A BUSY MONTH.

Today opens the busiest month of this school year, the last lap before finals and graduation. During this month, students will be called on many times to support the various activities, from dramatics to picnics and then athletics. Much of the entertainment will be out of doors, which will be an added attraction to it all.

First comes the state high school track meet on the University field when approximately a hundred high school students will compete for the state honors. The University will act as a host to these men and it is hoped that they will be given such a cordial reception that many of them will come back to enter school next year or later. May 14 is also the date for the Minnesota-Nebraska track meet, a truly great one.

Then follows Ivy Day with the crowning of the May Queen, the oration, the class poem, the planting of the ivy, tapping of the Innocents and Black Masques, dancing and games. On this same day is also scheduled the baseball game with the University of California.

Turning back to athletics, there is the girls' track meet and baseball tournament. Then the men's track teams leave for the Missouri Valley Conference meet at Columbia, going the next week-end to Chicago for the Western Conference track meet. From present records, Nebraska should line up very well in both these meets.

Scattered through the days will be the military compet, the mysterious Law Barbecue, the state high school debating contest and all the club, fraternity and sorority spring parties and picnics. There will be a perfect overflow of such social festivities until the last student has gone home for the vacation.

The Seniors have before them the many tradition affairs, the class play, Skip Day, Baccalaureate Sunday, Alumni Day and Graduation Day. These events, mixed with examinations and classes complete a schedule for a five four weeks. Show your spirit and be out for all these things. Be a part of the real Husker "gang" and enter into everything to make the very most of these last few weeks of school—let's have a good time together!

MUSIC AND TRACK.

The Nebraska-Haskell track meet Saturday was a most successful walk-away for our men and brought up the spirits of track fans to a high degree. The men were in fairly good trim and are very optimistic about prospects for the Minnesota meet to be held Friday.

But the student support was lacking, for in spite of a truly wonderful day and the attraction of an out-of-doors contest, a crowd was woefully absent. It is true that a smaller number of people understand and are interested in track sports, but a course of instruction might not be out of place. Track standing to any university is a very vital thing and Nebraskans should materially and in a demonstrative way, back up the efforts of our cinder stars.

Above all, why could not the band play at a track meet? There is nothing quite so inspiring to a crowd or to the men in the contest as the strains of the chant or "Nebraska and the Scarlet" wafted across the field between acts, so to speak. The band is usually present at football, basketball and baseball games. Let's give the track men that sign of recognition, appreciation and faith in their ability. Let's show Minnesota some of our spirit Friday!

A COLLEGE AND ITS LEADERS.

A college, insofar as the students are concerned, is what the leaders make it. To the men with whom the duties of the various class offices are entrusted belongs the responsibility of maintaining the standards of student body and of discharging their duties with a zeal which will make their Alma Mater stand forth in the eyes of the students of all other colleges. No man can respect the individual who shoves all of the responsibility of his office after he has won it. The class officer or member of any other administrative student body who is not possessed with some of the fire and zeal which will make him labor enthusiastically for the building up of a project or of furthering the legislation of business which will effect some ultimate good for the class or the student body as a whole is a failure and has sidestepped the trust which has been given to him. The man without inspiration for the discharge of his duties and the obligation to his fellow students and to his university can only leave it not merely as he found it but worse, degraded by his polluted touch. He has dragged down the ideals of his Alma Mater to the level of his own.—Purdue Exponent.
