ADVENTURES OF WILLIE

Willie in the best of shashes,
Fell in the grate and was burned to ashes;
By and by the room grew chilly—
But no one cared to stir up Willie.

Willie in a fit of Choler
Fell in front of a street steam roller—
The neighbors were surprised to find
How it broadened Willie's mind.

Willie with a thirst for gore
Nailed the baby to the door;
Mother cried with humor quaint,
"Willie, dear, don't mar the paint."

Willie from the mirror
Licked the mercury all off,
Thinking in his childish fancy
It could cure the whooping cough.
At the funeral Willie's mother, laughing,
said to Mrs. Brown,
"Twas a chilly day for Willie when the mercury went down."

BUBBLES

A review of the Girls' Cornhusker party, as reviewed by a non-observer.

"A Romance in a Frat" by Alpha Chi Omega was a faithful portrayal of the number of pecan perfectos that a young man will buy when he is in love.

"Which One Will She Choose" by Delta Delta Delta was a vivid study of a girl deciding which one of her many men friends she would take to her formal.

"Wild Nell" by Alpha Omicron Pi was a little playlet based on the saying, "Where is our little Nell."

"A Negro Minstrel" by Alpha Xi Delta gave color to the evening.

"Les Belles" by Delta Literary Society was a poetical version of "Ring out, Wild Belles."

"The Original Exponent of Antiseptic Dancing" by Kapa Alpha Theta was a historical review of the origin of the present dance craze at Nebraska.

"The Passing Show of 1920" by Chi Omega was a satire on the number of passes given to the dances.

"Modern Mother Goose Rhymes" by Palladian was a verse-ion on modern poetry.

"Down in Front" by Pi Beta Phi was a reproduction of a Thursday afternoon at the Orpheum.

"An Elopement" by Alpha Phi showed the Alpha Phis running away with the school.

"Miracles of Medical Aid" by Union was a sickly production.

THE DAILY DITTY

by
Gayle Vincent Grubb

It's something that's before us every
Day that passes by,
It's something we must pass thru, day
by day;
And no matter how we plan it out
Aside from what we try
It is something strong that each time
blocks the way.

It takes more knocks than anything
I know of and what's best
No slam can make it blush a tinge of red;
Yet each day it must open to the world
And meet the test
But needs no sleep and never goes to bed.

It is knobby and the world would be
At loss without its aid,
Although it has its likenesses galore;
It hinges on the best you ever
Had or ever made
Now hearken, for it's just the old
front door.

THE MALE VAMP

Since Cleo set the pace about
The time of Sneezer's reign,
And rolled her eyes till half of the guys
Were driven love-insane;
There's lived on till the present date
A horde who've tried the trick,
And in spite of their sighs and rolling eyes
They have made a well man sick.

Because it's a woman, we pass it by
And call it a pity, or yet,
We fall for their wiles and devilish
smiles
And spring the trap that's been set;
But God help the twisted soul of a
man
Who shall vaseline his hair
Or scent his clothes with the breath
of a rose
And venture from his lair.

The Lord in his wisdom is kind and she
Of the Devil's eyes survives,
And the Vamp stuff, old as a fruit jar
mould
Lives on and on and thrives;
But he, vain to think that the females
fall
For the slicker who powders his nose
Should follow his trail in a coat of mail
And guard well his steps as he goes.

SPORT BRIEFS

Coach Schulte and Captain-elect Day of the 1920 Cornhusker football team attended the banquet given by the business men of Beatrice to the victorious high school football team, at Beatrice Thursday evening. Both Schulte and Day were included in the toast list, as was also Leonard Purdy, who was captain of the 1913 Husker team. Announcement was made at the banquet that residents of Beatrice had raised a fund of $300 with which to buy sweaters for both the first and second teams.

From all indications the Haskell Indians will take the place of Nebraska on Missouri's 1920 schedule. Oklahoma A. & M., St. Louis University, and the Indian school were all anxious to contract with the Columbia authorities but the majority seem to favor a clash with the Haskell team. The Indian team has always stood high in the Missouri Valley, in 1913 holding the Cornhuskers to a 7-6 score.

Boisterous cheering will be prohibited at Western conference basketball games. This ruling, which went into effect Saturday night at the Northwestern-Iowa game at Evanston, states that in the event spectators become boisterous, the referee may penalize the captain of the home team with a technical foul. Another rule was announced as follows: "Spectators arriving late must wait until the end of the first half before taking seats."

Rutgers and Pittsburgh are inaugurating lacrosse as a sport this spring, bringing the total of major colleges in the East represented by lacrosse teams up to twelve. The sport is rapidly gaining recognition in athletic circles and in a few Eastern institutions has been voted in as a major sport. Cornell makes an annual award of the black "C" to the two members of the team who have been affiliated with the sport during their entire college courses.

Plans are practically complete for a baseball game in the Stadium on May 27th between Lew Carr's Syracuse Varsity nine and the University of California team which is to make a tour of the Eastern States. The Californians will play several State university teams in the East and have asked Syracuse for the date of May

All of Princeton's 1920 football games, except the one with Harvard, will be played in Princeton. The Tigers chart has been announced as follows:

October 2, Swarthmore; 9, Maryland State; 16, Washington and Lee; 23, Navy; 30, West Virginia; November 6, Harvard at Cambridge; 13, Yale.

Benny Boynton, captain of the Williams football eleven, last year and captain-elect for the 1920 seasons is the first recipient of the Brooks Memorial prize, offered by New York Alumni in memory of the late Captain Belvidere Brooks of New York who was killed in France, Captain Brooks was leader of the Williams eleven in 1909. The committee in charge of the awarding the medal were unanimous in their choice of Boynton as the member of the Purple eleven whose services were the most valuable to the team last fall.

Dartmouth has announced this football schedule for next fall:
September, open; October 2, Norwich at Hanover; October 9, Penn State at State College; October 16, Holy Cross at Hanover; October 23, Syracuse at Hanover; October 30, Tufts at Hanover; November 6, Cornell at New York; November 13, Penn at Philadelphia; November 20, Brown at Boston.
