HAS FOUR TRIALS AT SCHOLARSHIP

University Allowed this Number of Applications for Rhodes Prize.

MUST BE IN BY MAY 15

One Rhodes scholar will be elected from Nebraska in September of this year. This scholarship is good for three years in Oxford University, England, commencing in October of 1921. Its purpose is to enable American students to study in Oxford at no more than a nominal expense to themselves. The scholar elected will receive the sum of 300 pounds per year (equivalent at ordinary rates of exchange to about $1,500 per year). This is almost, if not entirely, sufficient, to pay all expenses including living expenses during vacations, depending, of course, upon how economically the scholar desires to live. There are no restrictions as to subjects of study; the scholar may pursue any line of work at the University for which he is fitted. For example, if otherwise qualified, he may study some professional course, such as law, theology or medicine, or he may do graduate work leading to the degree of Ph. D. along any academic line, or he may do ordinary under-graduate work leading to the degree of B. A.

The conditions of eligibility of this scholarship are as follows:

1. The applicant must be a citizen of the United States with at least five years domicile and unmarried.
2. He must have been born after October 1, 1896, and before October 1, 1902.
3. By October 1, 1921, he must have completed at least two years at some recognized degree-granting college or university in the United States.
4. He must be either a resident of the state of Nebraska or have received at least two years of his college education in this state.

The present method of selection is entirely without examination, but the choice is in the hands of a committee of selection consisting of the following members: Chancellor Samuel Avery of the University of Nebraska, chairman; Prof. J. A. Rice of the University of Nebraska, and Paul F. Good of Lincoln, Nebraska, secretary.

The method of selection is as follows: Candidates must be first selected by their own college or university for competition in Nebraska. Colleges are allowed a number of candidates proportional to their total enrollment. Institutions with less than 1,000 students may have two candidates, those with 1,000 to 2,000 students may have three candidates, and those with more than 2,000 students may have four candidates. Institutions from outside the state are permitted to have as many candidates for Nebraska competition as any institution inside of Nebraska, and on the other hand any Nebraska institution may have candidates for scholarship in other states regardless of the number who are entered in the

The Memorial campaign which will begin May 17 and close May 22 is one of the greatest ever attempted by the University. The campaign is for the purpose of raising the sum of $1,000,000 with which to erect a $750,000 gymnasium and a $250,000 stadium at the athletic field. The gymnasium will be five times as large as the present Armory and will have a swimming pool as large as the Armory floor. The stadium will have a seating capacity of 25,000, ranking as one of the largest stadiums in the country.

The quotas of Omaha and Lincoln are fixed at $200,000 each and the remainder of the $1,000,000 fund will be apportioned to the rest of the state. A committee of five hundred prominent business men, throughout the state, has been selected to take over the raising of the quotas in their respective localities.

Students at the University will be asked to contribute $40,000 to this fund. The subscriptions may be extended over a year's time and will thus enable students to raise their share during the summer months.

As a memorial, the new gymnasium will serve for the entire state. The state is building it and will receive credit for its work. The new edifice will contain headquarters for the American Legion, club rooms for University societies, basketball courts, indoor tennis courts, indoor baseball fields and every other progressive wholesome sport.

The new building will serve three excellent purposes, a splendid addition to the University campus, a necessity in the athletic part of the school and a memorial to the Nebraska boys who gave their all for their country and their creed.

Y. M. C. A. FITTING UP NEW RECREATION ROOM

Large Enrollment this Year
Necessitates More Space for Men Students.

The larger of the old cafeteria rooms in the Temple, which has been assigned by the University for use of the Y. M. C. A., is being fitted out for a recreational and reading room. According to plans it will be ready for occupancy before the end of the present school year.

Owing to the larger number of students attending school this year, the present capacity of the Y. M. C. A. reading rooms has been overtaken. The new room will remedy this crowded condition and the men students will welcome this arrangement.

The room has been made very attractive by redecorating the walls and refinishing the woodwork. It is very well lighted and because of its location, will make a quiet room for reading and recreation. This new reading room is to be furnished in hand-craft furniture including small octagonal tables which will accommodate four men each. Special chess and checker tables are being made.

The corners of the room are to be fitted up with settees, rockers and easy-armed chairs. In furnishing and finishing the room, appearance and comfort are receiving a great deal of attention; and special effort is being made to make the room as inviting and as comfortable as possible.

JUDGE INTER-DISTRICT HIGH SCHOOL DEBATE

Prof. H. W. Caldwell, Prof. C. E. Green and Mr. Anton H. Ferison were at Minden Saturday evening judging the Minden-Curtis School of Agriculture inter-district (West-Central-Southwestern) contest of the Nebraska High School Debating League to determine which school should send its team to the thirteenth State Debate at the University on High School Fete Day, May 15.

passes any other Rocky Mountain Conference since the Student Y. M. C. A. movement was started. There were two hundred and fifty two accredited delegates present, which, with the leaders, foreign students and visitors brought the total attendance up to 340. This is about one hundred more than have attended the largest Estes Park Conference heretofore.

NEWS OF THE DAY

Bolled Down for Busy Readers

Washington, May 1.—The threatened widespread disorder that was scheduled to come off on May 1 did not materialize as far as can be found out. It was through the activities of the department of justice that kept the radicals from gaining their ends. Only a few fiery speeches were heard of during the day.

New York, May 1.—Next Tuesday will be primary day for Indiana and California. These will be the last, with the exception of Oregon, which comes May 21. Johnson's chances hinge decidedly on his home state, California. If he fails to carry California he will be lost as a republican candidate for president.

Lincoln, May 1.—A new forestry plan has been announced for Lincoln streets, by Philip Edinborough and F. G. Gossart who are connected with the city parking commission. They intend to regulate tree and shrub planting and designate the kinds of trees to be planted

ALL STUDENTS MAY VOTE ON REVISIONS

Student Council Presents Amended
Constitution to Entire School on Tuesday.

All the students in the University will be given an opportunity to vote on the proposed revision of the constitution for the Student Council, Tuesday. The polls, to be located at the Farm campus and in Social Science Building, will be open from nine to twelve and from two to five.

All the proposed revisions will be voted upon as one unit and the honor spirit plan as another. Bulletins containing the entire constitution, the proposed revisions and the honor spirit plan will be distributed at the voting places. The honor spirit has been a subject of discussion all year. Those who favor it feel that it can be a success only if the majority of the students support it. For this reason it is urged that all students should vote so that the vote will be representative.

The six proposed revisions include Article III, which requires that the Student Council be represented on the Student Publication Board, the Election Board and the University Week Committee, and Article IV, which requires that the chairman of the All-University Party Committee be a member of the Student Council. Article IV further provides for the appointment of three members of this committee by the Council and four by the Dean of Women. Other articles provide for the representation of two more colleges, those of Dentistry and Business Administration, for the filling of vacancies in the Student Council and for the method of nominations of candidates for membership in the Council. An amendment to Article XI permits students to present proposals or grievances to the Council at the regular meetings.

NO DEFINITE REPORT ON PENN RELAY MEET

Nebraskans Enter Speedy Race Meet at Philadelphia—Twenty-sixth Annual Carnival.

England's great quartet of runners, Tatham, Stallard, Milligan and Rudd, won the two mile college relays in the Penn meet held at Philadelphia Saturday afternoon. They set a new world's record in this event making the distance in 7:50-25.

It was a thrilling victory in the feature event of the twenty-sixth annual Penn relay carnival and capped an afternoon which kept a crowd of about 25,000 standing on the bleacher seats most of the time.

Stallard, the tall blonde British speed demon, put up a wonderful fight in his lap of the relay and came down the home stretch floundering, passed the baton to Milligan, and collapsed. Rudd, for the British, set out like a hundred yard man and ran away from the rest of the field and finished fresh in 1:54 3-4 for the half.

Pennsylvania pulled the surprise of the afternoon, by defeating Cornell in the four mile relay. Shields of Pennsylvania State making his mile in 4:19. Pennsylvania won the one mile relay making it in 3:22 2-5. In the hundred yard hurdles, Wright of Nebraska took third in his heat—time 16 seconds.

The best athletes of the country were assembled in this year's Penn meet and as a result of their achievements America's outlook for victory

ENGINEERS' FIELD DAY AT STATE FARM MAY 6

Five hundred and fifty engineering students from the city and farm campuses will abandon their readin' and writin' May 6 in order to participate in the annual Engineers' field day. The festivities will take place at the State Farm campus. A number of contests have been arranged by the committee, including baseball games and track events. Cash prizes will be offered to the victorious teams and individuals in each event.

Delta Sigma Delta Falls In Path of Midnight Collector

Scattered clothing, an open window and foot prints in the Saturday night mud were the first signs the Delta Sigma Delta fraternity at 1121 G street found when it awoke Sunday morning. These signs immediately initiated a search which proved that $150 had been taken during the night. Pockets were turned inside out, trousers and coats were cast about the room but nothing was missing except money. Watches, jewelry and other valuables were undisturbed.

This robbery, one of a series among fraternity houses, was as most of the others, committed near pay day. The Inter-Fraternity Burglar's Association has kept pretty close tab on Father's

HUSKERS SPLIT WITH INDIANS

Drop One Game by Close Margin and Take Second Game
8 to 5.

NEED BETTER SUPPORT

The Nebraska Cornhuskers spanked the Haskell warriors to the tune of 8 to 5 at the M street park Saturday afternoon and thereby took sweet revenge for the ten inning game of Friday that went to the Indians by the score of 3 to 2. As a result of Saturday's win the Huskers split the two game series with the Haskells, which series the Nebraskans rightfully earned credit to have taken had not the breaks been with the Redmen.

In the first frame the Haskells got away with two scores in their half, but the Huskers sluggers came back strong in their half and pushed two runners across the home plate. The Redmen scored one in the second inning and Coach Schissler's men worked a man around in this same stanza tying the score again. The game went nip and tuck until the sixth inning. The Nebraskans staged a rally in this round which netted them five markers, sewed up the game, and put victory out of the reach of the Haskell outfit. Lynn had on his batting togs and smacked a line single when the bases were drunk with Husker runners, which cleaned the sacks and spelt victory for Pickett and his crew. This was Lynn's second safety of the game. The hitting of Bailey and Lynn, each getting a pair of bingles, was the main factor in the Nebraska victory.

Leonard Kline hurled six innings of fancy ball and kept the eight hits the Redmen garnered well scattered. The Haskells got three runs in the first two stanzas but only one was earned, the other two being a result of the break of luck being in their favor. In the seventh inning Kline weakened and allowed a walk and three safe clouts which resulted in two runs. Pickett went in the box in this stage of the game with two runners on and one man down. He let the Redmen down without a further score. Up to the seventh Kline's assortment of stuff and change of pace had the Haskells at bay but they found him and Schissler put Pickett in to stop their belated rally. Captain Pickett hurled air tight ball while on the mound and struck out four men. The Cornhuskers played stellar ball and made but two errors both being the result of hard balls to handle.

The Haskells have the God of Luck to thank for their victory of Friday, which game went ten innings. Captain John Pickett went the full route for the Huskers and heaved first class brand of baseball and deserved to have beaten the Redmen. The game should never have gone an extra frame had not the Huskers been given a raw deal at second in the eighth inning when the umps called a man out at the keystone sack who was safe by a city block. In this round the Cornhuskers scored one marker but should have had two and

The 1920 Estes Park Student Conference will be held during the ten days between June 11 and June 21. Students who plan on attending should choose their partners for doubles now and register at the Y. M. C. A. office in the Temple.

Last year's Estes Park Conference came to a close on the evening of June 26, leaving behind it a record of attendance and loyalty that far sur-
