Missouri Meltscham.

I'll pay a tribute first of all to my good old corn cob pipe. It's stuck by me through thick and thin and it surely does smell ripe. Expensive pipes I've bought by the gross and found them idle dreams and now this corn cob comforts me and soothes my hard-worked jeans. In a friendly game it's just the thing to help me win the pot, it don't look like much but just the same 'tis the best friend that I've got. At times, by chance, I want to be alone to think and dream then the smell of my pipe drives the others away and floats in a drifting screen on which I see her dear sweet face and those lovely auburn curls—my idol indeed, a true pal in need and the queen of all the girls. When I think of the paragon points of my pipe I rave and rave without end so I advise all the idle boys who have the dime to spend to smoke Java coffee in their pipes and try to act like men. They'll soon get sick and ditch their pipes and never smoke again.

PLUCK.

When things are running cross-wise and the engine's out of gear,

When the road is rough and rocky and the sky is far from clear,

When you're plainly up against it and you're surely out of luck,

That's the time to use your courage and to show your stock of pluck.

Most anyone can travel on a road that's smooth and clear,

And anyone can get there if he only has to steer,

But when the motor's balky and you're running in the muck,

If you're ever going to get there you must call upon your pluck.

There's no thrill in easy sailing when the skies are clear and blue,

There's no joy in merely doing things which anyone can do,

But there is some satisfaction that is mighty sweet to take

When you reach a destination that you thought you'd never make,

So when everything's against you and your plans are going wrong,

Just face the situation and keep moving right along—

Don't sit down and wail and whimper, even though you may be stuck.

You're not absolutely helpless if you still possess your pluck.

THIS WEEK AT THE THEATRES

CURTAIN.

This week is to be a stellar one for the movies and other theatres, as every one is running special attractions.

The Colonial will feature the film version of a novel of by-gone days—"Seven Oaks," "Jes Call Me Jim" with Will Rogers playing the lead. The Rialto will run "Sweet Lavender," the latest Mary Miles Minter picture. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and will conclude the week with "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath," well known as a musical comedy success. The Lyric will show, all week, Mary Pickford in "Suds," a washlady story, and the Liberty will entertain its audiences with several vaudeville acts and "Remodeling Her Husband," a Dorothy Gish feature. The Sun will have two complete changes of program during the week—Dorothy Dalton in "Extravagance," "The Career of Katherine Bush," widely read as a novel, and William S. Hart as "Square Deal Sanderson."

Tuesday evening only, the musical comedy, "Cheer Up, Mable!" with a chorus of twenty tempting dancers, will be at the Orpheum. Beginning Wednesday, there will be the usual vaudeville program with Georgia Campbell as the star act, in a clever skit, "Gone Are the Days."

to score in the fifth and sixth periods. Many thought the game over at this point but the Varsity second-string men and the Freshmen resumed hostilities for two more periods. The Freshmen had everything in their favor. When the final whistle blew the Freshmen had counted two touchdowns while the Varsity had been unable to score.
