HAIL THE CORNHUSKER!

The year-book is out at last and the pent-up curiosity of the whole campus is satisfied. This is a banner book, in every respect, make-up, the details of the material and the large subscription list. This last proves that the student body is and increasingly will be interested in this form of school activity. A large staff of workers have labored faithfully the year through and their results are most commendable.

The book is larger than usual, broadly representative of the entire University and a worthy remembrance to be accredited to the class of 1920 in future years. The athletic and military sections and Shucks are the distinctive features of this Cornhusker and the usual criticism of "not enough pictures—too much reading matter" certainly is not appropriate this time.

The editing of the Cornhusker is an all year job. After long hours of detailed work the book appears, there is a week of criticism and appreciation and then the labor is all forgotten. There is no crowd of cheering friends, no rousing "U-U-UNI" to spur the worker on, no glory after the battle. But this type of work shows as much loyalty for Nebraska as that of muscle and brawn. You have read the book through, probably missing a class or two to do it. If you like it say so with spirit. If you don't like it, remember that perhaps you didn't do your full share towards contributing to it, and that you yourself didn't want to take the responsibility of doing it.

DON'T QUIT NOW.

Two more days of actual class work! And on top of that, grades for last semester's work are out at last. Do they really come up to the standard you set when you registered for the courses? Does it make you want to do better this time or are you about ready to say, "Well, I guess there's no use trying. I can't make any grades here?" The student who gives up now has the wrong sort of school loyalty. He does not stop to consider that he is injuring the scholastic standing of his University. And this standing, after all, is more important than any athletic or activities records. The University is first an educational institution and then a training school for social and moral development.

This is the last lap—don't break your stride now, or if you lost out a little earlier in the race, get on the inside of the track, get a second wind and make a real dash for the ribbon. Don't lose out on the home-stretch. Remember that not only your reputation, but your Alma Mater's is at stake.

ARE YOU COMING BACK?

Are you coming back to Nebraska University next year, or are you a little discouraged and feel that college life is not all that you expected? Perhaps you have not made as many friends as you would like, perhaps you feel a trifle left out of things. It is hard to find and give free reign to all the ability in the four thousand students in nine months and someone is always crowded back for a while.

There are many ways to show your ability on this campus and if you have not had your chance this year it will come, for real ability will not stay hidden. If you have lost out and been a game loser, you will have full credit for it. Don't stay away from your school because of a few discouragements—decide now to come back with new vigor, determination and interest to work. In that work you will make friends and find your true place as a Husker.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

The closing month of school is nigh. Our books we throw away. Except the most expensive books—For which "Red" Long will pay. We throw away our themes and such, in summer they would bore. But we save the "high grade" papers. So the brothers will get more.
