

SHELLENBERG
Halfback—Second year

WILDER
Tackle—Third Year

LYMAN
Tackle—First year

SWANSON
End—First year

CAPTAIN DOBSON
Halfback—Third year

HENRY
Halfback—Second year

JOBES
Halfback—First year

KELLOGG
End—Second year

DANA
End—First year

WRIGHT
Fullback—First year

1919

RUSSELL
Halfback—First year

BOGUE
Tackle—First year

WRAY
Tackle—First year

RESUME OF THE SEASON

Nebraska seeks no alibis. Every opponent on the Husker schedule was a football aggregation of rare ability. Perhaps this year's Cornhuskers did not show a brilliant, flashy brand of football early in the season, but later they easily proved themselves the class of the Missouri Valley and the equal of any team in the Big Ten. Today Schulte's men face the formidable Syracuse University eleven, the strongest contender for the honors of the East and if fortune favors the Cornhusker tribe, and their efforts are crowned with victory, then they will lay claim to the title of the nation.

The first three teams which Nebraska met in the poorly framed schedule were all teams of the highest calibre. Iowa and Minnesota both stand well in the Western Conference and Notre Dame has whipped everything that crossed her path, including West Point and the strong Michigan Aggies.

The Cornhuskers clashed with the strong veteran Iowa eleven in the opening game of the season at Iowa City. The Huskers had been drilling but three short weeks while the Iowans had already reached mid-season form. Captain Dobson was severely injured early in the contest and was compelled to leave the fray. The Nebraska defense was greatly demoralized by the loss of their leader and costly fumbles combined with the brilliant running and passing of the Hawkeyes sent the Huskers home defeated 18-0 in the initial contest.

Schulte's heroes came back strong and on the following Saturday played the Minnesota Gophers off their feet, the game resulting in a tie score. Fumbles again played a dominant part in the outcome, the Huskers losing several chances to score by being unable to hang on to the pigskin. Elmer Schellenberg placed his name on the list of immortal Cornhusker gridiron heroes in the Minnesota fray by warding off the entire Gopher team and running thirty yards through a broken field for a touchdown. Dale's failure to kick the goal caused a tie score but the ten thousand spectators who packed the stands at Northrup Field felt that the Gophers were indeed lucky to escape with a tie score.

Nebraska lost the third contest of the season to the Notre Dame Irish by the close count of 14-9. The Irishmen grabbed a touchdown right off the bat, the speedy Bergman running ninety yards down the field after the first kick-off. The trick was accomplished so smoothly and quickly that the Huskers scarcely realized what had happened. Nevertheless they rallied and had the best of it for the first half of the game, but Notre Dame opened up the third period with an aerial attack that completely baffled the Huskers and put over the winning count. Captain Dobson raised the Nebraska team