nebraska.

"To this unfortunate act," said Al. "I attribute the difficulties that befell the authorities in procuring a special, and their inability to obtain more than one Pullman. Furthermore, my action resulted in my being only able to get an upper berth, and once on the train, my star of ill fortune followed me and started a poker game in the

Students will be asked to donate fruit, vegetables and money. The money will be spent for meat. A box for money contributions will be placed in the entrance to the library, and boxes for vegetables and fruit in the library entrance, near the door of the armory in the Y. W. C. MEDICAL COLLEGE ALUMNI CELEBRATE

The ninth annual and clinical week of the Alumni Association of the University of Nebraska College of Medicine is being celebrated this week in Omaha. An elaborate program has been arranged, for both yesterday and today. Addresses will be made by prominent doctors of Omaha.

DATE IS SET FOR ANNUAL CORNHUSKER PARTY FOR GIRLS

Plans for the Girls' Annual Cornhusker Party were put under way at a meeting of the W. S. G. A. board Thursday noon. This is the annual fun-fest of the year, where all university girls, and only girls, may come costumed after their own style and imagination, and enjoy the evening with one another. This is a tradition in the University of Nebraska, and is the one night when girls have their way. The Armory will be the scene of a rollicking good time on this evening of evenings.

The party is scheduled for Friday night, December 5th, and will begin promptly at 7:30. The first part of the evening will be taken up by stunts given by the sororities and other girls organizations. These stunts will be short and snappy and will be given in the small gymnasium. The latter part of the evening is when dancing will be the main attraction, and refreshments will be served to the girls.

Every girl should be costumed if possible. Almost everything in the way of nationalities, sailors and soldiers, and "kids" will be represented. Twenty-five cents admission will be charged each girl at the door.

The committees in charge are: Admission—Marjorie Barstow; Refreshments—Faye Breese, Florence Wilcox, Helen Giltner; Stunts—Martha Hellner, Katherine Willis.

All stunts can be of only five minutes duration and each organization must notify Martha Hellner by Wednesday, November 27th, if intending to give a stunt. Every girl should plan on going, and in costume.

The Black Masques are having some difficulty in obtaining sufficient caps and gowns to have their photograph taken. Townsend has only a limited supply and Mr. Long of the College bookstore is unable to secure them for rental at present. As it has been impossible to rent them from any dealer, and as the picture for the Cornhusker is due, the Black Masques wish to ask if any of the students have any which could be rented. Those having either caps or gowns are asked to bring the same to the Daily Nebraskan office Monday morning at nine o'clock.

Yearlings Plan a Few Surprises for York College Aggregation

Saturday's Game Will Be a Stiff Battle Between Two Powerful Elevens

Notwithstanding the fact that the Cornhusker Varsity is taking advantage of a well-earned rest tomorrow, students and fans will have the opportunity of witnessing a big-league football game. The university freshmen will meet the state champions from York college in the afternoon on the Nebraska field.

The freshmen team of this year is one of the greatest freshmen teams the University of Nebraska has ever known, and that is a daring statement. Complete in every department of the game, the Frosh have a gridiron aggregation that will make Ernie Frank's York champs strain a few tendons if they nose out the Yearlings. Some time ago the freshmen played a practice game against the Cotner Bulldogs, winning by a score of 16-0. As a rule, university freshmen teams play several games during the season but the squad of this year has only faced one eleven, that of Cotner. Had the Frosh exhibited the same qualities against Cotner as they do against the Varsity in scrimmage, the score would have been considerable different.

The Frosh lineup that will meet against York tomorrow will contain several players who are rapidly developing into stars of Varsity calibre. Garden is a wizard in the kicking game, one of the best boot artists who has appeared at the Cornhusker school in years. His 65 and 70 yard punts are bound to cause the York wonders no small amount of grief. Martin, Doty, Perry and Hartley in the backfield from a scoring commotion of recognized power and drive. Captain Hartley is a headquarter and clever in returning punts. The line smashing of Doty will be a strong point of the Yearling attack. The big fullback is a second Daie and is good for a gain at all times. The freshmen line is a wall of Cornhusker beef that is exceedingly hard to penetrate. While the ability of the York backs is well known, they will encounter a stiff resistance when they tuck the Frosh afterwards.

The York eleven is coming to Lincoln to meet the freshmen after teaming up on everything else in the state and establishing themselves as the unquestioned champions of the state conference. They will be somewhat handicapped by the fact that they are today playing a game with Kearney normal, but the normal team is comparatively weak and Frank will no doubt use a substitute lineup. The freshmen will clash with the class of the state conference when they play York, and a victory will place them above all the Nebraska colleges.

A very loyal spirit has been manifested by the freshmen this year. Coaches Schulte and Schissler are loud-voiced in their praise of the work of the first year man. Under the able direction and guidance of John Riddell, they have furnished excellent (Continued on Page Four.)
