

STUDENT LAWYERS TO HEAR H. H. WILSON

H. H. Wilson, well known Lincoln lawyer and former professor in the University of Nebraska Law College, will speak to the student lawyers in the Law Building, Friday, October 1, at 11 o'clock, at the second general lecture period. His subject will be "The Study and Practice of Law."

All lawyers in the city have been invited to hear Mr. Wilson. Every student in the Law College is required to take this general lecture course and one hour's credit will be given for attendance each Friday. An outside speaker will be secured for each lecture period.

Last week Dean Warren A. Seavey delivered the first lecture to the students. He told of the duties of each student to the college, and he said it was his belief that the student should place college first and school activities second.

A number of co-eds were noticed in the general lecture room during the first talk. Several Nebraska girls who are registered in other colleges have decided to take electives in the Law College and have asked to be permitted to listen to the general lectures.

WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION PLANS CAMPING PARTY

The Women's Athletic Association met in Ellen Smith Hall Wednesday evening. A camping party for all W. A. A. girls for the week-end of October 8 to 10 at Horky's park, Crete, Neb., was planned. A poster will be put up on the W. A. A. bulletin board which all girls who will be able to go camping—should sign. If enough girls sign two cabins will be reserved. The campers must bring their own blankets.

A big party given by the W. A. A. for all University girls is being planned for the afternoon of November 5.

Marjorie Barstow, president, announced the election of Beattie Epstein as secretary and the appointment of Helen Palmer as concessions manager.

W. A. A. dues which is one dollar a year must be paid before the second semester.

BADGER STAR TO COACH AT COAST SCHOOL

Walter D. Powell, All-Western Center to Tutor Stanford Eleven.

The far west is going to have some 100-proof, bang-up Big Ten style of football inserted into its midst this fall at Leland Stanford, Jr., University, which has deserted the "Old English" game for the kind that made Camp Randall, the Yale Bowl, and Stage field famous.

The tutor of this brand of pigskin play will be Walter D. Powell, all-western center on the last conference championship team that Wisconsin boasted, who has gone to the California institution, where he has engaged as director of major sports. He is personally conducting the coaching of the football team.

Powell learned his football A B C's and a few X Y Z's under "Big John" Richards at Wisconsin with "Germany" Schultz, famous Michigan line-man, on hand to teach him the mysteries of the forward wall. He was the pick of Big Ten centers his last year on the team and in 1915, when he went to Western Reserve in Ohio as coach, showed that he could teach as well as play. He gave Reserve a team far above its average and after two years was getting his eleven groomed for real big contests, when the war broke and he was made an army athletic director.

Returning from service Powell went to Montana State College last fall and whipped together a football team that among other accomplishments tied the University of Montana, the first time in history the college team had received as much as an even break. His consistent work as an athletic mentor attracted the Stanford authorities.

The last draft the far west made on this section of the United States, from a football standpoint, was when Washington sent out a call for Gil Doble of Minnesota. All Gil did was respond with an eleven that went through a flock of seasons without a defeat.

Doble, in fact, made the northwest corner topheavy from a football angle and gave it considerable bulge over California and Stanford, farther south, who only recently abolished the old kicking game and swung to the kind that guarantees a thrill a minute. The Californians even had to send for Oregon last fall when they wanted a team to represent the west in a championship clash with Harvard at Pasadena, in their own midst; and this among other things, caused Stanford to turn eyes east for a coach who would perhaps lead them into a place in the big "finals" this fall.—Daily Cardinal.

BUSINESS COURSE PROVES POPULAR

The registration in the College of Business Administration is larger than ever before. This semester alone 588 students are enrolled which almost equals the total registration of both semesters last year, that being 607.

For this semester the statistics are as follows:

Special adults	31
Fourth year	43
Third year	73
Second year	145
First year	296
Total	588

The class enrollment in the Department of Economics and Commerce is 2,300 students. This includes students registered in other colleges and those students who are taking several Economics courses.

The department is well pleased with this registration and are making plans to accommodate more next semester. They feel that the students are just beginning to realize the great advantages offered in their college and to avail themselves of the opportunity placed before them.

FOLLOW FATHER'S FOOTSTEPS.

Miss Chaiken, alumni secretary, requests all students one or both of whose parents were students in the University to register at Alumni headquarters in the basement of Administration Building. The Alumni Association desires a complete record of the sons and daughters of University grads who are following in the footsteps of their parents on Nebraska's campus.

CO-EDS MEET AT GET ACQUAINTED TEA

Several hundred co-eds were the guests of Miss Amanda Heppner, Dean of Women, at her annual "get acquainted" tea held at Ellen Smith Hall yesterday afternoon. The girls were met by Dean Heppner and her assistants, Miss Rush and Miss Selbeck. Others on the reception committee were Mrs. P. J. Thompson, hostess of Ellen Smith Hall; Miss Margaret Feddy, Miss Claire McKinon and Miss Hertha Wyman, head of the Home Economics Department.

Mrs. Samuel Avery and Mrs. Herbert Brownell poured tea which was served by several of the upperclassmen.

During the afternoon Miss Bierkamp gave a piano solo and Lucile Kline, '20, sang several selections. The house was decorated throughout with baskets of mock roses.

BEN CHARRINGTON TALKS AT COMMITTEE LUNCHEON

The third luncheon of the finance committee of the Committee of Two Hundred was served yesterday in the Red Room of the Y. M. C. A.

The reports of the returns of the drive were turned in and instructions and inspiration was given for the next day's work. They will meet again today at luncheon in the same place.

Mr. Ben Charrington, an alumnus of our University and former coach and Y. M. C. A. president here, addressed the meeting and gave a very interesting talk, as well as throwing out a great challenge for the workers to carry on this work, which has nobly begun and which, he said, is the consummation of the hopes and desires of all of those who have been connected with the religious work in this University.

ALL-UNIVERSITY PARTY PREPARATIONS COMPLETE

Last minute preparations are under way for the first All-University "get-together" which will be held in the Armory at 8 o'clock Saturday evening, October 1. The Washburn team will be the guest of honor. The main room of the Armory will be decorated in autumn leaves and University colors will be displayed by the use of pennants and streamers.

Bleachers will be constructed on only one side of the room in order that the maximum amount of floor space will be available for dancing. The seats will be erected for those who do not care to dance.

Splendid Program Promised.
A program consisting of skits is being worked out by the committee. It is rumored that cider will be served by the refreshment committee.

All-University "mixers" are part of Nebraska's most cherished traditions. The first party of the year is always expected to surpass those which come later in the semester.

A new system of checking wraps will be put into effect Saturday evening. The check room will be on the south side of the Chapel. It will eliminate the cramped conditions which have accompanied parties of other years when many articles of wearing apparel were stolen.

Chaperons for the affair will be Dean and Mrs. P. M. Buck, Professor and Mrs. L. E. Aylesworth, Dean and Mrs. C. C. Engberg, Mr. and Mrs. Don Heffley, Professor and Mrs. E. H. Barbour, and Professor and Mrs. J. P. Senning.

WATER COLOR EXHIBIT NOW IN ART GALLERY

The exhibit of water colors now on view in the Art gallery was assembled by the American Society of Water Color Painters and is considered the best water color collection on circuit. This collection was shown at the Iowa state fair before its shipment to Lincoln. There are seventy-eight paintings in the exhibit, which is of great range. Many of the water colors approach the vividness of oil paintings. A number of oil paintings by Dolph, Irving, Wiles, Sherman and Fischer are to be shown during the exhibit. It may be mentioned that the painting "Opalescent Days," recently purchased by the Nebraska Art association, and a portrait done by Miss Hermine J. Stellar, are also on exhibit.

AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL OPENS OCTOBER 8

Nearly 500 boys and girls are expected to enroll in the University of Nebraska School of Agriculture which opens at Lincoln, October 8. Boys seventeen years old and girls sixteen years old with at least an eighth grade education may enter this school. Boys entering for the first time must have had at least three months of farm experience. Short courses in agriculture and mechanical training will be given by the state beginning some time in November. For further information write the principal, School of Agriculture, University Farm, Lincoln.

DELIAN LITERARY TO MEET THIS EVENING

The Delian Literary Society will hold its first open meeting Friday evening, October 1, in the Temple Building, Faculty Hall, at 8 o'clock. There will be an opportunity for old students to renew acquaintances and make new ones.

Learn to Be Charming as you Learn to be Wise

At no period in a girl's life are attractive, correctly chosen clothes of such paramount importance as during that happy four years spent in college halls.

We're all judged by appearances, and no eye is so critical—no standard so exacting—as those of the college "set." Smart clothes proclaim your status—determine your social position—reflect your taste.

As education is a preparation for life—for one's place in society and the affairs of the world—so inculcate now the taste for beautiful, correct attire. It will prove one of your greatest assets through all the years to come.

"The House of Youth" Suits and Coats are veritable aristocrats of the fashion world—fascinating, transforming. They are carried by the best shops all over America. Young women everywhere have adopted them as the only ready-to-wear costume of true character and distinction.

JAYHAWK FRESHMAN REPORTED EXILED

It is not alone in congested cities that mysterious disappearances occur; from our midst a Freshman student has absolutely sunk from sight! Cheerful, no less vague than others of his class—happy, he was last seen in a first-year rhetoric class. No traces indicating foul play have, as yet, been discovered, but grave fears for his welfare are entertained. Only a single clue to aid in solving the mystery, has been discovered; a theme, apparently written in cipher and liberally revised and adorned with red-inked numbers and queer symbols may throw some light on this dark affair.

Some of his sympathizing and discerning friends hint that he may be found in one of those unmentionable underworlds—the sub-freshman rhetoric classes! It is to be hoped that no such answer to the baffling mystery will be forthcoming. Some timely warnings have been issued from time to time by the faculty. Now, personal safety can only be assured by your alertness for the agents of this underworld—the comma splice, "I seen," subjectless sentences and others not so famous in select circles of rhetoric-dom. Freshmen, beware!—Daily Kansan.
