HUSKERS DRUB TIGERS TWICE

Colorado College Loses Series to Schissler's Victors in Snappy Battles.

Most Successful Basketball Season in History Closed With Twenty-second Triumph.

Coach Schissler's all-victorious Nebraska Cornhuskers completed the most successful basketball season ever enjoyed by the University of Nebraska by twice decisively defeating the Colorado College team at the city auditorium of Friday and Saturday afternoons. 23-9 was the result of the Friday tilt and on Saturday the score was boosted to 33-12. The Westerners were completely outclassed by the Huskers at all times and the result of both games was never in doubt.

On both occasions the auditorium was jammed to the limit with cheering spectators and standing room was at a premium. The visiting high school hoopsters turned out to a man to see the famous Husker five trounce the champions of the Rocky Mountain conference and were rewarded with two excellent exhibitions of the court game.

Bekins was the high scorer for Nebraska in both games. Nine points in the first game and fifteen the second were credited to the clever Nebraska center. In the Saturday contest he established the remarkable record of tossing eleven free throws out of as many attempts.

John Pickett and Captain Elmer Schellenberg were playing their last game of basketball under the Scarlet and Cream Saturday, and both played throughout the entire game. Husker teams of the future will keenly feel the loss of these two veterans. Each has played three seasons of varsity basketball.

NO COLLEGE PRESS YET, SAYS DEAN P. M. BUCK

Lack of Available Funds Prevents Immediate Action, He Writes.

March 4, 1920.

To the Editor of the Daily Nebraskan:

An announcement in today's paper needs a slight explanation.

The University has been very fortunate indeed in securing the suggestions of the Nebraska Press Association and in having its secretary meet with the University committee on the course in journalism. It would be highly desirable indeed to install a press at the University and to give instruction in the care and use of linotypes and other machines. But at the present time with the funds available it is impossible to speak of increasing the number of the University activities no matter how desirable the proposed departments may be. The salary situation in the University is such that any increase in the activities of the University would mean a corresponding reduction in the efficiency of long established departments.

In my talk before the Press Association last week I tried to make this thought clear. I added that should be University facilities permit we should be very glad indeed to have a University press and find an instructor for a short course in press work similar to the short course in motor mechanics. Beyond this I was not in a position to pledge the University.

Sincerely yours,

P. M. BUCK, JR.

ALYNE O'LAUGHLIN WILL ATTEND WRITER'S MEETING

Alyne O'Laughlin, '21, has been chosen from the Lambda Chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, national women's honorary journalistic fraternity, to represent the Nebraska chapter at the biennial organization sessions which will be held at Madison, Wisconsin, the latter part of March. Miss O'Laughlin is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta and her home is in Grand Island.

The establishment of a bureau for the use of women and girls who are taking up journalistic work as a vocation, and also for the use of magazines, newspapers, and periodicals desiring women writers, will be one of the important questions to come up for discussion at the convention. The sessions will continue over a period of three days.

SALE OF ANNUAL BEGINS TUESDAY

Thirty Enthusiastic "Co-Eds" Will Tag Every Husker on University Campus.

Buy your Cornhusker Tuesday. The 1920 Cornhusker sales campaign will start with a rush Tuesday morning, and a supreme effort will be made to tag every student on the campus. Keen competition already exists among the thirty selected University girls who have been entrusted with the success of the campaign. The girls have pledged themselves to do their utmost to place a Cornhusker order with every loyal University student.

Cornhuskers will be printed only for the students subscribing during the campaign. No order will be taken after this week. Over three hundred students put off buying their books, during last year's campaign, with the result that the management could not supply them with the Cornhusker.

A two-dollar payment will be requested from every student, when their order is taken, and the balance of two dollars and fifty cents is not to be paid until the book is delivered. Every section of the Cornhusker except the Student Life section has been completed and will be in the hands of the printer this week. Art critics agree that Kirsch has put forth his greatest work in his highly-colored illustrations of the Cornhusker feature section, "The New University." Another new feature of this year's annual will be the full-page etchings of the various University buildings.

The Cornhusker management is proud of their cover, which is to be made of rich gray leather. Kirsch (Continued on Page Four.)

NEBRASKA WILL DEBATE AGAIN

Professor M. M. Fogg Announces That Nebraska is Preparing to Meet Iowa.

Forensic Discussions to Resume After War Caused Their Suspension Indefinitely

Intercollegiate debating, in which field the University of Nebraska held a notably high place among American universities for fifteen years before the war caused its suspension, is to start up again, according to announcement by Prof. M. M. Fogg Saturday on the Intercollegiate Debate bulletin board in University Hall. Arrangements are about complete for two debates with the University of Iowa, to be held the middle of April.

The question, while it is not yet definitely phrased, is expected to be that of whether or not the United States should ratify the League of Nations Covenant. Nebraska will have an affirmative team at Lincoln and a negative team at Iowa City.

All students interested in competing for the honor of representing the state in these forensic discussions are requested, in the bulletin, to consult the bulletin board and to confer with Professor Fogg at L 112 today without fail and fill out an information blank. A meeting of all prospective candidates is called for eight o'clock this (Continued on page three)

NEWS OF THE DAY

Solled Down for Busy Readers

London, March 6.—It was considered a probability that Allied occupation would be necessary in the Sultan's empire in order to maintain order. It is proposed to place allied commanders in charge of all military forces.

Torrington, Wyo., March 6.—Nebraska men got their share of land in the recent drawing in the North Platte project. Forty-five Nebraskans drew lucky and among them was one woman.

Washington, March 6.—It was given out today that Article X of the peace treaty would get new consideration and that the president would pass it with the reservations although it would be very unsatisfactory to him.

Washington, March 6.—Indications that United States is nearing a legal limit for credit, cause Federal Reserve Board to consider restoring embargo on gold export. The board says that the decreased use in currency will protect financial structure.

1920 Basket-Fest Is No More-- Out-State Men Go Home Happy

The Tenth Nebraska High School Basketball Tournament is no more. The most successful gathering of students from every corner of Nebraska has come to a close. Nearly 190 teams participated, and there were 1,600 visitors in Lincoln. For those who had not been fortunately provided with places of lodging, no rooms were to be had at any price. Lincoln was "full" to the brim, and overflowing.

Rushville, in the sand hills, Superior from the Republican Valley, and Walthill from northern Nebraska, all met at the largest court meet of its kind in the entire world. The ideas of the high schools were brought to Lincoln to mingle with the ideas of Nebraska University; the out-state mannerisms were brought to the Capitol City to be contrasted with the mannerisms of a city high school. Good feeling was dominant in the tourney, and there was little room for a "crabby" quintet.

Each fraternity at the University kept a team. These teams were not selected by that fraternity, but were placed under its charge impartially by the tournament authorities. In one particular fraternity house, the rows and rows of white cots on the third floor gave the house an atmosphere of an Arab encampment. The maid polately said that it reminded her of a hospital ward.

The "N" Club deserves a large amount of credit for the final success of the tournament. Its members, with assistant sport enthusiasts, acted as referees, clerks, scorers, and ushers. The officers of the "N" Club arranged the details of the tournament with the High School Athletic Board.

The members of W. A. A. sold apples and candy at the games in the auditorium and Armory. This has been an annual custom for many years.

The games drew large crowds, which cheered like madmen as the "home town boys" took things in their hands, and played "loop the loop" with the baskets. The Armory was packed to the doors on every occasion, and many of those who dropped around a little late were forced to remain on the outside to look in, if they could see over the shoulders of the throng that blocked the exits. The 1920 tourney was a complete success. Let us hope that the participants, whether they came from Lodge Pole or Otoe, Hooker County or Omaha, will not forget the University of Nebraska until they come again in 1921. The University looks to them for future athletic material; they should look toward the years to come, and dream of a Nebraska "N" that may be theirs.

COBBEY WINS IN NORTH PLATTE LAND DRAWING

Luther W. Cobbey, '22, was one of forty-five Nebraskans, including several Lincoln men, who won in the land drawing for the North Platte irrigation project of five thousand acres. Mr. Cobbey is a member of Delta Tau Delta, and retired commandant of the University Post of American Legion. He held No. 6 in the drawing.

The project consists of eighty farm tracts and the time spent in military service during the late World War is applied to the period required on the homestead. One woman, Marguerite Cortes, of Norfolk, was among the winners.

Other Lincoln men who were successful were Tony Wherry, Raymond C. Fisher, H. F. Mathieson, Walter W. Hudson, J. W. Pickens, and C. B. Moroy of College View.

HEPPNER INSPECTS DORMITORY PLANS

Dean of Women Declares it is Only Solution to Housing Situation.

Dean Amanda Heppner and Dr. Lida B. Earhart returned last week from attending a Conference of Deans of Unive City Women at Cleveland, Ohio. On Dean Heppner's way back she visited the University of Chicago, Michigan University, Ames and other schools with the purpose of inspecting their housing facilities. Dean Heppner went to Ames to look at their dormitories and cottages besides the four fraternity and seven sorority houses, in which students are lodged. There are no commercial lodging houses as specified. Each has a social director. Dean Heppner says that the cottage plan could be tried here. The only problem which confronts local authorities is that of furniture, and this could probably be provided in some way. Ames plans to build two dormitories a year and thus keep pace with her growing attendance.

Dean Heppner also visited the dormitories at Chicago University and Ann Arbor. She asserts that with the dormitory system there is executive control over the students. Western Reserve meets the sex question by having two colleges which are just alike, one for men and the other for women. This is called co-ordinate education.

Small Units Best

Dean Heppner finds that some universities have sixty as the unit in their dormitories. At Ann Arbor the unit is 100 to 125; at Ames 60 to 100. There is no dormitory in any school which she has visited where more than 125 are housed at one time. The Dean has studied very thoroughly for many years, both by correspondence and by actual inspection in person the dormitory question for housing university students.

HUSKERS FORMALLY APPLY TO RE-ENTER CONFERENCE

Columbia, Mo., March 8.—The University of Nebraska has applied for official readmission to the Missouri Valley Conference, according to a communication received Saturday by A. Ross Hill, president of the University of Missouri, and head of the Conference. It is said that the application will be heard at a meeting of the Conference, probably held in April.

DO YOU KNOW THIS?

Iota Sigma Pi, honorary chemical fraternity for women, includes only women of the highest standing in Chemistry at the University. Its purpose is the advancement of that science among women. There are now chapters at Washington, Leland Stanford, Berkeley, Southern California, Colorado, Michigan, Illinois and Nebraska. Members of the Nebraska Chapter are Dorothy Dow, Mary Hendryx, M. Cheuvront, Frances Maynard, Angeline Riley, Matilda Peters, Josephine Graves, Ida Carr, Ruth Whitmore, Bess McDonald and Mabel Hunter.

LINCOLN CHAMPS IN STATE MEET

Honor Flag Captured After Furious Struggle With Commerce Lads.

Superior Wins in Class B—Have-lock and Kimball County Grab Honors.

1920 CHAMPIONS

- Class A—Lincoln
- Class B—Superior
- Class C—Havelock
- Class D—Kimball County
- Class E—Benson
- Class F—Aurora
- Class G—DeWitt
- Class H—Genoa
- Class I—Milford
- Class J—Temple
- Class K—Cortland

Lincoln High won the championship of Class A in the Tenth Annual Basketball Tournament Saturday night by defeating the fast Omaha Commerce five by a 25 to 13 score before three thousand frenzied fans at the City Auditorium. The Omaha team was outplayed by the Lincoln lads at all times except a short while during the first half.

The Commerce quintet played an excellent brand of basketball but the efforts of Mahoney, star Commerce forward, were completely covered by the guarding of Lamb, of the Red and Black team. Very few shots were afforded the Omaha star and not a single field goal did he register during the entire game. The Lincoln forwards exhibited very clever floor work and during the last half of the game completely baffled the metropolis team. Schapers, with fifteen points to his credit, was the high scorer for Lincoln. Mahoney, with nine free throws, lead the Commerce aggregation.

Superior Wins in Class B

Superior nosed out the Arlington five in the scrap for the honors of Class B after playing an extra five-minute session. The teams battled evenly through the game and when the final whistle sounded the score stood at a tie and the extra period (Continued on Page Four.)

GOPHERS EASY MEAT FOR HUSKER MAT MEN

University of Minnesota Falls Victim to Wiles of Nebraska Artists.

The Cornhusker mat artists had little trouble in winning over the Minnesota wrestlers in a dual meet held at the city auditorium after the basketball finals Saturday night. The match was originally scheduled for the afternoon but due to storm conditions the Gophers were unable to arrive until evening.

Every one of the six matches on the program was won by a Husker athlete. The Gophers were not in the same class with the Nebraskans as was clearly demonstrated by the results. This is the first dual meet of the season for the Husker grapplers but in the near future the Nebraska team will face some of the strongest teams in the west.

The results of each bout were as follows:

120-pound class—Votapka, Nebraska, won two falls from Glass, Minnesota, in 4:32 and 5:38

125-pound class—Salter, Nebraska, won one fall and a decision from Kolda, Minnesota.

135-pound class—Troendly, Nebraska, won two decisions from Stedel, Minnesota.

145-pound class—Long, Nebraska, won a fall in 4:02 and a decision from Silberman, Minnesota.

158-pound class—Smith, Nebraska, won two falls in 4:30 and 5:22 from Bailey, Minnesota.

175-pound class—Pickwell, Nebraska, won two falls by default from Dvorak, Minnesota.
