CAMPUS ROMEO HALTS WOMAN IN BLACK ENTERING BASEMENT WINDOW

here!" He thought that was a peculiar thing for a burglar to say, but he did not hesitate—this was the golden opportunity of his life. His mother would be sorry that she had made him join the S. A. T. C., instead of the army.

He assumed a look of bravery and with a brick in his uplifted hand he yelled,—"Stop thief," and then he fled. He had given her just one look. Why the unseemly haste and the sudden abandon of all his ambitions? Was the woman one whom he had reason to fear? Was he hiding a dark secret that only this woman knew? Had he lost his courage or had he been overwhelmed by her beauty? NO, none of these. She was merely a reporter on the "Rag" who was endeavoring to gain entrance to the locked-up office, that she might write up Friday night's formal.

BEETHOVEN'S SYMPHONY FEATURE AT CONVOCATION

Beethoven's 5th Symphony in C Minor will be presented at convocation Thursday, March 11, at eleven o'clock. The same program will be presented that was given at the Matinee Musicale, Monday. The following is the program:

1st movement—Allegro—Con brio.
2d movement—Andante—con moto.
3d movement—Allegro—scherzo.
4th movement—Allegro—maestoso.

Edward J. Walt, first violin.
Ernest Harrison, second violin.
Wm. T. Quick, viola.
Lillian Elche, 'cello.
Mrs. Carrie B. Raymond, organ.

When Dr. Maxey of the Law College was asked yesterday whether or not he saw his quotation in Bubbles recently that "Notre Dame was surely expected to uncork something, because they brought Brandy with them," he smilingly said:

"Yes, and I think Bubbles was a good place for it, too. Brandy always comes in Bubbles, you know."
