NEBRASKA UNIVERSITY TEAMS TO COMPETE

"Ag" Teams Represent Cornhuskers in Inter-State Contests.

Five boys' and girls' teams which will represent Nebraska at big agricultural fairs and shows were selected during the state fair.

Donald Hulbert, John Munn and William Devigne, three Waverly boys, excelled in competitive live stock judging at the fair and thereby drew the honor of representing the state at the international live stock exposition at Chicago next winter.

Lyle Ashby, Alfred Fringer and Lawrence Means, composing calf club team from Webster county, will represent the state at the interstate fair at Sioux City, Ia., September 20 to 24. The inland poultry team, composed of Fay Galentine, Edgar Stone and Mary Chatterton, carried off the honors at the Nebraska fair for demonstrations in live stock raising, and will also go to Sioux City. Representing the work of boys' and girls' clubs in housekeeping, the Kearney bread making team captured the top honors and will go to Sioux City to compete with towns from other states. This team is made up of Beulah Sitorius, Sada May Macauley and Anna Macklin. The Douglas county boys' and girls' dairy team, Claus Plambeck, Pearl Schomer and Harry Schomer, will represent Nebraska at the national dairy show at Chicago.

About 250 boys and girls had exhibits at the fair or competed as members of demonstration teams. About 110 boys and girls exhibited pigs. Norval Clark of Beaver Crossing carried off the grand championship prize at the pig show.

DR. POUND ANNOUNCES NEW BOOK ON COLERIDGE

Doctor Louise Pound, professor of English at the University has an interesting volume, just from the press of an eastern publisher of classics under the title: Coleridge's The Rima of the Ancient Mariner, and other poems. This small book contains the most characteristic of Coleridge's poetical work, including, with The Ancient Mariner, Kubla Kahn, and Christabel, some of the less famous but, in some respects, more interesting glimpses of the poet's muse, together with introductions and notes, critical and biographical, by Dr. Pound. The book is designed for class work and is graced with an appendix, which contrasts to the common characteristics of its class succeeds in being both enlightening and attractive in matter and manner.

BOSTON MAN TO SPEAK ON TROUBLES OF WORLD

A truly modern exponent of religious faith is Ernest G. Adams, young banker of Boston, and former Harvard football player, who will speak in Lincoln Monday evening, September 27, under the auspices of the local Unitarian church. Mr. Adams is the active chairman of a campaign headed by Ex-President William Howard Taft, and is just now filling the role of "courier" in a national religious and educational campaign.

Mr. Adams is filling speaking engagements in a number of middle western cities, and will speak in Lincoln at the request of the religious liberals of this section. His address bears the title, "Harnessing Religion to the Troubles of the World," and will stress the unrest of today, and the manner in which it may be simplified by a modern, workaday religion.

SPECIAL VESPERS IN WOMAN'S HALL TUESDAY

All Freshmen girls should be present at Y. W. C. A. Vespers at Woman's Hall, five o'clock Tuesday. This meeting has been planned especially for them but will prove an inspiration and help to all girls.

There will be talks by Ada Stidworthy, Mary Brownell, Faye Curry, Marian Mote and Hattie Hepperly. A solo will be given by Georgie Sandusky.

These Vespers take place throughout the year and every meeting is interesting and educating.

WHY COLLEGES SHOULD SUPPORT THE RED CROSS

When America went into the war there was an immediate rush of college men to take their places on the firing line. By fall 150 institutions reported that 13,520 students were in the army or navy, and 1,650 had gone into non-military activities. Whereas the undergraduates for the most part went into active service, the alumni, or those of them who for one reason or another were unfit for army or navy, went into the service of the relief organizations.

Hundreds of college men and women went into the Red Cross. In fact, this organization was largely made up of college personnel. They went into it because it was constructive, because it gave them a chance to apply practically those ideals which are the ideals of America, and which the training they have received in colleges and universities has taught them to honor and cherish.

And then the war ended. A good many people thought that the Red Cross would end too. But disease and suffering did not end with the war. Health and good citizenship are as important today as they were two years ago. And so the Red Cross work goes on. It still stands for the ideals of America—the ideals which it is the privilege and the duty of every University man and woman to further and cherish.

It is the duty and the privilege, therefore, of every college student to stand back of the Red Cross, to aid it in every way possible in its after-war campaign for a healthier and happier America. The Annual Red Cross Roll Call will be held November 11-25.

DR. GRAY UNABLE TO RETURN

Professor of Philosophy Cannot Leave Europe Until Second Semester.

Dr. Louis H. Gray, recently appointed Professor of Philosophy by the Regents of the University, is unable to return from Europe to take up his work at the University until the second semester. Dr. Gray has been government expert in Persian and near-eastern affairs with the United States delegation at the Peace Conference and is now with the Paris embassy. He has advised Dr. H. B. Alexander, head of the Department of Philosophy, that he has yet work which he must finish up in London before he will be free to return to America.

Dr. Gray was the United States delegate to the Union Académique International which met at Brussels in July. The delegates were entertained at the Royal House and at the Hotel d'Ville, he writes, where they met the famous Burghermeister Max who made his memorable stand when the Germans invaded Brussels.

NO FRESHMAN LECTURE GIVEN TUESDAYS AT 11

Through a misunderstanding registration week some students were registered for Freshman Lecture meeting at eleven o'clock Tuesday. As there is no section meeting at that time students so registered must change either to the division meeting at nine o'clock Tuesday or to the one meeting at five o'clock Thursday.

Lists showing the seats of each member of the class will be posted on the bulletin board in front of the Administration Building and in the Temple. Students are asked to find out the number of their seat before coming to class. Those who do not have classes immediately preceding the Freshman Lecture will be able to insure their being seated with less confusion if they will come early.

Attention is called to the fact that all students who received an "F" or an "A" will be required to change such grade to passing before graduation.

H. H. Kirsch, '18, is treasurer of the Albert Snyder company woolens, of Philadelphia.

CO-OPERATIVE BUSINESS IS NEW "AG" COURSE

The Nebraska College of Agriculture is now giving a two-year course in co-operative business management, in order to help supply trained men and further the co-operative movement among producers. Among the subjects required in the course are accounting, marketing, grain grading, typewriting and English. In regard to the course Dean E. A. Burnett of the college said:

"Co-operative companies often experience considerable difficulty in securing competent managers. This is perhaps the greatest obstacle to their success. Few business men who have business training have a knowledge of co-operative principles and methods, and not all are in sympathy with the co-operative movement. The majority of the men most interested in co-operation are neither trained accountants nor salesmen.

"The manager of a co-operative elevator must not only be a man who can weigh a load of grain and quote a price, but he must be able to explain to Jones why his wheat grades only No. 3, and therefore brings a lower price than his neighbor's wheat which grades No. 2. The man who becomes skilled in grain grading in a laboratory and in explaining the why, has an advantage over the man who picks up a knowledge of grading from handling grain. He becomes a skilled grain man in less time. The same principle applies to grading live stock, potatoes and apples.

"The college trained man has of course a great deal to learn when he gets into actual business, but he has an advantage over the man without previous training. A man learns quicker under a trained instructor than by experience, because he meets problems more rapidly.

"Marketing is a productive utility and the marketing of farm products is no less important than planting, cultivation and harvesting crops or judging live stock. The marketing function must be performed economically for the benefit of both the farmer and the city consumer, and the man who directs a co-operative enterprise should have a good knowledge of the marketing process from field to factory and from factory to consumer."

DEDICATION SEPT. 24 NEW AG BUILDING

laboratory is extra well equipped with necessary apparatus, containing four large tables for microscopic work, bacteriological manipulations, etc. Opening into the laboratory are storage lockers, incubators, refrigerator space, machine room, sterilizing room, auxiliary laboratory and rear vestibule. All the buildings are fireproof.

In addition to extensive investigational work in animal health, the department gives students in the college and school of agriculture instruction in the prevention and treatment of animal diseases, and also maintains a consultation service which is patronized by hundreds of live stock raisers of the state every year.

The live stock breeders of the state are given much credit for the new plant and Charles Graf, president of the Nebraska Improved Live Stock Breeders' Association, will be one of the speakers at the dedication.

Mrs. Charles D. Cook, formerly Hattie Gardner, '18, is teaching in Torrington high school. Beattie Whitney, '19, is also teaching at Torrington, in the science department.
