"WEARIN' OF THE GREEN" TO BE POPULAR WITH FRESHMEN

First-Year Men Will Don Traditional Green Caps Again This Week—775 Headgears Ordered.

Emerald Coverings Are Means By Which Beginners Can Make Acquaintances on Campus of Cornhusker School.

First-year men will again wear the traditional green caps which identify the Freshmen on the University campus until the annual Olympic struggle late in the fall. The Innocents Society announces that over 775 emerald headgears have been ordered and Freshmen men must purchase them before the end of the week. They may be procured as the students receive their credentials in the line to Room 110, University Hall, or at the College Book Store. Sam Brownell has charge of the disposal of the caps.

Only during the war did Nebraska postpone this custom of asking its male beginners to don green caps. Because the Freshmen class, thru its advantage of numbers, usually overpowers the Sophomore class in the Olympics in November, the first-year men at that time earn the right to throw away their light green coverings.

Not a Penalty to Freshmen
The University wants to make the Freshmen see that that "wearing of the green" is not a penalty prescribed for them to "mark" them on the campus, or to brand them as symbolic of the color of the caps. On the contrary, the purpose of the custom is to act as the medium whereby acquaintances may be the direct result.

The green caps serve to line up forces for the big class struggle which absorbs the attention of the school shortly before Thanksgiving recess. If the Sophomores are victorious in these Olympics, the first-year men must continue to wear the caps in snow and cold. If the Freshmen win the fight they are allowed to cast the caps to the winds.

Caps Must Be Disposed of Now
All caps must be disposed of by Saturday, according to those who have charge of the sale. Authorities do not wish to carry them after registration week.

LAW COLLEGE TO MAKE BIG CHANGES

Dean Seavey Plans on Successful Year With New Program of Study.

The Law College at the University has undergone a complete reorganization during the summer months, and programs of study and the college curriculum has been changed. Dean Warren Seavey, formerly head of the Law School at the A. E. F. University, Beaune, France, and who spent five years in China, has arrived in Lincoln to begin his new duties as head of the Law College. Professor H. H. Foster, the other new instructor in the department, taught Property for ten years in Oklahoma University. He will continue to instruct in that subject at Nebraska.

New Requirements.
Mimeographed copies of the new requirements in the Cornhusker Law College are ready for distribution. Dean Seavey announces that classes can be arranged so that they come in the morning, if there is good reason for this arrangement. First-year men in that college will have two hours in the afternoon. This arrangement has been made for those who desire to do work outside school hours.

The whole law course is to be materially strengthened, according to plans from the Dean's office. The regular work will consist of thirteen hours per week including one hour in the General Lecture Course. For first-year students, all courses marked "first year" as required and they must take in addition such courses marked "second and third year" as will bring their weekly hours to fifteen. Third-year students may select thirteen hours from any courses not taken. Second and third year students who have received an average of eighty may take sixteen hours. Students who have failed in a course may take that course in addition to their regular work. Second-year men should have at least eight credit hours and third-year men should have fifty-nine credit hours. Those having less than this amount should take extra courses this year. Approved courses in the College Arts and Sciences may be taken for which one-half credit will be given.

Must Have Text in Class Room.
Each student is required to have a case-book in the class room. To those who are financially unable to purchase the same, the university will lend these at five dollars per semester. Books may be purchased at the University Book Store or rented at the Law School Library. Rented books must not be marked and a failure to return them in a proper order will cause withholding of credit. Students are advised to purchase their own books. Students will be seated in the class room as assigned. A failure to sit in the assigned seat will cause a student to be

PATTY CHALLENGES HAMMOND TO DEBATE

Says He Will Present Proof That Charges Are Unfounded.

Frank D. Patty challenges Le Ross Hammond to an open debate to prove the charges made against the Student Publications Board and himself in a paper distributed on the campus June 1, 1920, under the name of Student Opinion. In his challenge, he further agrees to withdraw his name from the present election if Hammond can show that the statements are true. In case Hammond is unable to prove the charges, Patty demands a public retraction from him of said charges to the students of the University of Nebraska.

This is the substance of a statement issued by Patty Tuesday evening:
"The charges published in 'Student Opinion' against the Student Publications Board and myself are false and ungrounded," declared Patty in a statement yesterday.

Patty's Statement.
"My purpose in challenging Le Ross Hammond to a debate is to bring before the students the facts concerning the Daily Nebraskan controversy. It is an easy matter for one man to run another down by untrue statements, but to prove them by facts is a different story."
"The students are aware that I have made no statement against Hammond; that it has been a case of one side throwing all the mud. It is also generally known that I was elected Editor by the Student Publications Board and that there was no way to force me to resign; that I agreed of my own free will to leave the matter up to a vote of the students because I was confident that the students would not let my enemies prevail over me by means of a majority vote, but that they would judge for themselves."

Carnivals, Teas and Cotillions Part of Co-Eds' Rushing Program

At twelve o'clock today the yearly week of "rushing" will begin for the greater portion of the University co-eds. The sorority members have planned and fashioned many original favors and other attractive details during the summer notwithstanding the stringent rules of the Pan-Hellenic Board in regard to expenditures. Each sorority is allowed one party outside the chapter house, and as a general rule an alumna opens her home for the affair.

Carnivals, cabaret dinners, cotillions, candle-light teas, unique luncheons, and waffle breakfasts are only a few of the numerous festivities which will be crowded into the three short days known as "rush week." So swiftly does one party follow another with intervals for registration that the poor little rushees at the end of the week regard "rest" as one of the dim memories of the past.

Saturday marks the end of "rushing" when pledging in the afternoon is the final step until the coming fall.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The new Editor-in-Chief of the Daily Nebraskan will be chosen this week by popular vote of all students who attended the University of Nebraska last year. Ballots will be cast as the registration fees are paid in Administration Building.

Story Harding, newly elected Managing Editor, will have charge of the publication while the voting is taking place. Results of the election will probably be known early next week, according to Dean C. C. Engberg.

"COTTAGE DORMS" READY TO OPERATE

Accommodations Made for 160 Women in New Campus Structures.

The cottage dormitories, operating under regular University rules, and located along R street on the campus, have accommodations for one hundred and sixty women students. There are six houses in all and they are located at 1220 R, 1228 R, 1232 R, 410 No. 13th, 423 No. 13th and 1345 T. These cottages, but recently furnished by the University, are lighted by electricity and heated by hot water. There are parlors, kitchenettes and laundries in each house for the use of students. Meals will be served at a reasonable rate in a common dining room on the first floor of one of these houses. The price will be announced later. However, no student is under obligation to engage the board. Occupants of each cottage are under the supervision of a resident house director and are expected to co-operate with her in the observance of all house rules.

The University provides a rug, shades, curtains, thirty-six inch beds (each with mattress, pillow and pair of blankets), dresser, study table, study chairs, and rocker. Students furnish their own bed linen and additional covering.

Application for rooms are made through the office of the Dean of Women. These are registered in the order of their receipt but no application will be registered unless accompanied by a deposit of ten dollars which will be credited on the first semester's room rent.

Rooms Engaged for Year.
Rooms are engaged for the entire year and occupants will be released from this obligation only for good reasons. After all rooms have been assigned the names of those who are unsuccessful will be placed on a waiting list, unless the deposit is withdrawn, and as vacancies occur assignments will be made to those in order.

The semester's room rent is to be paid in advance at the office of the secretary of the University before the close of the registration period. Board is to be paid in advance in four quarterly installments for each semester. A refund for board is made only in case of illness extending beyond three days.

Students will be held liable for injury to University property occurring through their agency. The occupants of rooms will be held responsible for all damages within rooms and use of gasoline or inflammable fluids is prohibited. The price of rooms is based upon the size and location of the room, and the number of windows in each room. Thus a room on the third floor and those with but one window may be had at a lower price. The prices range from $36 to $58 per semester for each occupant.

KING FOOTBALL REIGNS AGAIN WHILE CORNHUSKERS REJOICE

Coach Schulte Sounds Call to Warriors and Veterans Have Already Begun Practice on Sawdust-Covered Field.

Schellenberg, Kellogg, Lyman and Russell Will Not Return to Strengthen Ranks of Nebraska's Gridiron Artists.

Old King Football reigns again. The greatest of college sports once more holds sway in the land of the Cornhusker. "Indian" Schulte has sounded the call and his loyal warriors are responding nobly. Although regular practice has not as yet been officially held, from fifteen to twenty veteran Huskers have been daily grinding away on the sawdust-covered field since the first of the week. Schulte announces that official practice will start in earnest today and for the rest of the registration period the Husker clan will assemble for work twice daily.

The number of veterans reporting is very encouraging to the coaches. Among those already on hand are Captain "Bill" Day, Fred Dale, Monte and Wade Munn, Farley Young, Clarence Swanson, Richard Triplett, Richard Newmann, Ed Lamphere, Clarence Cypreansen, Harry Howarth and Floyd Wright. Herb Dana and John Pucelik are expected to arrive today. From the Freshman squad of last year come Martin, Doty, Weller, Schoepel, Hoy, Hartley, Moore, Wenke, Nelson, Thompson and others who will make very welcome additions to the Varsity aggregation.

Loss of Veterans.
The loss of several veteran men has served to cast a little gloom over the Husker camp but this will be dispelled by new material coming on to take their places. Schellenberg, Kellogg, Lyman and Russell are four of last year's players who will not be back in school this year. All of these men were Varsity players and would have made strong bids for berths on the 1920 eleven. Lyman at tackle was a man of all-American caliber and his place will be hard to fill. The failure of Russell to appear leaves the coaching staff in a quandary as to material for the kicking department. The Omaha lad is no mean kicker and Schulte was depending on him to step into Dobson's shoes in the matter of punting. Russell is now in South America and will not return to the States until Christmas or later. He expects to be in school in time to participate in basketball.

Just who the coaches can develop into a first class boot artist is a matter of conjecture. Garden, who played with the 1919 Yearling team, is not in school this year. Verne Moore, another Freshman of last year, shows promise as a punter and may be worked into this position.

Coaches Schulte and Schlesler are both anxious to start the tedious task of grinding out a football team and the players, too, are ready for a season of hard work. Schulte says that most of the men are showing signs of a summer of hard work and in a short time should be in excellent physical condition. Two weeks from this Saturday is the opening game of the season and it will be no small task to whip a team into shape by that date. Although Washburn will probably be a fairly easy team to beat, Schulte is taking no chances and wants to win every game.

"Indian" Schulte is ready to tackle the job of perfecting a 1920 Cornhusker football team that can beat Notre Dame, Kansas, Michigan, Aggies, Rutgers, Penn State and Washington State.

HAMMOND EXPLAINS POSITION IN DISPUTE

Former Managing Editor Issues Statement in Regard to Election Controversy.

In connection with the referendum vote on candidates for the editorship of The Daily Nebraskan, which is being held during the present registration week, Le Ross Hammond, Managing Editor of the paper last year, has issued the following statement:

Hammond Statement.
"The referendum vote which is being taken this week, is held at the request of students of the University of Nebraska in a regularly called case meeting last spring. Although he unannouncedly wish of the students at that time was for an immediate special election, the Chancellor and Board of Regents and the members of the Student Publications Board voted that a vote of all Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors, taken at the end of the year, would be held."

ORGANIZATIONS TO HELP NEW STUDENTS

Rooming and Boarding Houses Posted at Y. M. C. A. Rooms in Temple Building.

The University Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., working in conjunction with other student and faculty organizations, have made elaborate plans to care for the large number of incoming new students. The securing of boarding and rooming houses, the operation of a check stand during registration week, where hand baggage may be left temporarily, of an employment bureau for the aid of those wishing to work part time and provision for recreation during the spare hours of afternoons and evenings that time may not drag too heavily, will make the early semester problems of the first year men or woman of considerable less consequence than has been the case in some years in the past.
