“N” Club Members Will Assist In Handling Tenth Annual Tourney

Every athlete who comes to Nebraska cherishes the fond aspiration that some day he will win a scarlet sweater with the big “N.” This brotherhood of athletes is one of the most powerful factors in the University, and it was for the purpose of moulding this great power into a concrete form which would exert a strong influence for the betterment of Cornhusker athletics, that the “N” Club was established in the spring of 1917.

The original purpose for the founding of the club was clearly set forth in the Daily Nebraskan three years ago in the following write-up:

“It shall be the purpose of the club to help strengthen in whatever way it can, scholastic athletics and promote a better spirit of unity and common interest among all the “N” men of the past and present. This spirit the club will attempt to perpetuate by initiations of the new letter men following each athletic season.”

The greatest duty which falls to the lot of these Cornhusker athletes is the management of the world's greatest basketball tournament, which is one of the biggest events in Nebraska athletics. All inter-class athletics are held under the supervision of the “N” Club, in fact, all University athletics go hand in hand with the organization.
