THE WEARING OF THE GREEN.

Freshmen at the University of Nebraska have privileges which the lower classmen at practically all other colleges are deprived of. This fact has not been impressed on the minds of the class of 1924 at school as it should be. The students were first asked to buy green caps as is required of each incoming class. Many responded willingly, a number were shown the necessity of wearing the green cap by the older members of the organizations to which they belonged, while a few remain upon whom the green cap will have to be literally forced. The cadet company at the State Farm passed resolutions to the effect that each and every Freshman at the Farm campus must wear a green cap. The city campus is fast coming to this point. The green cap is not a disgraceful piece of apparel. In fact, it is a symbol by which "ye shall know them" and a mark of distinction to its owner. The Olympics are not far away and the man who has the right class spirit, not to say Nebraska spirit, should be depended on to don the colors of his clan.

POST-ELECTION PROPAGANDA.

The end of the elections should end all party feeling and should not establish factions and faction hatred. University students are above such a thing or should be and the "bigness" of a man or woman is shown by the way in which they are able to take defeat. Certainly, defeat is a disappointing thing to meet up with, but everyone is at some time or other in this life, disappointed. The biggest thing is to forget all enmity toward the winning candidate and to throw your whole-hearted support at his back. The truly big man or woman is the one who will back the winner for the good of the whole and that spirit should be more prevalent than at present. He that would amalgamate factions and thereby be a benefit rather than a hindrance to the school is the man who is big enough to throw his support to his former opponent and thereby break up clique antipathy.

MORE TENNIS COURTS.

There are few schools in the Middle West that can claim the same rating in athletics as the University of Nebraska. Nebraska has established herself as the peer of the Missouri Valley in football, basketball, wrestling and baseball.

Yet Nebraska is behind in one respect. There is not a dinky, little school in the Middle West that has not better tennis facilities than Nebraska. The lack of tennis courts at this school is a crying shame.

Nebraska Wesleyan, with a total enrollment equalling less than one-third of the Freshman class of the University of Nebraska, has several times the number of tennis courts available to its students than Nebraska has.

Look at the other state universities—Kansas, Iowa, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas, Minnesota—all have Nebraska beaten in this respect. We are dragging behind. Why?

Where are all those promised tennis courts—promised several years ago and repromised each year, until it has become an old story?

Nebraska should have at least a dozen tennis courts to place herself equal in this respect with her peers.

LET'S ALL SAY "HELLO."

Last year a day was set aside for each student in the University to say "Hello" to every person that he passed. That day was a success. A spirit of true campus democracy marked that day and for many days thereafter students got a little more out of their associations because of the acquaintances made in this way.

This year such a day may be set aside. But why wait until then to greet the classmates that you pass as you go from class to class? Nebraska, dominating the entire Missouri Valley because of its physical prowess, should also lead her neighbor colleges in a spirit of friendliness.
