

ILLINOIS HOLDS INDOOR CARNIVAL

CORNHUSKER SALES CAMPAIGN BEGINS

Continued From Page One) persuade you: high school friends to come to the University. You can show them the big shirt tail parade, how you received your black eye at the Olympics. And say, look at that foot ball team, too fast for Syracuse, the cream of the east. And old pal, here's the basket ball team that made the whole basket ball world sit up and take notice. The above are only a few of the many talking points the Cornhusker has for the prospective University of Nebraska student. Can you afford to be without it?

If, by any chance, the girls miss you, leave your subscription at the Student Activities Office and they will credit the order to your favorite contestant.

BUSINESS MEN BACK EXPANSION

Continued From Page One) sity affairs. With the students scattered over all of Lincoln and her suburbs the University is apt to become of minor interest on the part of many, and the true college spirit which would be derived from a colony of University folks can not be developed.

No action has been taken relative to the purchasing and clearing of this land; but this action is in accordance with the other resolutions passed at earlier dates restricting certain parts of the city to buildings of a certain nature. In this way, when the time comes to make use of more land for the University, there will be no danger of being hampered and perhaps halted by the growth of other interests on the outskirts of the present campus.

ROAD INSTITUTE URGES HIGHWAY INSTRUCTION

Nebraska Boosters Close Successful Sessions and Endorse Jones-Reavis Bill.

The Nebraska Road Institute closed Friday afternoon after the most successful meeting since its organization. At two o'clock of the closing day, "Brick Paving" was discussed by Clark R. Mandigo, chief engineer of the Western Paving Brick Manufacturing Association. George Wolz, president of the oGod Roads Association, spoke on "Financing County Paving," and George E. Johnson, secretary of the Department of Public Works, addressed the visitors on the "Highway Program for 1920."

The Institute pledged its support to the Jones-Reavis Bill in its morning session Friday, and passed a resolution asking that the University of Nebraska take steps toward increasing the courses that train engineers. The resolutions follow.

Whereas the consolidation of the department of public works office under one head and into one office in our state capital promotes the greatest efficiency; is the most harmonious and satisfactory, and establishes the best results; and Therefore be it resolved that we unanimously recommend that the Jones-Reavis bill, which is for the purpose of consolidating the federal public works functions, be passed by congress.

Be it further resolved that the copies of this resolution be sent to our congressmen in Washington.

Urge University Training

Be it further resolved that on account of the amount of road work to be done in the state and the shortage of young men especially fitted for this work, we believe that the university can greatly help many Nebraska young men and benefit the state in no better way than to encourage and offer additional inducements and instructions for highway engineering so it would not be necessary for the state engineer to go out of the state to find engineers."

The annual banquet of the Institute was held in the Garden Room at the Lincoln Hotel, and about thirty members of the institute were present. Prof. L. W. Chase acted as toastmaster and called upon prominent road boosters.

GRADE SCHOOL PUPILS VISIT ART EXHIBIT

All the pupils of the grade schools are being brought in closer touch with Art this year than ever before during the Art Exhibitions. Before, it has been the custom to bring the grade school pupils here by buildings, but now, under the excellent supervision of Miss Susan Hoagland, Supervisor in Art in the public schools, the students are brought to the Art Gallery in much smaller groups.

Instead of talking to them first, they are expected to go around through the gallery and study the pictures thoroughly, after which they are given interesting talks concerning the pictures and their painters, by Miss Moore, Miss Grant, Miss Hoagland.

MOVEMENT TOWARD MASS ATHLETICS IS INSTIGATED

A movement towards mass athletics has been instituted in the physical education department for women. Contests between the different gymnasium classes have been inaugurated. Every Friday special events are held. The first of these was basketball throwing. Each girl was allowed three throws for the basket from the foul line. Each basket made counted a point for the class. The percentages of the classes will be recorded and the best record made by a class in all the events will be announced. Distance throws of basketball and baseball are other events planned. All freshman and sophomore girls will have a part in these contents because gymnasium work is required the first two years and every girl in a class takes part in the events.

Washington, March 8.—President Wilson will send a letter to Senator Hitchcock, probably today, concerning the Lodge reservations on Article 10 of the treaty. It is generally believed that he will not accept the revised article.

MANY TOURNEY GUESTS ATTEND ART EXHIBIT

The pictures on exhibition at the Art Exhibit interested a large number of visiting high school students, and many of them took advantage of the reduced price for admission for basketball guests. On Sunday many school children attended the exhibit.

A picture that is attracting much individual attention is "The Eternal Feminine," by J. Laurie Wallace. This is the work of a well-known Omaha painter. It interprets the vanity of a beautiful modern American woman as she surveys herself before a hand-mirror.

FRESHMEN THANK ROADMEN FOR OCCUPYING TEMPLE

That the freshmen have shown a spirit of cheerful self-sacrifice in temporarily forfeiting the freshmen lectures to give the use of the Temple theatre to the Good Roads Convention is made evident in the following card of thanks which they have issued:

"The freshmen students of Arts and Science college are thankful to the Good Roads Convention for using the Temple theatre this week. The freshmen wish to tell the convention that they are welcome to the use of the theatre every Tuesday or Thursday."

STANDARDIZE MACHINERY TO LOWER H. C. L.—SJOGREN

The standardization of farm machinery is one means whereby the price is going to be lowered, according to Prof. O. W. Sjogren, of the University of Nebraska Department of Agricultural Engineering, who has recently returned from Chicago where he attended a meeting of the National Agricultural Equipment Standards Committee. This committee is made up of engineers from manufacturing associations and engineering societies of the country. Its work is to standardize machinery and put system into the present jumble of models, makes, sizes, etc.

To support his prediction that standardization will lower the cost, Professor Sjogren said that the standardization of wagons by the government during the war reduced their cost $2.50 each. The government found 1,752 different combinations of wagons. It reduced this number to 90. Another instance is that if the standardization of automobiles, Professor Sjogren said. Marked progress has been made in reducing the number of variations in automobile parts. The committee is now working on the standardization of tractor parts and of silage cutters.

Henry Chung, a graduate of the University, is visiting the campus this week. He gave a very interesting talk to the Current Events class under the direction of Professor R. E. Cochran, at one o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Wednesday evening he gave another interesting talk to the American History Conference in the Social Science building.

"He who can disregard popularity and be faithful to his convictions has found the secret of power."
