LARGE NUMBERS ATTEND FUN FEST

Splendid Music, Exceptional Skits and the Scandal Sheet Feature University Night.

DOWNPOUR NO HINDRANCE

University Night, the one time of the year when all laws of libel and slander are void, was celebrated by University students who crowded the high school auditorium last Saturday night to "see themselves as others see them" and applaud the demonstrations of vengeance which the few faculty members, bold enough to attend, had to see reeked upon themselves and their colleagues.

Through torrents of rain and hail the crowd came. Nothing could daunt their spirit. Arrived at the high school auditorium they were ushered to their seats by the Green Goblins, the recently organized honorary society for Freshman men. The Xi Deltas sold refreshments until the beginning of the program, but were unable to meet all the requests for "eats."

Faculty Goes to South Sea

The bursting of paper sacks and the hum of conversation suddenly ceased and the closest attention was given to the selections of the University Band which opened the program. Soon afterward the curtain rose, and there sat the student council with the Honorable Lawrence Slater presiding in proxy. Professor Frye was convicted for enticing birds to make nests in his mustache and sentenced to deportation to the Canary Islands. Then came Dean Heppner, who had failed to provide the usual three-fourths of the material for University Night. Dean Engberg and Dean Lyman were likewise convicted. In a cloud-burst of speech Miss Conklin defended herself against the plainly unjustifiable charge of too rapid speech. But Jack Best alone was spared the fate of deportation. Soon after, said abused people were shown organized into "The South Sea Agitators" and marching to the orders of Professor Fogg.

Makes Wilson Smile

Lost the entertainment be over the heads of the audience, as the chalk talker explained. Oz Black gave a chalk talk. He began with the explosive subject of the bomb, and from that proceeded to a chalk description of all kinds of radicals. Then came the candidates for the presidency. A few chalk lines meaningless to the spectators, then one or two more lines by the miraculous hand of the artist and the crowd was applauding General Pershing in military uniform. A fitting remark now and then by the artist, as he worked, added spice to the pictures. A huge, determined jaw at once suggested the cartoons of Wilson, a few more lines identified the sketch with the determined leader of the nation, two more lines and Wilson was smiling.

Hit Prominent Dramatic Students

A quarrel between Herbert Yenne and Genevieve Addleman at a railway station is what "The Wheels of Destiny" revealed,—also the futures of others. In a later scene an old black face told his wife of his thrilling experiences of University Week when Eleanor Fogg received a bouquet of flowers and sent them down to be thrown upon the stage the second time. That is just a sample of what he brought to light.

The three notables, Chas. R. Samuelson, at the piano, Lois Melton and Isabelle Pearsall, singer and dancer, could not give enough of their entertainment to satisfy the audience. Especially popular was the jiggling of Miss Pearsall costumed as a dapper little gentleman. Similar enthusiasm greeted the "peppy stuff" given by the Varsity quartet.

The Laws and Aqs remained in their own realms. The Laws had a court scene where among other things

HUSKERS MAY REENTER FOLD

Committee Decides to Permit Nebraska to be Reinstated in Conference.

WOULD CHANGE SCHEDULE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 17.—The University of Nebraska was readmitted to the Missouri Valley Athletic Conference by unanimous vote of presidents and chancellors at a meeting here today. Request for reinstatement came from authorities of the Nebraska institution. Nebraska withdrew from the conference in 1919 because of a desire to play football in Omaha. Conference rules provide for athletic contests only in a city of a contesting institution.

The rule adopted last December forbidding any institution of the conference to engage in athletic contests with the University of Nebraska also was revoked at today's meeting.

Readmission of Nebraska to the conference, officials explained, necessitates the rearrangement of the football schedule to provide games for Nebraska with conference teams.

This means that if Nebraska plays Rutgers and Penn the games must be staged in Lincoln. The Cornhuskers will be officially admitted when Chancellor Avery informs the conference officials in writing that Nebraska will live up to the rules of the conference.

INTER-FRATERNITY BASEBALL TOURNEY TO BE POSTPONED

Will Begin Series of Games April 26 if Present Plans Work Out.

At a meeting of fraternity men held at 11:30 Thursday morning in the athletic office, plans for the Inter-Greek Baseball Tourney were discussed at length. Each Greek society sent one representative to the meeting.

It is imperative that fraternities pay their entrance fees of 1.00 to Farley Young, treasurer of the Fraternity Athletic Association, at once, to signify that they are willing to enter the tournament.

It was at first planned to hold the games this week but delay has caused officials to schedule them for the week beginning April 26.

Most of the fraternities are taking a great interest in the game, and may be observed hunting, batting, fouling and "striking out" on Fraternity Row every day. If practice is any indication, some excellent battles are in store for University diamond fans.

BANQUET HELD FOR NEW IRON SPHINX

Second Year Honorary Fraternity Holds Annual Feast at Lincoln, Sunday.

The annual Iron Sphinx banquet, held Sunday evening at the Lincoln Hotel, proved conclusively that the spirit and activity characteristic of the second year men will be present next year. Fifty members, both active and the ones initiated Thursday evening at the caves, were present and plans were made for the coming year.

A few words by President Herbert Cushman made clear the purpose and duties of the Iron Sphinx, the honorary Sophomore organization. Arthur Lonan was appointed as temporary chairman of the newly initiated members. The election of a permanent head will be deferred until next fall.

ENGINEERS HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET

Alpha chapter of Sigma Tau, honorary engineering fraternity, held its annual spring initiation banquet at the Lincoln, Thursday evening, April 15. Seventy-five active members, faculty members, alumni and prominent engineers were in attendance. The guest of honor of the evening was Dean C. R. Richards of Illinois University who was dean of the College of Engineering at Nebraska University at the time of the organization of the fraternity at Nebraska. Dean O. V. P. Stout was toastmaster and responses were made by Prof. J. B. Davidson, formerly of Nebraska, now of Iowa State College on "In the Beginning"; by Prof. V. L. Hollister on "It Came to Pass" and by Prof. J. W. Haney on "Revelations."

DEAN I. S. CUTTER VISITS PRE-MEDICS

Head of University College of Medicine at Omaha Guest of Pi Phi Chi.

Dean I. S. Cutter, of the University College of Medicine at Omaha, was the guest of honor at a luncheon Friday, given by Pi Phi Chi, the pre-medic fraternity. Following the luncheon Dean Cutter in his address spoke of the rise of the medical profession in correlation to the other sciences and of the large increase of medical literature. He outlined the advantages of the University College of Medicine, touching upon the contrasts between the bedside clinic, and the clinic of the amphitheatre, and giving the reasons why the former is so extensively used in the College of Medicine.

Dean Cutter spoke of the manner that the medical students were allowed to develop their own individuality by diagnosing cases. There are, he said, no two cases of the same disease alike, each one has aspects that are peculiar to it alone and must be studied as an individual and distinct phase. Dr. Cutter concluded his talk by a quotation of Dr. Linaeus, the famous Swedish botanist. "No man who claims an education can substantiate his claim unless he has studied medicine."

Other guests at the luncheon were Dr. F. D. Barker and Dr. H. B. Lattimer, both of the pre-medic department.

COMMERCIAL CLUB HOLDS ANNUAL BANQUET FRIDAY

Prominent Business Men Speak to 200 Members of College of Business Administration.

The annual banquet of the University of Nebraska Commercial Club was held at the Grand Hotel, Friday night, April 16, 1920. Two hundred members of the College of Business Administration, members of the faculty, regents, and business men of Lincoln, attending made the banquet a distinct success.

Following the dinner, Dean J. E. LeRossignol, as toastmaster introduced the speakers and the general theme of the evening was "Business as a Profession." Mr. W. B. Ryons, of the First National Bank, following this topic, talked on "Business Compared with other Professions," Professor Paul Conner talked on the "Ethics of the Profession." George Driver, "The Commercial Club as a Professional Guild," Myron Garey, "Business Training of the Future," Professor P. W. Ivey, "College Training for Business" and Mr. S. A. Sanderson of Rudge & Guenzel Company, on "Apprentice Training for Business."

This banquet was in charge of members of the Commercial Club and was successful in every way. Regents of the University present expressed their pleasure over the splendid way it was handled and said they had a clearer conception of splendid work being done by the College of Business Administration.

NEBRASKA WINS OPENING GAME

Takes Wesleyan Contest by 7-2 Score in Hotly Contested Battle.

PICKETT FANS TEN MEN

The Nebraska ball tossers whipped the Methodists from Wesleyan to the tune of 7 to 2, at the M street park Friday afternoon. It was the opening game for both teams. Air tight pitching by Hinman of Wesleyan and Captain Pickett of Nebraska, backed up by steady fielding, made the first four innings scoreless. In the fifth the Huskers got to Hinman for three counters. In the sixth the Cornhuskers pushed across four more markers which sewed up the game and enabled Schissler's crew to breeze through to the finish with an easy victory.

Captain Pickett's pitching was the outstanding feature of the game. Pickett held Wesleyan to six hits, whiffed ten men, and did not issue a free ticket to the first bag.

In the seventh Folsom and Hinman led off with clean hits to the first station. Pickett tried to catch Hinman napping off second and threw the ball into centerfield. Folsom scored and Hinman went to third on the error. M. Mayo beat out a slow one to short and Hinman scored. Pickett then fanned Davis and McCandless died when McCrory caught his fly. Mayo went to second on Swanson's passed ball but was caught for the third out by a throw, Pickett to Bailey.

Kline went in for the Huskers in the ninth and held the Wesleyan outfit scoreless. E. Mayo opened the ninth with a clean single to center, but Folsom, Hinman and M. Mayo were easy marks and the inning closed without a score.

The heavy slugging of Swanson, Lynn, Pickett, Bekins and McCrory in the fifth and sixth brought victory for the Huskers. The snappy fielding of McCrory, Lynn, Pickett and E. Mayo were the features of the day. The Wesleyan aggregation pulled a "boner" when the Huskers had a three run lead, a Methodist batter was sent to the plate to hunt a man to second and two men were down. The Nebraska infield played stellar brand of ball and the team looked like the real goods for a first class combination.
